Keep to the Point

It was once remarked by Professor

Huxley, after falling into an indiscre-he is sure to blunder. The truth of the observation will hardly be questioned unless by the very few, if there are any such, who never say more than there is necessity for saying. Most of us acknowledge, if we review our own experience in the matter, that we have frequently erred by saying what needed not to be said. But why is it that people so persistently commit this mistake? In the ordinary small talk of the household, or of society, it matters little whether it is committed or not.

But when serious matters are in ques-

Affection of a Beaver.

A beaver dying of a broken heart!

That sounds incredible enough, to be sure, yet one famous beaver, owned by W. J. Broderip, the naturalist, actually pined away in homesickness for his ab-hearted little fellow was called, was a derip tells us in his "Leaves from the Note Book of a Naturalist," and he had not been long in his London home when he set about building a dam for himself in the city house as cheerfully as if he had been in his native haunts.

Plenty of dainty titbits from the kitchen found their way to Binney through the hands of the housekeeper, who took gleat interest in him, and speedily won his affection. He showed his devotion to her in many pretty and amusing ways. At last, on the removal of his master from town he was taken to the Tower of London, and put in commodious quarters, under the care of a kind attendant. Everything was done to make Binney happy, but he lost all appetite and took no interest in his surroundings. Sweetmeats were brought, but he would not touch them, and only grew daily thinner and weaker. At last the attendant, in despair, took Binney back to the housekeeper with whom he had lived since the earliest days of his captivity. At sight of her the little creature gave a cry of delight, and dragged himself to her side.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

When your child - whether it is big child or little baby-suffers from stomach or bowel troubles of any. kind, is nervous, fidgety or cross and doesn't sleep well, give Baby's Own Tablets. This medicine is the quickest and surest cure-and the safest, because it contains no opiate or harmful drug. No matter how young or how feeble your little one is the Tablets can be given with a certain-ty that the result will be good. For very young infants crush the Tablets to a powder. Mrs. Geo. W. Porter, Thorold, Ont., says:—"My baby had indigestion badly when he was about three months old. He was constantspeech, or in correspondence, a case is frequently spoiled by irrelevance or rely hungry and his food did him no good as he vomited it as soon as he say is comparatively easy; to leave off when you have said it is difficult, and took it. He was very thin and pale and got but little sleep, as he cried nearly all the time, both day and night. He was constipated; his tongue coated and his breath bad. Noth ing did him any good until I got Baby's Own Tablets, and after giv-ing him these a short time he began the other or both of these causes will explain the inability to "keep to the to get better. His food digested properly; his bowels became regular, he began to grow, and is now a big, healthy boy. I always keep the Tablets on hand and can recommend them to other mothers."

"Foot Elm" is a purely vegetable white powder, which has a wonderful cooling, soothing and healing action on the feet. It prevents blistering and chafing of the feet, rests tired, hot, aching feet, does away with all sweaty odors, and just works like magic in relieving painful corns, bunions and ingrowing toe-nails. Price 25 cents a box of 18 powders at all druggists. Beware of counterfeits and imitations which injure the feet and ruin the shoes. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Oat.

WASH DRESSES.

They Are Taking the Place of Shirt Waists This Year, The shirt waist this year has given way to a number of charming wash dresses. These little gowns are made without lining and are trimmed with many tucks and figures of lace. The favorite materials are glace linen, dainty cotton canvas and pique. Pique is a stiff material and requires to be softened, so the waist should be daintify bloused and trimmed with lace insertion from which the under material has been cut away. Pique and white glace linen dresses are some times made on the "frocks and frills" style, with a full box plaited coat not

Cotton canvases or etamines are very handsome trimmed with coarse ecru lace and made up over white or contrasting shades of lining. A simple summer gown is shown in the sketch. The material is white glace linen, and it is trimmed with bands of blue and white linen. The blouse opens over a front of tucked batiste. The wide collar is edged with the blue and white linen and fastens with a bow in front. The skirt is prettily trimmed with three gored ruffles saved so many lives in the past, headed by a strapping of the blue and white goods. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR COUNTRY WEAR.

Useful Coat and Skirt Suits Are Made of Delaine. Never was there a better materia than delaine for wash blouses and skirts for country wear, because it does not shrink, while nearly all flannels do a little. Delaine is an excellent substitute for flannel, especially in hot weather. There are some smart little coats and skirts made in delaine, but they are not things to be attempted by the amateur. The coat must be made by a first class tailor or dressmaker. The short sack has taken the place of the bolero and will continue to look charming until cheap sales have made it too

Golf skirts are worn longer than ever and now barely escape the ground by an inch or so. As a consequence they are made of lighter materials, and the newest are laid in wide tucks stitched down until within a few inches of the bottom.

Malt Breakfast Food

After Tests and Trials is Pronounced to be the Most Healthful and Best of all Breakfast Foods.

Before the advent of Malt Breakfast Food, a vast number of break-fast cereals (called health foods) were put upon the market. To-day, many of these are only known to the grocer; others are making a hard struggle for existence. When Malt Breakfast Food appeared, its many excellent qualities were sufficient to make it an immediate home necessity. Tests and experiments proved it to be the most healthful of all breakfast grain foods. It possessed merit and excellence; it became the favorite in thousands of homes, and will ever hold its place. Your grocer sells it.

Anecdotal.

While preaching from the text: "He giveth his beloved sleep," a minister stopped in the middle of his sermon, gized upon his dozing auditors, and said! "Brethren, it is hard to realize the wondrous unbounded love the Lord appears to have for a good portion of this congregation."

The "Green Bag" tells of a lawyer who was about to furnish a bill of costs. "I hope," said his client, who was a baker, "that you will make it as light as possible." "Ah," said the lawyer, "you might perhaps say that to the foreman of your establishment, but that is not the way I make my bread!"

While James McNelll Whistler, the eccentric American painter, was in a London shop one day a customer rushed in, and, mistaking Mr. Whistler for a clerk, exclaimed: "I say, this hat doesn't fit." The artist eyed him for a minute, and then replied, scornfully: "Neither does your coat, and I'll be hanged if I like the color of your trousers. An attorney named Else, rather diminutive in his stature, and not particularly respectable in his character once met Jekyll. "Sir," said he, "I hear you have called me a pettifogging scoundrel. Have you done so, sir?" "Sir," said Jekyll, with a look of contempt, "I never said you were a pettifogger, or a scoundrel, but I said you were 'little Else.' "

When Bishop Potter was asked, the other day, what he thought of woman suffrage he made the diplomatic reply: "My dear madam, I have gotten away beyond that; I am trying to make the best terms with the sex that I can cbtain." This brings to mind the mot of William M. Evarts when asked by a lady if he did not think that woman was the best judge of woman. He replied: "Not only the best judge, madam, but the best executioner.'

"S. Paul" is the name above a chemist's shop in a London suburb. It arrested the attention of a convivial gentleman returning home in the small hours, and he rang the bell vigorously. The chemist's head appeared above. "What is it?" he called out. "Want speak t' you ver' pert'clar," said the convivial one. "What is it; d' you want some medicine?" "Want speak t' you ver' pert'clar." The chemist hastily dressed, came down, and opening the door exclaimed impatiently, "Well now, what is it?" "I want know—did you ever get answer to that terr—terr'-ble long epistle you wrote to Thes'-J. Pierpont Morgan makes his boast that he never has been interviewed, and declares that in the last seven years but one interviewer ever has been able to approach him. This was on a recent trip to Europe, when a representative of the London "Times" would not take "No" for his answer. "Tell the 'Times' man my time is worth ten pounds a minute," at last said Morgan. "The 'Times' man says he'll take two minutes at that," came back the reply. The interviewer handed Mr. Morgan twenty pounds, talked just two minutes by both their watches, did all the talking himself, and rose to go on the instant. "Why did you want to see me?" Morgan asked in curiosity. "Oh, I wagered one hundred pounds that I would interview you personally, that's ail," was his reply. Morgan congratulated him on his enterprise, and dismissed him within the third minute of his call. When asked, the other day, if he kept the twenty pounds, Morgan said: "Yes, and I haven't earned money in a long time that gave me the satisfaction that twenty pounds did." Lincoln, even as a young man, was always ready and resourceful on the platform. In the new book, Lincoln in Story, it is related that in 1836 Lincoln made a telling speech in an election campaign for the State Legislature of Illinois. George Forquer, an old and respected citizen, who had changed his party, and almost simultaneously had been appointed to a fat office by new friends, was present. Just at this time Mr. Forquer had completed the finest house in Springfield and over it erected a lightning-rod, the first in that region. At the conclusion of Lincoln's speech, Forquer took it upon himself to reply, commencing thus: "This young man will have to be taken down, and am sorry the task devolves upon me. He then proceeded to answer Lincoln's argument in an able and fair but patrenizing manner. At length Forquet ended and Lincoln had the floor to re-"The gentleman has seen fit," said he, "to allude to my being a young man, but he forgets that I am older in years than in the tricks and trades of politicians. She is the autocratic queen of a large circle of admirers at Florence, where she has an ideal home, and an extraordinary collection of dogs. Oulda does not like England or English life and food, and not infrequently at London dinner-tables has asked for cold roast beef and beer, that being the level, she says, on which she places English cookery.

"I thought you were given a job in the public service because of the work you did for the party." "I was, but I quit." "Why?" "Why! Why, hang it all; they're getting so blamed particu-iar now that they want a fellow to work for his salary."—Chicago "Past."

The English "Society for the Prevention of Consumption," presided over by the Prince of Wales, was recently addressed by Sir William Broadboat, who stated that it was definitely known that every case of consumption began with a germ communicated from some other case. There is no such thing as inherited consumption. There may be local weakness which tends to consumption, but the germ has absolutely to be planted in that weak spot before consumption can ensue. This ough, to comfort thousands of people who have "weak chests" or lained victims of this dread disease. All that is needed to bid absolute defiance to this deadly scourge, is to be able to strengthen the weak lungs, and build up a strong body. The answer to this need is found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It so purifies the blood and increases the blood supply, that disease is thrown off, and the weak organs are nourished into perfect health, which defies germs of every kind. People, given up by doctors, emaciated, blacking at the lungs, with obstinate, lingering coughs, are being cured every day by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery." It is a strictly temperance medicine containing no alcohol , whiskey or other intoxicant.
