DETECTIVES HOLD REV. DELORME FOR COURT HEARING

Coroner's Jury, by Vote of Seven to One, Finds Him Criminally Responsible for the Death of His Half-Brother, Raoul Delorme, Found With His Head Riddled by Bullets.

(Continued from Page 1.) City Detective LaLoe avers that the bullet found in the body of the murdered young man were of the same calibre as those in the priest's revolver. The officer repeated his evidence about finding apparent blood stains on the cushions of the Abbé's car which he handed to Dr. Derome for analysis. He also said he found a coverlet at Abbé Delorme's house similar in make-up to the one which the dead man's head. He had found feathers under the seat of the priest's car, and a similar feather was found on the clothing wrapped around the victim's head. Twine, like that which had been used to bind the young man's hands, had been found near Father Delorme's home. Detective LaLoe further testified that, with the gunsmith who sold the revolver found in the Abbé's car, he had experimented in firing a number of shots. They found that the bullets bore the same barrel markings as those taken from the victim's head. Mr. Derome avers he had found human blood on a seat and two cushions of Father Delorme's car. He also found a soap stain on the rear car seat, covering the spot where the cloth in the Delorme garage was found. He also found grease spots on the cloth in the Delorme garage similar to those on the cloth which wrapped the head. The cushions of the car indicated that the rear cushion of the car had been washed with soap, evidently to remove bloodstains.

Details of Search. Chief LaLoe was called and asked by Mr. Walsh—'Did you have anything to do with Father Delorme in regard to the cushions and coverlets?' The chief replied—'Yes, on January 21, with two detectives, we called on the priest and asked permission to search his place. He did not object. We began in the garage. We saw a Franklin car there. We found the covers or quilts and cushions shown here as exhibits. Father Delorme said the cover had been used on camping trips. In the rear of the seat we found a box containing ball bearings. We also found a number of feathers which were in a clump. We asked permission to take these articles along with us and per-

HALIFAX PRESS GOES AFTER ONTARIO'S MISSTATEMENTS

Accuses Directors of Canadian Northern Railway With Using High-Handed Methods in Conduct of I. C. R.—Doing Everything for Portland, Nothing for St. John and Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 14.—(Editorial) statements in various Ontario Journals that the demand of Maritime members of Parliament for the restoration of the old Intercolonial Railway, to the position guaranteed by the terms of the Confederation compact, was prompted by a desire to use the route for patronage purposes, a writer in the Halifax Chronicle says the present Toronto management of the Canadian National system, which he describes as a "Car-like combination," was never given authority over the I. C. R. by act of Parliament. The powers claimed by the present management are derived, he says, from an order-in-council dated November 20, 1912, part of which reads: "And His Excellency, the Governor-General in Council, is further pleased to order and declare that the persons, from time to time, comprising the board of directors of the Canadian Northern Railway Company shall be, and they are hereby appointed, a board of management of the Canadian Government Railways, and are hereby given the powers vested in the general manager, under the general regulations of the Canadian Government Railways adopted by order-in-council of the 22nd January, 1914. (P. C. 184)." The Chronicle writer adds: "In plain English, the directors of

WAS TROUBLED WITH HER STOMACH FOR FIVE YEARS

Mrs. Samuel Ward, Millersdale, Sask. writes:—'I feel that I must write to you before another day passes I am so happy and so grateful to your splendid medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, for after an illness of five years I am better. I had stomach trouble so bad, I could not bear the smell or taste of food of any kind, and got so thin and weak I could not work. I had four doctors attend me, but they did me no good. I was in no pain, but felt so ill at times, I thought I would die. In all my friends were sure I could live many weeks. This time last year I saw where Mrs. Ward was relieved of stomach trouble by Burdock Blood Bitters, so my husband got me two bottles, but I had no faith in it after all the different medicines I had taken, however he insisted and after the first two days I must have been to feel better, and after the first bottle I felt so much better that I went out a little every day, but could not go alone I was so weak, but I got so I could walk and eat, and had not quite stout. I am nearly seventy years of age and I feel better than I have for years. I can now do all my housework. You may make use of this letter if you wish, as it may be the means of helping others as well as my own.'

As Cure For Ills "All Fours" Seen

London, Feb. 14.—Walking on all fours has been suggested by an English physician as a preventive against many of the ills to which the human race is subject—in fact, Dr. J. Knox Thompson has informed his colleagues and the world that if we abandoned the upright posture we now assume we would not have bronchitis, abdominal troubles and, best of all, no knock-knees. In addition he sums up the disadvantages of walking on "your hindlegs" as follows: "Unstable equilibrium, strategic weakness in direct physical attack of defense because the upright body forms a better target for missiles with vital and tender parts more exposed than in the quadruped position. "The constriction of the upper part of the chest, coupled with the fact that owing to the increased effort required in the erect position, the up-and-down movement of the ribs in respiration is much restricted, must go far to increase the tendency to tuberculosis. "If you go on all fours your lungs are not set up on end, but routine instead of pressing in on them, support them, and the heart instead of having hard tendon and backbone to rest on reclines upon the ends of the lungs."

Rev. A. L. Fleming Delivered Lecture

Under Auspices of Knox Church W. M. S. Speaker Told of Missionary Work in Far North.

Under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of the Knox Church, an address was delivered last evening in the school room of the Church, by the Rev. A. L. Fleming. The meeting, which was largely attended, was presided over by the Rev. R. Moore, Legation Chaplain. The speaker dealt in a very interesting manner with the missionary work being carried on by the Danish and Labrador churches in Greenland and Labrador. He continued his address chiefly to the work done by Hans Egede, the first Christian missionary among the Eskimos of whom there is any authenticated record. This man, who was an ordained minister of the Danish Church, was sent out to Greenland and the Arctic in the year 1721, and experienced a great many hardships and difficulties among the natives of those regions. Ten years after the first expedition the Moravian church sent out the Brothers Storch to assist Egede in the good work, and the result was that great progress was made during the years that followed. As the Danish church was the State Church, it came to pass that, by the agreement between the two bodies fifty years after the Danish Church took over the Moravian Mission in Greenland and left that body free to carry on its work in Labrador. The first Moravian missionary to go to Labrador, John Christian Egede, was murdered by the natives, who knew not the Maritime Provinces or its people. They have seen Canada a Northern equipment, old and new, mortgaged to the Gerard Trust and other trust companies, and charged against the intercolonial high rental rates per diem for the use of them. They have charged such high rates for transporting coal, steel and other products we want to sell that, notwithstanding tariff duties, it is given unusual and special advantages in the markets of Central Canada. They purchased 1,200,000 tons of American coal and hauled it over Canadian Northern lines to run trains on districts where Nova Scotia coal should be used, while our miners are asking out an equivalent on two or three days' work a week. They have made Portland once more the winter port of Canada, and turning back the pages of the story of the thirty years' effort on behalf of Halifax at St. John, deliberately route traffic through the American port because it will help the Canadian Northern lines, while the Maritime Provinces are treated as if they were not a part of Canada, and their people outsiders.

After justice had been done to the many good things provided, the pastor, Rev. A. L. Tedford, on behalf of Mrs. Tedford and the other invited guests, in a brief address, thanked

New Brunswick Boys' Work Board

Annual Meeting Held Yesterday—Reports Received and Recommendations of Interest Made.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick Boys' Work Board was held at the luncheon hour yesterday at the Y.W.C.A. cafeteria on King street, with A. H. Chipman presiding. The secretary-treasurer presented a satisfactory report, showing the finances to be in excellent condition, and a large amount of good to have been accomplished during the year. The board recommended that it be increased in size by the appointment of more laymen to it. It also recommended that the policy of holding boys' conferences at different times throughout the year, whenever convenient, be adopted in preference to the present system of holding the one conference in the fall, also week-end conferences for the leaders in the different centers. The holding of the Tuxis Boys' camp at Chipman, and the combined men and women leaders camp at Wallace, N. S., next summer were decided upon. Interesting addresses were delivered by Taylor Statten, secretary of the National Boys' Work Board, and Miss M. R. Allison, Maritime Girls' Work secretary, and Mrs. R. A. Jamieson, president of the New Brunswick Girls' Work Board. The two ladies told of the co-operation between, and assistance the Boys' Work and Girls' Work Boards were able to give each other.

Back Weak and Lame for Years

Many a man's cowardice has kept him from getting in bed. St. Jacobs Oil stops any pain, so when your back is sore and lame, or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism, get a small trial bottle of old, honest St. Jacobs Oil at any drug store, pour a little in your hand, and rub it right on your aching back; and by the time you count fifty the soreness and lameness is gone. Don't stay crippled. This ointment is used by the army, navy, and the police. Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints.
