A NRW use of the electric light is to assist entomologists in catching their "bugs." Noc-turnal insects are attracted by it from great distances and in great numbers, and fall an easy prey to the collector.

BROILED OYSTERS.—Select large ones, wipe dry and broll upon a fine wire gridiron. By dredging with flour before boiling, a crust is formed which is liked by many. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and drop a bit of butter upon each.

Apple butter is made by boiling drawn.

of butter upon each.

Affice butter is made by boiling down new cider to about one-fourth its bulk, and then adding sliced apples, and cooking slowly with careful stirring until they are thoroughly done. If sweet apples are used, the addition of a few quinces greatly improves the flavour. This requires no sugar, and is one of the most economical as well as most healthful of all preserves for children. If kept in a cold room, there is no danger that it will spoil.

It is said that heat travels faster than cold.

It will spoil.

It is said that heat travels faster than cold, because you can easily catch cold. If you do catch cold easily you can as easily cute it in its worst form if you use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, the popular throat and lung semedy. It speedily cures the most troublesome cough, allays all irritation, dislodges tough phlegm, cures Asthma, Hoarseness and Bronchitis, and all diseases gleading to Pulmonary Consumption.

STEWED CELERY.—Take ten or twelve heads of lange celery, using the root and about three inches; lay them in sait and water a few minutes, then take them out and place them in a stew-pan with an onion and faggot of herbs; cover them with stock; stew them gently until quite tender; reduce the stock, thicken it and pass it through a small sieve; season with sugar, sait and cayenne pepper. Dish them up as you do cutlets, and either glaze them or pour the sauce over them.

A TONIC TO TAKE AWAY DRINK CEA-glaze them or pour the sauce over them.

A TONIC TO TAKE AWAY DRINK CRAVING.—A correspondent gives the following prescription for a tonic to take away drink craving:—For anyone who wishes to leave off beer and spirits—a small handful of camomile flowers and some-hops made into tea, with a little quassia or gentian, and a little ginger to warm it. A wine-glassful to be taken two or three times a day, with two and a half grains of catbonate of ammonia. If half a drachm of ammonia is dissolved in one and a half or. of water there will be two and a half grains in each teaspoonful, which should be added to the tea when taken. The editor of the Church of England "Temperance Chronicle" adds—"This drink should be used the day it is made."

Fowls Boiled Witti Oysters.—To

Fowls Boiled witti Oysters.—To make this dish, take a young fewl, fill the inside with oysters, cook it is a jar, plunging the jar into a kettle of sau epan of water. There will be a quantity of gravy from the juices of the fowl and oysters in the jar. Make it into a white sauce, with the addition of egg, cream and a little flour and butter; add oysters to it, or serve it up plain with the fowl. The gravy that comes from a fowl dressed in this manner will be a stiff jelly the next day; the fowl will be very white and tender, and of an exceedingly fine flavour—advantages not obtained in ordinary boiling—while the dish loses nothing of its delicacy and simplicity.

To Keep Lard.—When the scraps are

ing—white the dish loses nothing or its uencacy and simplicity.

To Keep Lard.—When the scraps are just beginning to get brittle and brown, put in a tablespoonful of fine saft to a quart of the hot lard, and there will be no trouble; the lard will keep perfectly sweet for any length of time, and the saft does no possible harm to any kind of cookery. Persons can casily judge of the quantity of lard if they know how much the kettle holds. It makes the lard whiter and harder, aside from preserving it sweet. It must cook a little while after adding the saft. That designed for summer use should be either kept in a tight earthen jar, or a tin bucket with a cover.
To restore lard that is a trifle tainted, put the lard into an iron kettle, and cut up saft pork into thin slices—about one-half pound of pork to a gallon of melted lard; add two spoonfuls of saft, and let it cook till the pork is crisp; take out the slices of pork, and turn the lard into your jar, and you will never know that it has not always been sweet. But it is better to saft it, in the first place, as it saves much trouble and time.
