didate who can be elected and defeating the nomination of La Follette I possible.

They see a reason for Crane's coming out from cover at this time in the result of the recent election in Massachusetts, the unsuccessful fight on Governor Foss having turned partly on national issues and support of the administration. The improbable feature, however, is that letter writing is not one of the methods of the junior Massachusetts senator, who is the champion "pussy-foot" politician of the age.

Further developments are sure to be interesting. Everything suggests that when the politicians gather in force for the regular session of Congress a season of unparalleled strategy will be inaugurated, in which mere law-making will be a secondary concern. The La Follette forces present growing enthusiasm and are worried more by Roosevelt than by any other person or anything else. The administration forces also have found their greatest intere t in Oyster Bay and the Outlook office in New York, but they exhibit no signs of serious fear over the vigorous campaign the La Follette men are making. They are assuming Taft's renomination is assured.

"I am a literary man whose nervous energy is a great part of my stock in trade, and ordinarily I have little patience with breakfast foods and the extravagant claims made of them. But I cannot withhold my acknowledgment of the debt that I owe to Grape-Nuts food.

"I discovered long ago that the very bulkiness of the ordinary diet was not calculated to give one a clear head, the power of sustained, accurate thinking. I always felt heavy and sluggish in mind as well as body after eating the ordinary meal, which diverted the blood from the brain to the digestive apparatus.
"I tried foods easy of digestion, but found them usually deficient in nutriment. I experimented with many breakfast foods, and they, too proved unsatisfactory, till I reached Grape-Nuts. And then the problem was solved.
"Grape-Nuts agreed with me perfectly from the beginning, satisfying my hunger, and supplying the nutriment that so many other prepared foods lack." I had not been using it very long London, Nov. 27.—Of all countries South Africa will welcome most heartily an aerial post. Its two great business centres, Cape Town and Johannesburg, are a thousand miles apart, and the railway, owing to its narrow gauge, is slow. The special boat train takes 36 hours and the mail train 48 hours. If an aeroplane could cover the distance in even 24 hours, the benefit would be very great, Attracted by this possibility, Capt. Livingston, who was until lately manager for Mr. Grahame Vhite, has sailed for Cape Town, taking with him two Bleriot monoplanes. In a fortnight the well-known airman, Mr. Compton Paterson, and Mr. E. S. Driver, also a very competent pilot, will follow. They will, by exhibition flights, give South Africa her first experience of real flying in the latest types of machines, and as soon as arrangements can be made with the Union postal department they will be prepared to undertake the Cape Town-Johannes-burg service.

The ambulance came then and Dr. Wright examined the man with the horrid chills, read what he had written, and then: "He has," the doctor said.

They hurried the mute to Lincoln Hospital and the physicians there said that O'Connell was far advanced in the disease. He could not live, they thought, Today he will pass into convulsions as surely as the grim phases of rables progress.

TO SEIZE TRIPOLI

Feared Occupation of African Port by Other Nations.

London, Nov. 28.—Major Richardson, of police dog fame, has returned to London after a week in Tripeli. The major had been in communication with the Italian Government on the subject of the utility of dogs in warfare, and a month ago went to Italy in order to study the possibilities of using dogs in the protection of advance guards and outposts.

The Landlords Refuse to Rent

Houses, Though the Rent
Is Assured.

Paris, Nov. 28.—Paris has been deeply interested and not a little indignant on reading the pathetic story of a family of 11 who could not find a roof to cover their heads within the walls of Paris.

"Too many children," was the common answer given to the head of this family by all the landlords he questioned, not one of whom would accept him as a tenant. As a last resource the man had to fall back on the charity of a well-known philanthropist.

M. Unlaud, the father of eight sons and one daughter, is a day laborer. His wife earns about 80 cents a week by her sewing. The eldest child is 18, the youngest is not yet 2 years old. The Unlaud family has lived for several years in one of the populous quarters of castern Paris, and their landlord has never had to compilan of any delay in the payment of their rent. Nevertheless, Searcheef Everywhere.

of the interior, where an appeal was to be made for the intercession of the authorities.

The procession was formed, a number of explanatory signs and notices were hoisted by the members of the legue, and away it started. It passed the Elysee, but was then dispersed by the police, and a few minutes later the police, and a few minutes later the family, the furniture and the friends found themselves in the police station guard room. Here they waited until a philanthropist, who has rented a large house as a temporary home for such castaways, came to their relief.

Similar classe Common.

The case, which follows a series of similar evictions, has opened a discussion about the living accommodation in Parls. The eviction of Uniaud has a double case. In the first place, owing to the limited area of Parls—the city is confined by the now useless fortifications—and the impracticability of living outside the walls when employment lies within, there has been a general and rapid increase in the rents in the working-class quarter. Secondly, the inferior methods of building have rendered the tenement buildings so pervious to sound that the peace of one family depends immeasurably on the peace of the other. Landlords are, therefore, more than chary in giving accommodation to large families, the children of which might disturb the peace of the neighbors.

London, Nov. 28.—The question of women smoking in restaurants in America has been much discussed lately, but you have only to ask the managers of any of the fashionable restaurants in London and they will tell you that women now smoke in public here without the slightest restraint or causing the least comment.
