OVER LEGISLATION.

Herbert Spencer, a living English writer of great eminence, devotes a chapter of his very clever work, "Sociology," to prove that over-legislation has been, and continues to be, a great political evil in the mother country, and that it is always so, especially in matters of trade and finance, to allow those engaged in them to fashion and control their operations according to the wisdom of their own sweet will.

We have no great fault to find with this mode of reasoning so long as it confines itself to theory and abstraction, but we do object to its use in relation to the existing state of affairs. When we glance at the antagonisms between wealth and labor, employers and employed, of railway and steamship companies and syndicates on the one hand, and the masses of the people on the other, we are, at once, compelled to say that some constitutional power should be lodged somewhere, to be used when necessary, for the redress of grievances inflicted by either of the antagonistic parties upon the other.

It would be needless to attempt to prove, what is admitted by all parties, on all hands, viz. that the interests of the public are sometimes endangered by the action of the wealthy corporations and syndicates, especially in railway matters. We have been led to these remarks from the perusal of a debate, which took place in the Dominion Commons a few days ago, on the second reading of Mr. McCarthy's "Court of Railway Commissioners" Bill, in which Mr. McCarthy said: "There were no less than eight thousand miles of railway in Canada, costing the people, in addition to the amount invested by owners, $100,000,000 and earning some $30,000,000 annually."

"These facts," he continued, "of themselves were sufficient to show the urgent necessity, for giving parliament some control over the roads, as regards their dealings with their passengers." During the short debate, no speaker attempted a denial of the necessity for parliamentary control, though a difference of opinion existed as to the necessity or extent of such control.

"The Secret will run on the Halloway Line this summer." "Mr. Stirling, cashier of the Union Bank, Halifax, is dead." "Butcher's Fashion Sheets for March arrived at Mrs. W. H. Miller's."

"The Olio held in Victoria Hall, on Tuesday evening last, was an enjoyable affair. The attendance was quite large, and the performance reflected much credit on all concerned. We could not be present, therefore, can only speak in general terms of the whole, from such information as has been received from our sources. The principal feature of the evening was the vocal and instrumental music. Several of the pieces were executed heartily, and the selection and execution evidently gave much satisfaction to the audience. The vocal and instrumental pieces were well received, while a temperance play excited rounds of applause. The amount realized was $24.20."

ANNAPOLIS TO HAVE THE DISTRICT EXHIBITION FOR 1882.

The central Board of Agriculture is a similar to the agricultural societies of the several districts of the Province, requesting meetings to be convened for the purpose of ascertaining the most suitable and convenient localities for holding the District Exhibition. One of the most eligible in District No. 2, which comprises the Counties of Kings, Annapolis and Queens, a majority responded in favor of Annapolis and Queens, the latter place, however, from its geographical position is deemed more desirable than either of the two other Counties. A motion was therefore made for the adjournment of Districts, this being thought not advisable by the Board, the representative of the district asked for and obtained for Queens a proportionate part of the Grant in order that it might hold a County Exhibition. This course was approved by the Executive Committee of the House of Assembly.

The Annapolis Royal Agricultural Society having made an application to have the Exhibition held in the town of Annapolis, and guaranteeing a suitable building and other arrangements, the Representative of the District has requested the Agricultural Societies of the Province to nominate two delegates from each Society to form a general committee to meet at the Court House, Annapolis, on Monday, the 13th inst., to devise means for supplementary amount to be added to the Provincial Grant for a prize which has been offered by the Secretary of the Central Board of Agriculture, not later than the 10th of April, for the approval of the Board and Government.

Mr. Hector MacLean, Superintendent of the Millard construction force, was removed from the personal of the handsome gold watch and chain on the occasion of a social party given by the Annapolis Royal Agricultural Society on the 15th Feb. by friends and employees of the Millard.

The Philadelphia Medical Journal for February, comes to us literally packed with good things, and presenting a remarkably handsome and prosperous look. It is crowded with musical news, bright, cherry musical news, and editorial matter. Besides its literary features the following choice sheet music are given: "Diamonds and Dew Drops," "Young Life Galop," "Mentelston's Grand Wedding March," "Tell Me that You'll not Forget Me," "May I be a Violet." Only one dollar a year. Address Wm. Nunnell, No. 1300 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa."

A Wonderful Substance.

The Chicago Western Catholic says: "It is indeed by Bishop Gillmore, of Cleveland, Ohio, and by some of our most honored and respected priests throughout the country who have used it for rheumatism, with success where all other remedies failed. We refer here to St. Jacobs Oil. We know of several persons in our own diocese who were suffering with that dreadful disease, rheumatism, who tried everything and which proved of no benefit. We advised them to try St. Jacobs Oil. Some of them would not at first, but after a few trials, they chose to call it. However, we induced them to give it a trial, and it accomplished its work with such a magic-like rapidity that the same persons are now its strongest advocates, and will not be without it in their houses on any account. Mr. Joel D. Harvey, U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue of this city, has spent over two thousand dollars on medical bills, and his wife who was suffering dreadfully from rheumatism, and without deriving any benefit whatever, yet two bottles of St. Jacobs Oil accomplished what the most skillful medical men failed in doing. We have the names of hundreds who have been cured by this wonderful remedy, did space permit us. The latest man who was cured through the use of this valuable liniment is Mr. James A. Conlan, Librarian of the Union Library of this city. The following is Mr. Conlan's endorsement: "I was afflicted with rheumatism as to the merits of St. Jacobs Oil as a cure for rheumatism. One bottle has cured me of the disease, which has troubled me for a long time; I thank to the remedy, I am cured." It is the best remedy I know of for my own use in the future. Very respectfully, JAMES A. CONLAN, Librarian."
