MILITIA ORDERS.

OTTAWA, June 20.—One of the most important militia orders in recent years was issued this afternoon. It provides for an increase in the permanent establishment of permanent corps and several of the city corps.

The establishment of an eight company regiment is given as 31 officers, 30 sergeants, 306 other ranks, 4 horses. The Royal Canadian F. A. is increased 12 officers and men. The F. C. Garrison Artillery is increased 15. The Royal C. Regiment Infantry is increased 16. The 17th Field Battery is to be re-established at Sydney and of the same strength as other batteries. The Sydney company of artillery is to be converted into a field battery.

First year—Honors in aggregates of all subjects: J. M. Coffin, Mt. Stewart; passed in all subjects: J. E. Gillis, Darlington; A. B. McKenzie, Springfield; J. A. Stewart, Northville. Second year—Honors in aggregates of all subjects: Howard A. Leslie, Souris. Madame Yulisse's singing here last Monday night is unanimously conceded to be the best ever heard in Charlottetown.

After some months of quiet, the Power boys are again in evidence. The fighting spirit during the past few months had not been dead. It was only sleeping. One of the number had leg amputated last fall as a result of a bullet wound received during a row. Another previous to that had lost an arm. The two had only three arms and three legs between them. A third brother is all Power-full at times.

By a combination of forces wherein the one armed Power used his brother's crutch with good effect, the officers were obliged to beat a retreat, and were found necessary to summon a doctor skilled in stitching in order that one of the officers keep his head level. But at daylight Sunday morning the whole force, with two special officers, visited the home of the Power boys.

One of them was promptly arrested. The other took to the water and gave himself up only when the whistling of bullets sounded about his head. They were remanded until next week. Since the change of railway time a week ago, the mail special arrives here almost invariably at 9 o'clock p. m.

United States Consul Yall has been informed by the department at Washington that a suitable testimonial will be presented to Captain Julius Lassen of the Norwegian bark Gleer, in recognition of his humane service in rescuing at sea on May 28th the two American seamen who were lost from the American schooner Marguerite. The story of these two seamen, Spiny and Muse, has been already narrated in the Sun.

The contract for rebuilding the reservoir for the Charlottetown water works has been let to James M. McDonald of Stellarton, the builder of the old reservoir. The first meeting for this season of the P. E. Island Cheese Board was held on Tuesday, June 19, when it was decided that future meetings be held as follows: July 18, August 1st, 22nd, Sept. 6th, 19th, October 3rd, 17th and 31st. Robert Jenkins of Mt. Allison was appointed secretary for the current year.

Wesley Lane has resigned his position in the P. E. Island railway office. He will be succeeded by George Burdett of Alexandria. John Richards is in the P. E. Island hospital suffering from appendicitis. Mr. Munn came here only a few days ago from Pughwash to represent in Charlottetown the International School of Correspondence.

Word has been received of the death in the Klondyke of Fred Nicholson, formerly of Orwell Cove, from typhoid fever, after two weeks' illness. Another brother, Joseph, resides in the Klondyke. Much sympathy is felt for the kind who were called upon last winter to mourn the death of their father, which occurred in the P. E. Island hospital after a short illness.

June marriages are occurring rapidly in this province. Recent events of this kind were Charles W. Lane of Lunenburg, N. S., and Phoebe Large of Charlottetown; Stewart McLaren and Isabella Devar, both of New Perth; Frank M. McKie, baggage master on the P. E. I. R., and L. J. Elisabeth Ritchie, both of Charlottetown, W. A. Stewart and Winnie McLepd, both of Charlottetown.

Bessie Durant of Margate has graduated from the Danvers insane hospital at Hawthorne, Mass. Rev. Fr. Curran, rector of St. Dunstan's College, has gone to Quebec on business with the B. A. exams in the college. Dr. McNeill of Summerside has gone on a trip to the old country. His brother, Dr. J. F. McNeill, will have charge of his practice during his absence.

The following is the arrangement made for celebrating the coronation on Thursday next: (1) Religious services in churches. (2) Royal salute of 21 guns fired from Fort Edward at noon. (3) Grand procession in the afternoon at Victoria park, consisting of military, national and fraternal societies, boys' brigades. (4) Singing by over 1,000 school children, led by the military and city bands, at Victoria park. (5) Grand evening demonstration. (6) Torchlight procession of firemen and

LONDON CABLE.

Great Interest in the Conference of Colonial Premiers.

One of Them Interviewed By a Representative of the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 21.—Much interest is being manifested in the approaching conference with the colonial premiers, who are now in London to attend the coronation of King Edward. For months the government has been urging parliament not to express any kind of opinion upon the feasibility of preferential trade with the colonies, and when introducing measures tending to such an end it was warned not to discuss on the ground that it would not be fair to do or say anything until the colonial premiers had a chance to announce their views on the subject. In short, the government's whole policy has been waiting in the balance until the premiers had gathered together. Unfortunately for the government, the premiers had already practically come to a decision that they would refuse to make any suggestions until the imperial government puts forward its own intentions. That is exactly what the cabinet not only does not want to do, but cannot do.

One of the colonial premiers said to a representative of the Associated Press: 'We have no voice in the fiscal policy of Great Britain, and have not always complete control of our own. It is the duty of the mother country to make propositions to us. We might sit for months and eventually arrive at a conclusion satisfactory to all the colonies, but it would be difficult, and then find that the results were merely politely fled away in some pigeon hole in Downing street. We must have at least some idea of what the government is willing to support before we can seriously discuss such a question.' Lord Salisbury has publicly stated his disbelief in the practicality of colonial preference, and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the chancellor of the exchequer, has openly declared his hostility to the idea.

So what is the good of our having a track debate for the sake of holding Chamberlain's hands into the empty air? It is well for us to get together and doubtless intercolonial harmony will thereby be promoted, but beyond that I can see no practical ending of our meetings.' The only end likely to be achieved at this notable meeting is one which is peculiarly interesting to Canada and the United States. The Associated Press learns that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Chamberlain intend to thrash out their long standing differences of opinion, and on all sides there is hopefulness that a conclusion will be reached regarding the Bond-Backs Convention. Newfoundland is desiring to have the matter settled, and while her attitude will bring up almost every question now pending between the United States and Canada, the prospects of a satisfactory agreement appear bright, although such matters as the Alaska boundary and the re-meeting of the Joint High Commission are involved. The latter is likely to make the Hon. Michael Herbert, British ambassador to the United States, a party to the negotiations, and perhaps Joseph H. Choate, United States ambassador to Great Britain, may be consulted, though the question directly at issue lies entirely in Canada's and Newfoundland's differences.

I came from the general hospital to the convalescent home with an English officer named Domville. I asked him if he had any relatives in Canada. He replied he had not, but I think two weeks in this beautiful home will do me to return to the regiment. There are fifty officers here. They stay from one to five weeks. A major of the Royal Army Medical Corps is in charge and two sisters who look after the linen, mess, etc. One of them is an elderly lady who has been fighting England's battles most of her life. She has two rows of ribbons on her red cape. Red capes are worn by the nurses here. I have been speculating what will be done with the regiment if peace is proclaimed. I should think they would send us home as they would not keep men here at five shillings a day when they can have them at one shilling.

LORD BERSFORD.

Declares the Whole British Admiralty System is Rotten.

LONDON, June 20.—During the course of the discussion of the navy estimates in the House of Commons today, Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Conservative, and Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Conservative, both of whom were present, declared the whole admiralty system was rotten and led to the great extravagance and the general want of efficiency of the navy, on which depended the existence of all the commissions of inquiry and has been proved to be a fact. Every increase in the number of ships and every improvement in them had been the result of outside agitation. As a result of such agitation the British Mediterranean fleet was now a fourth stronger than it was ten years ago. Lord Balfour added that both army and navy officers were compelled to threaten to resign in order to get things righted. Great Britain had only 20,000 naval reserves instead of the regular 80,000, and the engine room departments were thousands of men short. As to armament, both the United States and France possessed superior guns. He declared would continue until a separate business board was appointed at the admiralty and was made responsible for efficiency of the fleet.

Treasury control was fatal to efficiency. As an instance, the speaker pointed out the case of Sir William Vernon Harcourt (Iberia), who, when he was chancellor of the exchequer, put his pen through for her efforts for supplies after the guns had been ordered.

A HEROIC LIFE.

With an Eye Single to the Good of Her Fellow-men She Toiled.

The Story of Miss M. Varney, of Bloomfield, Ont.—Spent Many Years in a Service of Selfless Sacrifice to the Poor and Needy—Ministered to Their Physical as Well as Spiritual Wants.

BLOOMFIELD, Ont., June 20.—(Special)—Our community boasts of having within it one of the most devoted Christian women that ever toiled in the world's vineyard. Owned and blessed by God, this self-sacrificing heroine and her husband, since deceased, spent many years of faithful pastoral work in different parts of the continent.

Elizabeth H. Varney, relict of the late Levi Varney, is now 73 years of age and is living in quiet retirement here. She is a member of the Society of the Old Orthodox Friends and this simple peace-loving Society never had a more humble or more worthy member.

It is of her work among the Doukhobors in her own Canadian North-West that she loves most to speak, and many tell her that she has the most vivid and vivid are her recollections of this peculiar people.

One of the greatest difficulties this devoted woman had to contend with was disease among her poor people. But she had armed herself with a remedy that was as unfailing as her own charity—Dodd's Kidney Pills were the weapons she used to drive out sickness.

Some years before she had tried and proven the value of this great medicine in her own case when threatened with the Dropsy and suffering with Rheumatism. They had completely restored her, and when she found that the prevailing trouble among the Doukhobor people was Kidney Disease and Dropsy she knew that Dodd's Kidney Pills would be her most valuable aid in her good work.

She tells of one poor young woman among this people who was suffering so severely with the Dropsy that she was terribly bloated all over and confined to her bed. The Lady Missionary left a few of Dodd's Kidney Pills and immediately sent for three more boxes. She was rewarded for her efforts by the complete recovery of the young woman.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have received this worthy woman's most emphatic endorsement.

SCHOOL SAVINGS BANKS.

An objection has been raised that children grow miserly under this system. Facts disprove this. In the savings banks were first introduced in this country in 1885, the scholars have $14,220 on deposit. The morning after the disastrous flood at Johnstown some of the pupils on entering their class room manifested a desire to contribute something to help the school children in Johnstown who had lost their homes. The idea was greeted with acclamation. There was a great flutter of little hands; most of the four thousand scholars volunteered offering from their savings funds, which aggregated $462.31. This was not a miserly act. One of the greatest joys of life is the sense of independence, the possession of something to husband and distribute brings.

All who are interested in the future welfare of the community should hear Mrs. S. L. Oberholzer lecture in the High School building on Monday evening, June 23rd, subject, The Advantages of Thrift Teaching and How to Institute It.
