CONCERNING LAJOIE

Here is Lajoie's wonderful batting record as a major league player.

Year-Club	Ave.
1890 Phillies	.323
1891 Phillies	.323
1892 Phillies	.323
1893 Phillies	.323
1894 Phillies	.323
1895 Athletics	.346
1902 Cleveland	.376
1903 Cleveland	.355
1904 Cleveland	.391
1905 Cleveland	.329
1906 Cleveland	.355
1907 Cleveland	.299
1908 Cleveland	.289
1909 Cleveland	.324
1910 Cleveland	.384
1911 Cleveland	.365
1912 Cleveland	.363
1913 Cleveland	.335
1914 Cleveland	.358
1915 Athletics	.380
1916 Athletics	.246

The record shows that in twenty-one seasons of playing in the major leagues Lajoie made 2,243 base hits. Napoleon Lajoie started his major league baseball career as a member of the Phillies in the month of August, 1890, and quit as a member of the Athletics last October.

The swarthy native of Woonsocket, R. I., who has weathered twenty-one years of life in the big show, is still thrilling fans, surprising prophets and reviving the love for the game in Toronto, where the Nap evovts around second with the same rymth that marked his long-vaied career in that greater realm, where he soon expects to send some of his charges in quest of fame and fortune.

Few critics are willing to admit Lajoie is through as a player. Still fewer are ready to question his ability to land a team. He has already worked wonders with the Maple Leafs and his presence on the ball field has done much to inspire and convince Barrow that he is still the attraction that made turnstiles work overtime in his heyday on the Athletics and Phillies.

Nap was forty-one years old last September. For efficient service in the major leagues only "Pop" Anson and Hans Wagner can approach his record. He has never been a burden to any manager. He has always showed contentment regardless of the position of his team in the standings and he was never known to have incurred the enmity of fans or umpires to any extent that has lasted but for a moment.

Lajoie went to Philadelphia from Fall River of the New England League in the month of August, 1896. The Phillies, then managed by Billy Shettsline, paid $1,200 for Phil Cleer—Lajoie was thrown in for good measure. Unheralded, Lajoie was placed in right field and made good at once.

The next year he was an acknowledged star. Lajoie remained with the Phillies until 1901, when he jumped to Connie Mack's Athletics. Larry played wonderful ball for the Athletics, but the next year John I. Rogers won a court decision and Lajoie had to stay out of the jurisdiction of Pennsylvania courts until the trouble between the National and American leagues was settled.

Mack sent him to Cleveland, and he was the star player of the Naps for a long term of years. When Mack sold Eddie Collins to the White Sox in December, 1914, he brought Lajoie back to Philadelphia. Larry played good ball in 1915 and 1916, although he was not as agile as he used to be. Realizing that he was slowing up, he asked Connie Mack at the close of last season for permission to negotiate with a minor league club as manager.

Mack did not stand in his way. He told Lajoie he was a free agent, and Larry soon began to receive offers from American Association and International league clubs. When Joe Kelly severed his connection with Toronto, and the Frenchman showed his willingness to manage the club, Jim McCaffery nor Ed. Barrow hesitated to strike another real blow for revival of the game in the International league.

OLD ROMAN SENDS CHECK
Chicago, June 1.—Charles A. Comiskey, president of the Chicago American Baseball Club, last night sent a cheque to the Red Cross for $2,243.54, representing 10 per cent. of the receipts of nineteen games in which the White Sox participated recently. Comiskey previously had sent $2,109 to the Red Cross.

National League Triumphs Over American at Toronto Yesterday

CALLED IN THE SIXTH

Six Innings of Snappy Ball in an Exhibition Encounter

Toronto, June 1.—Toronto fans had an opportunity of sizing up major league baseball yesterday, and two teams of major league ball players also had a chance of judging whether, or not the Queen City was ripe for the big leagues when over four thousand patrons of the game watched the Boston Braves, champions of the world, in 1914, and representing the National League, defeat the St. Louis Browns, the first while delegates of the American League, at the Island yesterday, by the score 4 to 3. The contest, which was an exhibition one, was called at the end of the sixth inning because of rain, but during the time of play sufficient of the major league variety was shown to demonstrate that both teams possessed class.

The game was featured by some very timely and clean hitting, fifteen safe bingles being collected, including in which was a home run, a three-base hit and four two-base knocks. Twombly was the first man up and he doubled to right centre, subsequently scoring, while Shotton, heading the batting list for St. Louis, dropped one into our short right field bleachers for a home run. Fitzpatrick received a great hand when he led off in the second for the Braves and just to show that he could still climb he singled prettily to right field. Four double plays accounted for runs which might have otherwise been recorded. Maranville, the speedy little shortstop of the Braves, staged one unassisted double play in the last half of the first inning when he caught Jacobson's high fly and doubled on Sisler, who had tried to make third. Kopechky also had a double-play unassisted when Hale drove a liner at him and he caught Johnson off the bag, who was unable to get back in time.

In the Braves half of the sixth there was some snappy ball shown. Smith having grounded to short was out at first, but Fitzpatrick landed his second hit of the day through centre and went to third on Traggesser's double to left. Allen hit to Paulette and reached first safely as the St. Louis second baseman's throw to the plate was too late to catch Fitz. Twombly then worked a squeeze play, grounding to Hamilton, but Traggesser had almost scored before the pitcher got the ball. Marvinville struck out, retiring the side, but two runs had been scored and were sufficient to win the game it developed later. In this half, the Browns tried hard to even up matters, but Allen kept them down to one run on Austen's three-bagger and Jacobson's single.

At Rochester.
Hersche, recently sold by Rochester to Montreal, defeated his old team-mates here yesterday afternoon 4 to 1, in eleven innings. Hersche figured largely in the victory. His long single drove in Montreal's first run in the second. He doubled in the eleventh after two were out, took third on an infield error, and kept right on running, and scored when Wendell muffed the throw from Rodriguez at the plate. Score:

R.H.E.
Montreal	0010000000—4 7 2
Rochester	00000001000—1 5 3

Batteries—Hersche and Howley; Lotz, Schacht and Wendell.

At Baltimore.
Newark made its first appearance of the season here yesterday afternoon, and lost 3 to 2. Thormahlen pitched fine ball, but one clean hit being made off his delivery. Score:

R.H.E.
Newark	010000100—2 8 1
Baltimore	00000000x—3 10 3

Batteries—Enzmann, Pennington, McGraw and Egan, Thormahlen and Schaefele.

At Richmond.
With two men on bases, Thomas drove the ball over the fence in the ninth innings yesterday, Richmond defeating Providence 8 to 7. Two fast double plays featured the fielding. Score:

Providence	101040010—7 13 4
Richmond	000420002—8 10 2

Batteries—Schellenbach, Schultz and Maery; Adams Hoffman and Roynolds.

POLES ENRAGED

By Courier Lensed Wire.

Geneva, May 31, via Paris.—The Polish state council has decided to suspend its official functions, as a protest against the hostile policies of the German authorities toward Polish national aspirations, according to a communication from Warsaw, received by the Polish agency at Lausanne. Two well known Polish deputies have been arrested, says the despatch, and the Germans seem by their severity to be driving the Poles into the arms of Russia.
