

Orientation week (continued from p. 21)

A scavenger hunt Friday afternoon proved educational as well as fun, sending students to a variety of student service locations. A "greaser dance" featuring music of the '50s and '60s concluded the evening.

A unique twist was thrown into things Saturday as a trumpeter went around to various residences on campus, playing Reveille to awaken freshmen for a breakfast hosted by the Fredericton Chamber of Commerce. The breakfast, for Shinerama participants, was attended by about 400, more than twice as many as last year, said Finnan. The eager shoeshiners were also rewarded with a Shinerama barbeque that afternoon. Freshmen enjoyed the rest of the evening with a dance and all-night horror movies, while those 19 and older could attend "Extravaganza," an annual event featuring three floors of entertainment in the student union building. This year's event, featuring the rock bands the Pinups and the Terry Crawford Band, as well as UNB graduate and folk performer Joan Wellhauser, sold out 1,000 tickets, said Finnan.
