

Canadian Forestry Journal

VOL. XII.

FEBRUARY, 1916.

No. 2.

(Printed at Kingston, Ont.)

J. B. T. Photo.

Clay plain in the Northern Subdivision of the Upland Country.

Forests of the District of Patricia

Population, 3000 Indians, 9 Whites—Average of Whole Country
About Two Cords Per Acre.

By

J. B. Tyrrell, M.A., M.E., F.R.S.C., F.G.S.

The district of Patricia lies in the extreme North-western portion of the Province of Ontario and constitutes that vast new country which has recently been handed over to it by the Dominion. Up to the last few years it was an unorganized and practically unknown portion of Canada directly under the control of the central Government at Ottawa. It has an area of 150,000 square miles, more than three times the