was made. He as well as all the others realized the value of the public domain and he could not understand why the minister considering the legislation of 1916 to be so heinous did not introduce legislation to rescind it instead of bringing in a bill to perpetuate it.

schild it instead of bringing in a control perpetuate it.

The late Hon .Mr. Clarke acted as he did for the public in legalizing acts done by the lumber men in good faith, and in public as well as private business good faith must be preserved. Why could not the minister bring in legislation without seeking to cast reflection on the department of cast reflection on the department the late Government conducted by the late Hon. Mr. Clarke? The latter always had been a stickler for the law and had administered his department properly in every respect Personally he believed the law should be altered.

Hon. Mr. Smith said the bill was no introduced for the purpose of perpetuating previous legislation. It was for the purpose of getting more money. He desired to cast no reflection on his predecessor and was very pleased to hear the leader of the opposition express the opinion he had with regard to the prohibition of the export of pulpwood.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said the bill was to introduced for the pulpwood.

not introduced for the purpose of perpetuating legislation of the preceding government but to prevent abuses which had occurred under that legislation.

Hon. Mr. Smith informed the committee that he wanted to have this mittee that he wanted to nave this bill go through.

Hon. Mr. Baxter.

Mr. Baxter said the bill should go through. It had a statistical value which would form a foundation for a future policy. Much time had been taken up in discussion but it had been usefully employed. The bill perpetuated the system until the time should arise for a change to be made. Personally he was much in favor of arise for a change to be made. Personally he was much in favor of abolishing the existing system. However, it must be remembered that New Brunswick was standing in a critical financial position. Revenue would be a most important matter ctring the next few years on account of war conditions.

It also should be remembered that drastic action in connection with this drastic action in connection with this matter might seriously affect the pulp and paper market of the United States Further it could be urged that the province should not deal too harshly with the lumber industry. Revenue was urgently needed. It might be
