IN MEMORIAM

ST. MARIE—In loving memory of Alexander St. Marie, who died Oct. 4th, 1925.

This day brings back the memories, Of our dear one laid at rest. We often sit and think of him, When we are all alone; For memory is the only friend That grief can call it's own. Days of sadness still come o'er us, Tears in silence flow.

For memory keeps him ever near us, Tho' he died one year ago. —Missed by Sons and Daughters

"Certainly I am," replied the speaker.

"Well, by gad, I ain't, an' ye don't get my vote. I ain't goin' to have my lad comin' home from school and axin' me for money for a shave."
