"HAWES"--HATS-$3.00

Some men prefer an English hat, others have a preference for an American hat. While we carry a full range of all the leading styles of the leading makers, English and American, and every line we believe to be the best hat that can be bought anywhere, we make special mention here of the Hawes (Broadway) New York, as the finest value at the price in the world-and, placed side by side with many a hat that sells for 4.00, it has proved itself the better line. The maker claims for it that it is the best hat in the world for the money, and we stand behind his say-so. We have a full range of them in the newest blocks for fall and winter wear, in hard and soft felts, in blacks and popular shades, and they sell for $3.00.

The Chancellor's Criticism Chancellor Burwash delivered an eloquent address on the relation of the university to the various colleges in affiliation. He briefly summarized the history of Victoria College. The present opening represented the last college entirely within the present century. A wonderful financial move made memorable its close, and Victoria had taken her part in this movement. "We are now into the $75,000 of this endowment movement. Such contributions represent the loyalty of the alufinian dex-students. Already Victoria has more than 800 graduates in arts, 2800 in LIBERALS GETTING READY. What Varsity Needs.

"There are a few things that Toronto University is in need of. In the university itself we need, in order to insure success, the complete working together of all elements. We want our Government to take hold of this university, and put it upon a position of firm strength financially, which will make it second to none on the continent. Toronto is fifth as a student centre on this continent. Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago alone stand ahead of us. Let us then join heart and hand in the fostering and in the building up of this our own university."

This concluded the ceremonies. Dr. Parker closed the meeting.

The Victoria students were out inaguling force, and occupied the rear seats.

An Uncertainty and a Certainty.

The yacht race continues to be one of the immediate uncertainties of life. The Shamrock, however, is one of those good things from Britain, and it should account for itself all right. Other good things from Britain are fine woolens for suitings, pansings and overcoatings. These are a certainty, and the newest importations are always to be procured from Messrs. Frank Broderick & Co., fashlonable tailors, 199 King-street west.

Mr. Yeigh began the evening's entertainment with a beautiful slide of the Shamrock and a neat invitation to visit with him on the great yacht the art cities of Italy while she waited for the breeze for the race with the Columbia.

Naples, from the bay, was the first Italian city sighted, and after a view of her beautiful waterfront from near the Castle of St. Elmo, he passed on to the Brighton of Naples, Pompeli, the city of the vestal virgins and of Leoni, and the blind girl, Nydla. A panorama of the beautiful city with the belching Mount Vesuvius in the distance gave place to two views of the catacombs of St. Januarius, the lecturer meanwhile accompanying the views with a classically ornate running commentary and explanation. The Pompelian views, especially that of a restored home of the buried city, including the bath, were very fine.

Next, on to Rome, along the historic Appian Way, to the sea of red tile and forest of towers. St. Peter's, the Vatican with its 11,000 rooms, both received ample creatment, although somewhat marred by the out-of-focus condition of the slides. The Capuchin city of the dead, with its skeletons and ornaments of human skulls and bones, gave place, to the relief of the nervous, to the beautiful Arch of Titus. The Forum, the nerve centre of Rome, followed, and then that king of Roman ruins, the Coliseum. The Pantheon, with its grand columns and bronze doors, was succeeded by views of Raphael's art, and these in turn by quaint views of modern Roman life.

"Idaho" at the Princess.

"It gale of seats for Thanksgiving week opens at the Frincess Theatre this morning, and the Cummings Stock Company will have as their attraction Clay Greene's pretty romance of mountain life, "Idaho," which is to be elaborately staged and presented with the entire strength of the company. "Idaho" proved such a hit before that the announcement of its revival is sure to please every patron of the Princess. The Cummings Company produced this play for the second week of their season two years ago, when the organization was an nounced to stay in Toronto for four weeks only. "Idaho" made such a hit, and the business of the Princess increased so materially that four weeks more were decided upon, to that was added eight more and then with the increased patronage the seating capacity was enlarged to accommodate the crowds and the Cummings Company have played in Toronto dver since. It is believed that "Idaho" made the hit that established the company in Toronto, and Mr. Ralph Cummings became known and spoken of for the time as "Jack Mason," his role in this play, which is unquestionably Mr. Cummings' best role. Miss Helen Byron at that time appeared as "Bess," but Miss Stone this year will ensily prove her superior in the role, and the company all through in this, their favorite play, may be looked to for an artistic and successful performance. The play will be handsomely staged this year, an advantage it did not have before, when it was played with the "house" scenery. "Idaho" is a pretty romance of "love in the mountains," with a number of well drawn characters and abundantly supplied with comedy. It is really an excellent holiday attraction.

It is announced that the exhibition at Massey Music Hall of Tissot's pictures of the Life of Christ will close about the end of next week. The failure to see this famous collection is certain to prove a source of lasting regret, and those who have neglected to visit the exhibit are urged to do so without delay. It is not only a privilege and a pleasure to view these works but it is a duty that every person owes to himself. The last days of a great artistic event should command the attention of all, and no member of this cultivated community should fall to contribute to the progress of education and culture that the thogough and widely distributed knowledge of the Tissot paintings means to the city of Toronto.
