IMPROVEMENTS MADE TO THE SOMERSET

Since taking over the control of the Somerset Hotel, near Wellington, Mr. Joseph Carr has gone to considerable expense in improving the premises with the result that today the Somerset is one of the best equipped road houses on the line of the Island Highway between Victoria and Alberni on the west coast and Cumberland and Campbell River on the east shores of the Island.

The alterations which Mr. Carr has made to the Somerset include the erection of an addition containing a number of bed rooms which have been fitted in the most modern style, being comfortable and affording splendid accommodation for guests. Mr. Carr has also installed an up-to-date office next the bar in the room formerly utilized as a sitting room. The offices have an open entrance onto Comox Road and are separate and apart from the bar room entirely. With the alterations all completed, Mr. Carr is in a position to cater to the wants of his guests and his enterprise in expending a considerable sum of money will no doubt make the Somerset more popular than ever with the travelling public.

FUNERAL OF LATE RITCHIE MUNRO

The remains of the late Ritchie Munro, the local miner who met a tragic death in Protection mine on Thursday morning last, were laid at rest yesterday afternoon in the Mountain View Cemetery, Vancouver, services being conducted by the Rev. Mr. Ross, Presbyterian minister.

The deceased had many friends among his fellow workmen who would have liked the funeral to have taken place in Nanaimo in order that they might have an opportunity of paying their last respects to one whom they all respected, but on account of Vancouver being the home of relatives it was decided that the deceased be laid to rest in that city.

The funeral took place from the parlors of the Mount Pleasant Undertaking Company, Eighth Avenue and Main street, the pall bearers being Messrs. James Robertson, John McBeath, Alex. Rowan, W. Kerfoot, D. Campbell and John Colquhoun.

There was a large attendance at the funeral, among those present from Nanaimo being Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Rowan and Mr. James Robertson.
