

CONTENTS.

9

SOUTH AMERICA.

TRIBES OF THE WEST INDIES.

AND THE NORTHERN PROVINCES OF SOUTH AMERICA.

	PAGE
CHAPTER I. Indians first seen by Columbus—Landing at Guanahani—Natives of Cuba—Embassy to the Grand Kahn!—Discovery of Hayti, and Interchange with the Natives—Guacanagari—Wreck of the Admiral's Vessel—Honesty and Hospitality of the Native Inhabitants—Trade for Gold—Building of the Fortress of La Navidad—Departure of the Nina—The Ciguayans—Disorders and Destruction of the Garrison at La Navidad—Port of St. Thomas,	487
CHAPTER II. Indians of Jamaica—Cruise along the Southern Coast of Cuba—Speech of an Indian Counsellor—Difficulties at the Fortress of St. Thomas—Its Siege by Caonabo—Efforts of Columbus to restore Order—Great Rising of the Indians of Hispaniola—Their Defeat—Tribute Imposed—Visit of Bartholomew to Xaraguay—Further Insurrection in the Vega—Bobadilla as Viceroy—Cruelties practised on the Indians—Las Casas—Incidents related by Purchas—Administration of Ovando—Expedition against Xaraguay—Reduction of Higüey,	495
CHAPTER III. The Caribs—Their Islands First Visited by Columbus—Origin and Location of the Race—Tokens of Cannibalism seen by the Spaniards—Cruise among the Islands—Demour of Prisoners taken—Return to Hispaniola—Destruction of the Fortress at that Island—Capture of Caonabo: His Death—Expulsion of the Natives from the Caribbee Islands,	506
CHAPTER IV. Indians of Guiana and Venezuela—Classification—The Arawaks—First seen by Columbus—Entry into the Gulf of Paria—Hospitality of the Natives—Raleigh's Visit to the Orinoco—Early Wars of the Arawaks—Victory over the Caribs—Maroon Negroes—Present Condition of the Arawaks—Other Tribes of the Interior—General Description,	512

THE ABORIGINES OF PERU.

CHAPTER I. Physical Peculiarities of the Quichuas, Aymaras, Atacamas, and Chancos—Nature of the Country—Peruvian Works of Art. &c.—First Rumors of the Wealth of the Country—Expedition of Pascual de Andagoya—Francisco Pizarro: His First Voyage of Discovery—Almagro's Voyage—Contract of Pizarro, Almagro, and Luque—The Second Expedition—Pizarro and his Companions upon the Isle of Gorgona—Continuation of the Voyage—Return to Panama,	520
CHAPTER II. Mythological Traditions—Topa Inca Yupanqui, and his Son Huayna Capac—The Peruvian Capital—Religious System—Government—Agrarian Law—Llamas—Public Records: The "Quipu"—Agriculture—Marriages—Warlike Policy of the Incas—The Great Roads—Contentment of the Natives—Division of the Empire: Huascar and Atahualpa—Contest for Supremacy,	531
CHAPTER III. Pizarro's Visit to Spain, and Application to the Emperor—His Four Brothers—Funds procured for a New Expedition to Peru—Vessels again fitted out at Panama—Landing of the Spaniards upon the Peruvian Coast—Plunder at Cosque—The March towards Tumbes—Battles on the Isle of Puna—Tumbes Deserted—Settlement of San Miguel—March into the Interior—Passage of the Andes—Messages from Atahualpa—Entry into Caxamalca,	542
CHAPTER IV. First Interview with the Inca—Plans for his Capture—Entry of Atahualpa into Caxamalca—Address of the Chaplain—Attack by the Spaniards: Fearful Massacre of the Natives, and Seizure of the Inca—Prisoners and Plunder obtained—The Promised Ransom—Hernando Pizarro's Visit to Pachacamac—	