HOLD ROYAL BALL BELOW THE GROUND

Abbey Scene of Fete in Alfonso's Honor.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain, who are guests of the Duke of Portland, will attend a ball to-night, given in their honor, in the famous underground ball-room at Welbeck Abbey, which was excavated by the fifth Duke of Portland, and which has not been used in years. The whole suite of subterranean chambers and the passages communicating with them will be dazzling illuminated with electric lights.

Graduating Nurses.

VICKSBURG, Miss. Nov. 20.—The ninth annual conference of the International Order of King's Daughters has adjourned. Bucyrus, Ohio, was selected as the meeting-place next year. The following officers were elected: Mrs.

The Muffs have grown and grown. This year it seems they must at last have reached the limit—in size. And they, too, are built on original lines. Some of them look like nothing so much as if the wearer had hastily picked up a small fur rug from the floor and thrown it across her hands. In reality if its probably one or two black large it is probably one or two black lynx skins, laid out quite flat and lined with skins, laid out quite flat and lined with thin satin—no interlining is allowed. The muff proper is of satin, made separate, and with the skins merely tacker to it at the top, the heads and paw hanging down on one side, the tails and paws on the other.

Sometimes, in the case of small skins half a dozen are used in this way, laid side by side. This is illustrated in the sketch marked "F." Still another variation of this style of muff is seen in the illustration "E." This is of caracul and is ornamented with a big pow of ribbon, inustration E. This is of caractil and is ornamented with a big bow of ribbon, centred with a rhinestone ornament. Very large, nearly square muffs of lynx and fox are seen, but always adorned with tails. The stuffing of muffs is reduced to the minimum, for natness of effect is earnestly sought after.

There seems to be herdly anything in

There seems to be hardly anything in the way of laces and colored silk em-broideries that cannot find some place on a fur coat. For they are trimmed on a fur coat. For they are trimmed and trimmed—and yet again trimmed.

Little walstcoats of velvet and of softest suede are elaborate'y embroidered in a tarnished silver and gold thread now so smart. Deep cuffs and quite possibly a standing collar inside the turned-down one of fur are made of the same material, embroidered.

Braiding is extensively used on the fur itself, particularly on the smooth, silky furs, such as broadtall and Russian pony skin. Some coats of tnese furs are literally braided all over with fine silk braid, put on in a well-designed pattern. Many of them have the shortwaisted lines emphasized to this way.

Buttons of all sizes and kinds are used on fur garments. On coats made for motoring wear buttons as big as small butter plates are covered with kidskin, but on fur garments destined.

This modish, two-piece suit was stylishly developed in dark gray English suiting. The chic culaway coat is of unusually good style, and will serve as a model for a separate coat of broadcloth or other material, as well as part of a costume. It is semi-fitting and of excellent shaping, the curved seams in front and back aiding in giving shapeliness to the figure. The skirt is a new nine-gored model, laid in an inverted box-pleat at each of the side seams. Close adjustment is given at the top, the lower edge flaring gracefully in accordance with present style. Serge, chevlot, mohair, broadcloth and the novelty suitings are all suggested for reproduction. For 36-inch bust means turned and successive of the most carefully thought of this seams.

Empress Eugenie's Coronatton Mantle.

At the shop of a well-known silk and lace firm here is now being ex-hibited a mantle which was made for the coronation of the Empress Eugenie It was worn once only by the empress at the opening of the Suez Canal in 1869.

Napoleon III himself appointed a celebrated artist to design the lace, the sketch being destroyed after the lace was made. The lace, which was made in one piece, was mounted upon velvet. and embroidered in gold and lined with

It took seven persons five years to make it and cost nearly $50,000. The mantle is still in fairly good preservation, being but slightly faded, altho it lay for twenty-eight years hidden in a small pawnbroker's shop at Athens.
