Company/Product Information

Chris-Cad Designs Ltd. developed its initial product in response to a need for a reliable, unobtrusive plate stand to display family heirlooms.

Response from merchants to the prototype of the initial stand prompted production of a two-cavity injection mold for two sizes. Within months a second mold was underway for a unique four-way cup and saucer stand and two additional sizes of stands, thus providing for items from large coins to platters and gallery trays.

A new concept for plate hangers (three sizes, also in clear acrylic) has also been well received. In response to requests, two reversible egg stands for spherical objects from 5/8" to goose eggs and a stand to hold a five-piece place setting in home china cabinets are now available.

Orders for large or small quantities can be filled promptly as two manufacturers, Vanguard Plastics Ltd, of Surrey, B.C., and C.J. Plastics Engineering Inc., of Burnaby, B.C. are able to supplement the on-hand stock when required.

These products serve a wide variety of merchants of antiques, art, china, plaques, pottery, and stationery.

Collectibles on these pieces were still standing in a San Francisco antique shop after the October 29, 1989 earthquake.
