

Rheumatism Cured

Mr. Byron Crandell

"In July last I was taken with rheumatism in its worst form. Local physicians treated me, but their remedies did not give me any relief. I was advised to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial, which I did. I took great pleasure in stating that two bottles gave marked relief. Continuing regularly with the medicine, I am now cured. While afflicted I was frequently obliged to use crutches. I cannot recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla too highly. BYRON CRANDELL, engineer at Water Works, Toronto Junction, Ont.

SWEET REVENGE.

It was revenge of the sweetest kind that the London Alerts took out of the Galt ball tossers on Tecumseh Park yesterday afternoon. Comparatively speaking, it was a worse wallop than the Alerts received in Galt on Saturday last, when the score stood 22 to 9. But it showed clearly that Billy Reid's collection can play baseball around any team in the league when they are in good condition.

Yesterday's game drew about 1,000 people to Tecumseh Park, and on the return they all sung the praises of Mike Carney, London's left-paw twirler. For Carney was in elegant trim, and not a run was made off his curves. Hiscott occupied the box for London for two innings, and as Lyons stepped to the plate and pounded out a two-bagger, every person looked serious—really serious. Cockman followed, and both he and Lyons scored and the Alerts stepped to second. In their second Galt repeated the dose with hits by Johnson, Lyons and Cockman, Lyons scoring one of the two runs on the slow return of the ball from right.

This finished the scoring as far as Galt was concerned, for Carney replaced Hiscott, and the farthest Galt ever saw afterwards was third base, and that on only two or three occasions. The first two batters, Lyons and Cockman, were the only ones to reach base, and on account of the appreciation displayed by the spectators they were repeated in the eighth. Player, Carney and Sheere reached the bags in the sixth, and with none out, Thorpe hit to second, sending Player in, but forcing Sheere out. Thorpe stole second, Hiscott landed in center, taking only one base himself, but sending Carney and Thorpe over the top. Hiscott retired at first, Hiscott went to second on the hit, stole third while Burnett was sleeping, and was nipped at the plate while trying to tally on a bluff of Farnsworth.

The opening of the eighth looked rather cloudy, for Carney came to bat and went out easily. The sun began to shine when Sheere hit along the left line, and the batters seemed to be the Americans on July 4 when Thorpe landed the leather between center and left. Caldwell and Spalding were both looking, but didn't move for the ball until it landed, and in the meantime Sheere was bolting for home. He reached there safely, the ball when thrown in striking Umpire Latham instead of Catcher Lyons. There was no end of kicking over this accident, but the umpire was running the show and his word went and Sheere's run counted. Hiscott and Wood in turn made hits, Thorpe went to third and was forced in by Burnett giving Farnsworth a base on balls. Burnett became very wild, and on throwing to third, when Jones was absent from the bag, he allowed Hiscott and Wood to go home. He next allowed Farnsworth to score on another bad throw. Burton and Tierney retired at first, and the side was out.

Thus the Alerts made three in the sixth and five in the eighth, and with three in the first five innings made their total 11 runs. This was increased one in the ninth by Carney.

And all the time this fun for London was going on, the players were kicking against the umpire, who happened to be Latham, a member of the Tecumseh in Fred Goldsmith's time. Latham, however, was conversant with baseball rules, and he let Galt know it. He untied the game very impartially, and the Alerts would make a good stroke to secure him of future accusations. All together the game was an exhibition of good fielding, only three errors being credited to each team. The full score will show who helped to make the 12 runs and 14 hits off Burnett:

THE OAR.

AT HENLEY. Henley-on-Thames, July 10.—Press and public are a unit in praise of the Argonaut crew, who yesterday agreed that a better stroke or better steering crew was never witnessed at Henley. All the sporting papers, too, have more or less to say in commendation of the Canadians. The Sporting Life says: "Far and away the best race of the day was that of the London Rowing Club and the Argonauts, of Toronto. The manner in which the Canadians held on against the tenacity of a terrier. Their burst of speed was worth traveling 100 miles to see." And of "Bush" Thompson's effort it says: "The manner in which he went after Guinness was a caution, and his pluck gained many rounds of applause."

In the second trial heats for the diamond skulls today, Hon. Rupert Guinness defeated R. H. Beaumont, of the Burton-on-Trent Rowing Club, with ease.

In the second trial heats for the stewards' challenge cup, the London Rowing Club's crew, that yesterday took the first heat from the Argonauts, defeated the New College, Oxford, four.

In the fourth heat for the Diamond skulls Guy Nickalls finished three lengths ahead of F. H. Thompson, in 9 minutes and 34 seconds.

Henley-on-Thames, July 11.—There was a larger crowd than usual assembled here today to witness the final heats on this the last day of the Henley regatta. When the Eaton College crew and the crew from St. John's College, Oxford, were sent away to the final heat for the ladies' challenge plate, at the third stroke Eaton's No. 2 caught a crab and lay at the bottom of the boat for some moments unable to rise. The Oxford boat was a couple of lengths ahead when the Eaton coxswain, H. C. Sells, cried "Ease all!" The Oxfords then returned to the point amid frantic applause, in which the umpire and others in his launch joined, while the Eaton rattled the oars in the rowlocks in approval. "Bravo, Oxford!" was heard on all sides, and the cry "No more Cornell!" was heard from several boats.

The race was then started again, and the Eaton crew won as they liked by eight lengths.

who are now here have decided to bring two crews to Henley in 1896.

The crew of the London Rowing Club defeated the crew of the Thames Rowing Club today in the final heat for the stewards' challenge cup.

In the final heat for the grand challenge cup, the Trinity Hall, Cambridge, Rowing Club crew, which defeated Cornell yesterday, beat the New College, Oxford, Boat Club crew, and thus captured the trophy.

CRICKET.

DOCTORS DEFEATED.

The notices "Back in ten minutes," or "In the country," which were displayed at a number of office doors yesterday, indicated to the initiated that the first of the annual series of games of cricket between the doctors and lawyers was being played at the asylum. Today some of the legal notices are covered with notices of victory, but those on the medical doors have all been removed. Various things "did it." The lawyers bowled too well, the doctors batted without vim, the luncheon was excellent, the band played during the second inning and surgeons cannot operate to music. Dr. Jones didn't play. Dr. Smith played better than was expected and made the other lawyers feel that they were doing better during the match and refused to go. These, "and more than these," account for the result, but the lawyers, who expected defeat, are as jubilant as Dr. Jones. Interest was added to the game by the presence of Dr. Beemer, who took his old place as captain and played with his accustomed spirit. The batting on neither side was what it has been, with the exception of Mr. H. C. Pope, who was equal to the best performances in these matches. The medical eleven sustained a serious loss in Dr. Ross's removal from London, and yesterday they were further weakened by the unavoidable absence of their crack bat, Dr. Williams. The pleasures of the day were enhanced by the sweet playing of the asylum band, under Dr. Simpson's capable leadership, and the teams were placed under an obligation by the umpiring of Rev. F. W. Terry and Rev. Mr. Dan, a visiting Irish cricketer of note, and by the scoring of Mr. George B. Sippel. We append the score:

GOING AWAY

To spend vacation, it is desirable as well as wise to take with you one or more warm dresses in case a spell of cold weather should be met. Those who have traveled much know what this means. They know that for the greater part of the time they are likely to require dresses of light, cool material, but experience has taught them the necessity of being fully equipped with warm dresses for cool and rainy weather emergencies. We only require to mention this. Our readers will catch the idea that it is uncomfortable as well as very much out of place to be unseasonably attired. It won't cost much to get either kind of dresses from us. We have them for all kinds of weather. But today we want to speak about a line of Dress Goods you should see and purchase of before

ALDERMANIC BOODLING.

Serious Charges Against City Councilors in Chicago.

Chicago, July 11.—At the request of State Attorney Kern, Judge Tuthill has issued a call for a special grand jury which is to investigate charges of boodling in the council. The information was given to State Attorney Kern by H. H. Kohlstat, of this city. The evidence was secured through a hole in the ceiling of Ald. Finkler's office in the Chamber of Commerce building. The charge will be that certain aldermen attempted to procure bribes in connection with an ordinance introduced some time since into the council providing that the citizens of Chicago should be given pure ice. The terms of this ordinance were such that it would have driven a number of the ice companies of the city out of business, which they naturally used all possible efforts to defeat it. It was brought to the ears of the managers of the ice companies that a certain clique in the council will consent to smother the ordinance for a consideration of $50,000. The ice companies seemingly fell into the trap, and while conducting negotiations arrangements were made to entrap the aldermen.

The United Choirs.

Large Crowds Attend the Festival Concerts Here.

Owen Sound and Exeter Carry Off the Honors

Without Opposition—The Presentation of Batsons.

There must have been between 3,000 and 4,000 people on the grand stands at Queen's Park yesterday to hear the open air concert of the United Choirs' Musical Festival. The concert stand was filled and the open one to the north was crowded within hearing distance. With the race track seeing accommodation had been provided for several hundred singers, the platform being arranged so that the basses faced the tenors, the sopranos occupying the middle space, with the children. All the vocalists were on tiers of seats, the London Symphony Orchestra and the Waterloo Musical Society Band being stationed on the level platform in the center. Canvases had been stretched over the performers' stand to protect them from the sun, but the wind was too violent to permit it to remain. Umbrellas were plentiful, however, and the cool breeze tempered the heat to a pleasant degree, though sometimes the gusts would carry the melody away from the spectators at a distance.

In the absence of Sir John Carling, a Te Deum was sung, and was conducted by Ald. Armstrong. The hymn, "Unchangeable, Almighty God," was given by the combined company, led by Mr. Frank Ruse, of Exeter. The Exeter choir opened the "concertation" with four selections, "The Departure," "The Nightingale," "The Vale of Rest" and "The Singers." Mr. Ruse directed the baton. Their execution was highly creditable, and evoked well-merited applause. "The Singers," a piece of their own choosing, was so well given that Mr. Winter asked them to repeat it at the evening concert.

The Owen Sound male chorus sang "Home, Sweet Home." It proved a well-balanced and well-trained organization. The only conspicuous defect was a slight sharpness in the tenor. The surroundings were not conducive to the highest class of work. The other numbers were:

Patriotic Hymn—"The Maple Leaf"—400 picked school children and band, conducted by J. L. Barron.

Hymn—"Jesus, Lover of My Soul"—United choir, band and orchestra, conducted by W. C. Barron.

Anthem—"With full voiced choir".....
