To-day's Royal Funeral Procession—King Edward Will Open Parliament in Person.

London, Feb. 1.—It is officially announced that King Edward has definitely decided to open parliament in person, on Feb. 11.

London, Feb. 1.—The program of the Earl Marshal, the Duke of Norfolk, already published, does not deal with the Windsor ceremony, in connection with which much still remains to be done. Late last evening the Earl Marshal issued further instructions. These announce that, since the letters of indication were printed, the hour for the ceremony at St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor, has been changed from 1 to 2 o'clock p. m., that special trains for invited guests will leave Paddington Station for Windsor at noon, that the train for the members of the diplomatic corps will leave at 12:30 p. m., that trains bearing the royal remains and those who have participated in the procession will leave at 1 p. m.

NO AFTERNOON PAPERS.
The managers of the London afternoon papers have decided unanimously to suspend publication to-morrow (Saturday), so that those who are not able to witness the funeral scenes will have to wait until Sunday, for a description. Such a suspension, except on Good Friday is almost without precedent. It will serve to emphasize the solemnity of a great occasion.

A DAY OF NATIONAL MOURNING.
To-morrow will be a day of complete national mourning, not only in London, but throughout the provinces and the colonies. There will be a general closing of shops and a suspension of business as well as the holding of memorial services. The King has ordered that the same men who will carry the coffin to-morrow in the procession shall bear it to the mausoleum at Frogmore on Monday. It appears that after her death Queen Victoria was arrayed in her royal robes with all her foreign orders and decorations. Over these and across her breast was laid the ribbon and Order of the Garter. Her bridal veil was then placed over her head and face.

TEN MILES OF WARSHIPS.

A despatch, dated Cowes, Jan. 31, 9 p. m.—A glistering crescent of light stretches this evening from Cowes to Portsmouth. It consists of ten miles of warships, the pick of the British, French and German navies. These lie at anchor, ready to take part in to-morrow's ceremonies, when the navy will pay a last magnificent tribute to the Sovereign whose reign was marked by the greatest naval progress in the history of the nation. It will probably be four o'clock to-morrow afternoon before the Alberta with the royal coffin leaves Cowes. She will steam inside the single line, and then enter the passage formed by the levantine. This evening she lies at Trinity pier. The omens for fine weather to-morrow are not propitious.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES

IN CHATHAM'S SCHOOLS.

To-day the Death of Our Late Sovereign and the End of Her Era is Being Commemorated by the Students.

The local school boards have put into being the suggestion submitted by The Planet, and this morning was observed in our educational institutions in fitting memorial doings, in honor of our late Sovereign.

The morning was devoted to appropriate educational analysis of Victoria and the Victorian era, while in the afternoon the schools dismissed in accordance with the occasion.

To-morrow it is likely that as many of the students as possible will be present and take part in the civic memorial exercises.

McKEOUGH SCHOOL.
The exercises at McKeough school were very pleasing and appropriate. Each class individually took up the study of the life and reign of Victoria, and the interest taken by the students was most marked.

At the conclusion of the classes appropriate music and songs were contributed. It was decided to refrain from singing "God Save the King," until Monday, when the remains of the Queen should have been laid to rest.

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

At the Central school this morning the teachers of the different rooms took the life of Queen Victoria and thoroughly explained it to the pupils.
At recess all the pupils and teachers gathered in the corridors and sang appropriate and patriotic songs.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

At the C. C. I., this morning was devoted in the several class rooms to talks and

FARO BANK

WAS RAIDED.

Windsor Chief of Police Gathers in the Participants in a Local Gambling Den.

Fourteen Arrests Were Made and Games Confiscated—Syme Heavy Fines.

Chief of Police Willis, of Windsor, made a raid yesterday afternoon on the gambling room in the McHugh block, Sandwich street, and arrested fourteen men. The inmates were very much surprised at the visit of the officers and attempted to give excuses for their presence in that particular room. The chief turned a deaf ear to all entreaties and marched the whole crowd up to the police station. The raid was done very quietly and in broad daylight.

Chief Willis did not tip off the proposed raid to any of the officers until it was time to start. Sergt. Nash and Jackson and Officers Reid and Elliott accompanied the chief to the building. Some of the men went around to the rear of the building while the chief, with two men, mounted the front staircase. The officers tolled up two pairs of stairs and went along a dark hallway until they reached a room in the rear of the building. The door was thrown open by the officers and one look convinced them that they had struck what they had come for.

Seated around the room was a number of men, while several were engaged in playing faro bank. The chief did not deem it necessary to formally introduce himself to the assembled company and quietly signaled to the officers to take into custody the inmates of the room. His instructions were carried out and a visit was next paid to adjoining rooms where several other men were located. They were also asked to accompany the officers, and the whole fourteen were marched up Pitt street to the police station.

Magistrate Bartlett was waiting for the chief's return and no time was lost in bringing the men before him. They filed into the court room from Chief Willis' private office and the magistrate ordered them to range themselves in front of his desk. The order was obeyed and, when the group became settled, the vicinity of the magistrate's desk looked like a penitentiary bench at a camp meeting. The men gave the following names:—W. R. Beaman, William Allen, William Kingsley, Albert Fitchdale, Chas. Turner, Abraham Lavigne, Edward Stewart, all of Detroit; George McKee, James Forbes, Barney Trembley, James Cotten, Ed. Gascos, Chas. Freeman, of Windsor.

FIVE WERE FINED.

They were all accused of being frequenters of a common gaming house, to which Beaman, Allen, Kingsley and Trembley pleaded guilty and were each fined $30 and $25 costs. The others claimed they were not in the room and their trial was postponed until next Tuesday. Bail was accepted for their appearance.

The most important arrest was that of W. J. Morgan, who pleaded guilty to running the gambling room. He was fined $200 and $4.20 costs.
After the raid was made Chief Willis left an officer in charge of the room, with instructions to confiscate all gambling concerns he could discover. As a result of his search a tray load of different kinds of roulette table, a faro bank, card tables, poker chips, cards, etc. These were all taken to police headquarters and placed in the cellar of the city hall. They will keep company with a number of the tables which were seized in the same room some years ago.

The raid was made on the information of Wm. Clarkson, a Syracuse young man, who claimed he had been robbed of $1,300.

"Yes, she wouldn't speak to the fellow when she met him."
"Had he offended her?"
"I should say he had. His society reporter called her one of last century's bodes."
