WEDNESDAY EVENING, SEPT. 2.

Becher and the Fabrics.
The Henry Wain Becher's statement was read by his friend at Becher's sympathy and was generally accepted as true. They had the accusation, the evidence in its support, and the explanations and counter charges of the accused, and they weighed them and decided that Becher was not guilty. If the matter had been alone then by Becher's friends it would have been well. But the Investigating Committee came out with a long report, attacking everybody who had said anything against Becher, and making a special plea to show the groundlessness of all these charges. People are beginning to pick their arguments and findings in pieces, and a reaction has set in. Without any defence except his own explanations and assertions people weighed the evidence and decided that Mr. Becher was innocent. With the elaborate report of the friendly committee before them, in a case of this kind, where absolute proof cannot be given of innocence, and character and circumstance weigh against character and circumstance, assertion against assertion, any attempt to prove either side of the case to a demonstration, for the sake of the and grossly unprofitable. This is the case in this instance. The readiness with which the committee accepted the statements of Becher, Turner, whose well-described capacity for lying to suit his friends is only to be compared with Mrs. Tilton's capacity for the same, showing their animus against everybody who they deemed Becher's enemy. This witness told about having seen Susan B. Anthony on Tilton's knees, and gave other examples of the intimacy of the two. As the venerable Susan's age is one of the standing jokes of the day, her private character known to be above suspicion, these absurd statements have been so quoted by everybody that their serious denial would be ridiculous. And yet this Investigating Committee accepted them as absolutely true and selected them as the basis of their testimony. It is a sorry business, and the end is not yet. Moulton feels that he is ruined, unless he can refute Becher, and he will do his best to effect his purpose. Perjury has been indulged in freely so far, both parties having made the committee ridiculous and untrustworthy. We hope that the committee will not be so easily duped as to accept any more of these contradictory and self-contradictory statements. We need not expect that any prejudices against false swearing will be allowed to stand in the way of either prosecution or defence.

Provincial Rifle Competition.
SEASIDE, Sept. 1.
This morning about 100 competitors assembled at the range to take part in the annual meeting of the New Brunswick Provincial Rifle Association. Conspicuous among these we noticed our old friends Blackthorn, Pallen, McAdam, John son, Siskney and a host of others. A "Canadian," L. McAndrews, of the Victoria Rifles, competed, and was successful in the first match, bearing off the fourth prize. The target was eight in number, and are round instead of square as formerly. A stiff wind blew from right to left across the range, and as it came in gusts, rendered the shooting very unsatisfactory and tested to the utmost the experience and judgment of all. The first match was for the Provincial Challenge Cup and money prizes amounting to $100. Range 500 and 600 yards—5 rounds at each.
