NOW ON TRIAL AT EAGLE

Dan Carolan Up for Shooting Joseph Muldowney.

The Prisoner Claimed Muldowney Insulted His Wife - Killing Took Place in December.

The case of Dan Carolan, charged with the killing of Joseph Muldowney, better known as "N. A. T. Joe," is now being tried at Eagle. The prosecution closed its side of the case on Saturday evening, and the defense was begun this morning.

The killing took place at Rampart on December 17th, Carolan had been out on Little Minook and when he returned home was told by his wife that she had been feloniously assaulted by N. A. T. Joe. Carolan took a 41-calibre Colt's revolver and went to the store of the N. T. & T. Co., where Joe was working. When Carolan entered Joe was dangling his legs over the counter, and a man named Crawford was some 20 feet away. Carolan saw a man come in but he was so muffled up that he could not be recognized. He drew his revolver and fired at Joe, who rolled over the counter to get behind it. The man fired a second shot, both taking effect, one below the left nipple and the other near the base of the spine. Joe died two days later.

Carolan went to the barracks and claimed protection. He said he had killed a man on account of family troubles, and was afraid of being lynched. A month later the deputy marshal arrived and arrested him. Before death Joe said he did not know who shot him. When told it was Carolan, and what his motive was, Joe said "The man must have been crazy."

GONDOLFOS VS. SOLDIERS

Yesterday's Baseball Game at Eagle an Interesting One.

The Whitehorse got in at just before noon today with the excursionists from Eagle. They were very tired-looking many of them, but all vowed they had had a splendid time and heartily praised the steamer's officials and everyone connected with the management of the excursion. The start was not made until long after midnight, at which time the L. & C. dock and shed were crowded with people cheering and singing snatches of song to the accompaniment of the Standard band, which played nearly all the way to Fortymile. Some pleasure seekers were taken up at that point, but there were no berths to be had, everyone having been sold at Dawson; not that berths were of any consequence, for no one went to bed. Pursuer Sharp, however, was up night and day during the whole trip, and doing everything possible for the comfort and entertainment of the party.

Eagle was reached at noon and soon after the whole of the excursionists sought the parade ground, where a good game of baseball was put up by the soldiers and the Gondolfo team. Company E., Seventh regiment, organized its baseball team in the spring of 1899, and since then has defeated every team it has played with, from Fort Sheridan to Benicia, Cal. It has played the Eagles 22 games and only lost a couple of them. That they were defeated yesterday was owing, so they claimed, to the fact that the team had had no chance to practice recently, many of the men having been out on the trails and their catcher, Sergeant Strickland, having only just come out of the hospital after a two months' spell of pneumonia. Long certainly proved to be a formidable pitcher, and in the course of his good steady play he struck out no less than 13 men. He received the most hearty applause when he put out a man on third base. He was fielding a grounder when he slipped and fell, but managed to make a very pretty throw to first while on the ground. The feature of the game put up by the Dawson boys was the batting of Doyle. He was certainly at his best yesterday. The score was as follows:

The visiting team were so well pleased with the treatment they received and the clean game of ball put up that they insisted upon bringing the Eagle team back with them to play a return game here. This match will take place at the barracks at half past three tomorrow. To defray the expenses of the visitors the Dawson boys are to give a minstrel show in one of the theaters on Friday evening.

Desertion "Sot" On.

One of the deck hands on the Susie was arrested Friday at the instance of Consul McCook upon the charge of desertion. All the N. N. Co. boats are American bottoms and crews shipping from St. Michael sign for a round trip voyage. Considerable trouble has been experienced in the past by men deserting as soon as they reach Dawson and in this instance it was resolved to make a test case of it. According to the international law any ship putting into a foreign port may appeal to the authorities at such port to prevent any desertions on the part of the crew. The man who was used as the example for others is still confined in jail doubtless but will be released after a few days' imprisonment. The company has succeeded in showing that a contract duly and properly entered into at St. Michael can be enforced here.

U. S. Army Officers.

Brigadier General George M. Randall, U. S. A., commander of the department of Alaska, with headquarters at St. Michael, is in Skagway, with his staff and will arrive in this city sometime this week en route to the lower river. The various posts between Fort Egbert and St. Michael will be inspected by the general while on his way down the river.

BEAUMONT'S TROUBLES

Too Much Housekeeper Overtakes Former Dawsonite.

The case of T. H. Beaumont, on trial before Judge Wickersham at Eagle, was concluded on Saturday evening and Beaumont was convicted of unlawfully cohabiting and living in a state of adultery with a married woman named Rose Mullen.
Beaumont happened a hotel at Dawson but in consequence of charges that he had dispensed liquors to Indians he was twice refused a license. While in Dawson he met Rose Mullen, who was living with her husband here. He said he needed a housekeeper and offered her $5000 a year and said she would have "very little to do." On this she accepted. He took her over to West Dawson and gave her money to maintain herself while he went outside to get a stock of liquors. He returned and took her down the river to Circle on a scow, and from there to Fort Yukon on a small boat. There he was indicted on the crime charged and arrested at Circle.
On the way up the river in custody he said he was a "Southern gentleman" and was therefore on parole. But he sneaked away one day and gave the soldiers a long hunt. When brought to Eagle he was in irons.
The jury was out eight hours before they arrived at a verdict of guilty. The woman was also indicted but not prosecuted.

RUSHING THE WORK

On U. S. Telegraph Line From Valdes to Eagle.

A gentleman recently returned from Eagle brings information in regard to progress being made on the telegraph line being constructed from the Yukon river overland to Valdes by the United States government. From Eagle coastwise the wire is up as far as the head of American creek and on Champion creek the trail is cut through and the poles are up ready for the wire to be strung. Within a week 80 miles will be ready for operation. On the Valdes end 125 miles are completed, 75 of which have been in operation for some time. A great deal of delay has been experienced this summer on account of insufficient pack animals being on hand to carry forward the wire and other supplies as fast as needed. Some unknown disease attacked the mules last winter and despite the efforts of the veterinary a large number of them died. A new train of twelve animals arrived yesterday on the Selkirk and will be transhipped today on the Sarah. Their arrival at Eagle will be of very great assistance in pushing the work and every effort will be made to have the line completed by the time winter is fairly begun, though it is extremely doubtful if it can be accomplished. Of the total length of the line, 450 miles, 250 are yet to be constructed, including the most difficult portion that across the mountains where there is a long stretch of timberless country, the poles for which will have to be packed a considerable distance. The work is being done entirely under the direction of the war department.
