THE MOVIES

One of the modern inventions which has evidently come not only to stay, but also to get more and more popular, is the moving picture.

There is such a demand for my series," said he, "that they are booked up for a considerable period, with the result that I am forced to make other arrangements to increase the facilities.

All lands and all incidents (such as that of the glorious Durbar) and even wild beasts as they appear and act in their native lairs, together with an infinity of other things, can now at a small price be seen with actual realism, and we of this generation are fortunate indeed in having such a moderately priced and often educative form of diversion.

CELEBRATING THE FOURTH In Peterboro and other Canadian cities residents from the United States celebrated July 4th in various ways with Canadian friends as guests.

Much bitterness existed for a long time after that between the two peoples, but time is a great healer, and it may be safely affirmed that at the present day the relations of both have never been more cordial, while Canadians welcome those who cross the border in order to live here, just as Uncle Sam for many years has held open arms to many thousands of Canadians.

At this distance of time it is not hard to realize why the break occurred. They had shackles; we haven't, not then realize the true and the broad attitude towards those countries of hers then characterized under the somewhat contemptuous term of "mere dependencies."

With the growing respect and admiration which the Eagle and the Lion and the Unicorn now have for each other, it would be a courteous thing for the Uncle Samites to alter that clause in their oath of allegiance which specifically pledges the taker to renounce Great Britain. It was framed at a time of passionate ire, and is certainly altogether at variance with modern day feeling, and the splendid relationship which now exists between these two great peoples.

SOME GRIT

THE STABLE FLY

The Christian Guardian points out that with all our learning there are yet a great many things we do not know. But the hope in the situation lies in the fact that we are coming to know more every day.

Everyone has heard of infantile paralysis, and there are not many of us indeed who have not had a more or less intimate personal knowledge of its terribly disastrous consequences.

Infantile paralysis is a summer disease, occurring chiefly in the late summer and early autumn. This fact, of course, suggested the thought that it might be due to an insect carrier.

At Council

(Continued from Page 1) Public Works, here this afternoon. It was too late to formally acknowledge the receipt of the invitation, but as many members of the council as can make it convenient to do so, will accept it.

Mrs. Lena Torry asked for remission of taxes on some of her property which has been vacant for more than a year. This is a matter for the Court of Revision to deal with.

Harvey Yake complained that his property on West street had been flooded several times as a result of the storm sewer becoming blocked.

There were some further requests for remission of taxes. Brewster Heyd, acting for the L. E. & N. Railway, asked for the remission of taxes from the second instalment on a number of houses on its right of way which it had purchased and torn down or removed.

Mrs. M. E. Littlewood of Hamilton asked that a portion of the taxes due on a house owned by her at 57 Ontario, avenue, be remitted, as the place had been vacant for six months. Her request went to the finance committee for consideration.

A Variety of Letters Hunt and Colter wrote, calling attention to the fact that the emergency ambulance was badly in need of some repairs, and the buildings and grounds committee will investigate and report.

Rev. G. W. Latimer, rector of Trinity church, presented to the church sewer connection, there being no sewer in front of the church. The board of works will deal with this problem also.

A request from the Children's Aid Society that it be given another $300 of the $900 grant made to it earlier in the year, was granted.

William Glover, bread inspector, reported that during the last three months he had weighed a large quantity of bread, but had failed to find a short weight loaf. On making his inspection he had found all of the bake shops in a fairly good condition.

When the accounts came up for consideration, Ald. Ward wanted to know whether or not the poles being received for the Hydro-Electric department were costing more or less than the estimated price. He was satisfied when told that the particular poles being used had never been estimated on, as after the estimates were received it had been decided to substitute them for cement and other costly poles.

By-Laws Conflict. From what transpired at last night's meeting of the City Council it is quite evident that the city by-laws are in need of some revising. There are at least two of them which conflict and until someone takes up the matter to investigate there will be no telling just how many there are which do not jibe.

There are at least two of them which conflict and until someone takes up the matter to investigate there will be no telling just how many there are which do not jibe.

But City Clerk Leonard has a long memory and from its secret recesses he unearthed the fact that while the building by-law was passed in the dying hours of 1911, there was another by-law, passed in 1909, and numbered 1952 that permitted a person to keep a whole barrel of gasoline on his premises and that it had never been repealed.

The aldermen could not believe that such a thing was possible, but the gallant major trotted down stairs and dug the rusty by-law for their enlightenment. Sure enough it was right. And as the old and forgotten by-law covered every point Ald. McFarland desired to cover in his, he quickly pigeon-holed his.

Two By-Laws Passed. Two by-laws were passed, however,
