LICENSE COMMISSIONERSHIPS.

It seems to be generally conceded that the memoers of the Whitney Government w I: remove all the present License Commissioners and form the boards out of mea of their own

This is a proper course to be taked and it will doubtless be inaugurated with all cossible despatch.

The existing commissioners are not in touch with the desires of the Administration and many of them, mo e. over, are holding their positions because of their willingness to wield the party lash.

Hon. Mr. Hanna has intimated that he considers such boards should be formed of one leading temperance man, one man to whom the members of the trade might equally feel they could szeak on behalf of their interests and one citizen of what might be termed neutral views.

Such a combination would without doubt meet the desires of all classes and it is to be hoped the principle is one which will be carried out.

THE PROPOSAL ENDORSED

The Ottawa Citizen, one of the most pronounced Conservative papers in the province, approves of the proposal to pay a salary to the leader of the Opposition, and generously comments on Mr. Ross

"Such action would meet with gen eral approval, for, however the late Government leader's public acts and policy may be criticized, like many Canadian statesmen of prominence, he has never benefited personally as a result of his devotion to public life and is to-day a poor man. Apart from that, the principle is becoming generally recognized that an Opposition leader who practically places his whole time at the disposal of the public should receive a salary."

The Woodstock Express quotes the above and adds:

"There is reason in this. It might be pointed out, too, that not infrequently the leader of the Opposition renders more genuine service to the country than the leader of the Government party. He is freer to serve the people, and perhaps he finds more inducement to serve the whole peo

R. R. They would much prefer a fixed and certain salary to fees that are neither frequent nor

Now that there is a Conservative Government in Lower, there is a proposal that the Gamey-Stratton deal be probed to the bottom, and that an attempt be made to furnish an answer to the one great and absorbing question which the election left unanswered-"Where did the money come from?" The Government might

Now that Premier Parent appears to have got a decision against him, numerous Liberal organs are discov ering that he committed a very unfair and indiscreet act in rushing on the Quebec elections without giving the opposition time to organize, and that altogether he is reaping the result: of his "impolitic" act. But at the time Parent brought off his smart coup they had nothing but admiration for his duplicity.

DRAINAGE DEGISION

Drainage Referee J. B. Rankin, K C., has given his judgment in the suit of McClure vs. Brooke Township, Lambton County. A by-law passed by the Tp. of Brooke in 1902 for the purpose of levying on the A curious lamp has been constructed by a professor. A glass globe damages and costs in two proceedings of McClure vs. Brooke and Bryce vs. Brooke. The damages recovered in both suits amounted to $550. With costs addes, the total amount was $1,225. The damages were suffered in consequence of the condition of drainage work in 1900 and 1901. Under the by-law of 1902 certain rate-payers were assessed for benefit and others for outlet, the ratio being about 3 to 1, nearly three times as much being assessed for benefit as for outlet. Under section 95 of the Act, it was sought to make the by-law of 1902 a basis for assessing damages and costs incurred by reason of the damages in 1900 and 1901.

Judge Rankin held that the by-law for 1902 was neither a by-law for 1902 was neither a by-law for sonstruction nor a by-law for repair within the meaning of section 95, and such by-law did not establish a fair, just and legal basis for settling the assessment of such damages and costs. The by-law was set aside as quashed with costs.

Know The Value of Pyramid P.le

"Gratitude alone prompts me to testify to the efficacy of Pyramid P.le Cure. Last March I bought a dollar package ar the drug store, which cured me of bleeding piles, and I was a sufferer from them for eight years; but I had not been troubled with them since until last Southern years; but I had not been troubled with them since, until last September, when I gave bigth to a baby girl, and after that I had a very sovere case of protruding ples, which a trained nurse said was the worst case she ever saw and my doctor told me to get Pyram. I file Cure again, which I did, and was completely cured in three days. I have not had piles of any kind since and it is all owing to this wonderful remedy. My nurse took a box, which I was glad to be able to give her, for I know she will be able to help lots of suffering propie whom I could never see or know.

"I recommend 'Pyram'ds' whereever see or know.

"I recommend 'Pyram'ds' whereever I know of any one suffering as I did. It gives me great pleasure to be able to say I am entirely cured, which my doctor says is true. I say God Bless Pyram'd P'le Cure." From a former great sufferer, Mrs. F. Ancott, 1206 Unity street, Frankford, Philadelph'a, Pa.

This remedy, which is sold by druggists generally, in fifty cent and tollar packages, is in a suppository

Its value is evi-denced by the testimony given above and we urge all sufferers to buy a package now and gree its tribula and we urge all sufferers to buy a package now and give it a trial tonight. Accept no substitute and remember that there is no remedy "just as good," A little book on the Cause and Cure of Piles is published by the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and will be sent free to any address.

A Lamp Made of Microbes.

A curious lamp has been constructed by a professor. A glass globe placed on a metal stand is nearly filled with a liquid composed of luminous marine microbes. There are two tubes running from the globe and through these a supply of air can be sent to the interior when the light grows dull, the effect apparently being to revivify the microbes. The light from this lamp will last for several weeks without renewal of the fluminating medium.

For eight seasons this remarkable play has been on the stage and yet the intense silence, the eager watchfulness of the spectators and the unmistakable interest was greater than at its first presentation here. And the reasons for all this can easily be traced.

"In the first place the story, while traced.

"In the first place the story, while both of a religious and an historical nature, is yet told with so large an amount of human traits that it appeals strongly to all classes. Love, hate, simbition and other of the passions of man burned as fiercely in the days of Nero, the despot, as they do to-day, and while the brutal instincts of mankind were held less in check then, there are the same underlying principles, so that there is no sentiment which is not readily understood and appreciated.

"Then again, the management has permitted no deterioration as regards production, either in cast or scenic environment, and this factor enters in no small degree into the wonderful success achieved by The Sign of the Cross." The company at the Music Hall is no exception to the general rule."

The Biggest Shells. The biggest shells are found on large barrier reef of the Indian ocean, 1,200 miles long, east of Australia. Here the monsters come up on the rocks, which are almost inaccessible and grow to weigh over 300 pounds. The Smithsonian has one of these bivalves in its collection which stands over three feet high. It has a saw tooth edge and inside a large muscle scar. The natives stand in as much fear of them as they do of a mad elephant and many traditions are common among them of how arms and legs have been bitten off.

Whooping Cough.

Whooping cough is more infectious before the whoop develops than it is afterward. Children who have been exposed to the disease and have a slight cough should be isolated for several days lest they communicate it to other children. It may begin at any time during three weeks after exposire. When this time has passed without the symptoms appearing the child is probably safe.

"You know, they say, 'all the world loves a lover,'" began the sentimental young man.

"Yes," interrupted the cynic, "but not as much as it loves to hear the lover's letters read out in court."

THE DEATH DICE.

A Strange Story That Comes From the Seventeenth Century.

A notable exhibit in the Berlin Hohenzollern museum consists of the fa-mous "death dice." About the middle of the seventeenth century a beautiful young girl was murdered, and sas picion fell on two soldiers, Ralph and Alfred, who were rival suitors for her hand. As both prisoners denied their guilt and even torture failed to extract a confession from either Prince Frederick William, the kaiser's ancestor, decided to cut the Gordion knot with the dice box. The two soldiers should throw for their lives, the loser to be executed as the murderer. The event was celebrated with great pomp and solemnity, and the prince himself assisted at this appeal to divine intervention, as it was considered by every body, including the accused themsely

Ralph was given the first throw, and he drew sixes, the highest possible number, and no doubt felt jubilant. The dice box was then given to Alfred, who fell on his knees and prayed aloud: "Almighty God, thou knowest I am innocent. Protect me, I beseech thee!' Rising to his feet, he threw the dice with such force that one of them broke in two. The unbroken one showed six, the broken one also showed six on the larger portion, and the bit that had been split off showed one, giving a total of thirteen, or one more than the throw of Ralph. The whole audi-ence thrilled with astonishment, while the prince exclaimed, "God has spo ken!" Ralph, regarding the miracle as sign from heaven, confessed his guilt and was sentenced to death. It is prob able that Alfred ever after did not number himself among those who look on thirteen as an unlucky number. London Tatler.

A FATEFUL DREAM.

Death Came Precisely as It Had Beer

A strange family story is told in the "Reminiscences of Mrs. Pickering." It has to do with her sister Jane, married to Lord Andover, eldest son of the Earl of Suffolk "She (Lady Andover) had always been noted for having the most re-markable dreams, and one morning she awoke feeling nervous and uncomfortable, having dreamed that Lord Ando ver had gone out shooting when there was a battue and had been shot. This made such an impression on her mind that she entreated him not to shoot that day, but to stay with her, which he at once consented to do, and they resumed their painting and reading But the day came out so had winter sun shone so brightly that my aunt, feeling she had been selfish; at last begged him not to lose the day for her sake, but to go out and join the others, so he went. After he had gone she became so restless and uneasy that she started to walk across the park to the covert where they were shooting. As she crossed the park she observed one of the grooms galloping hard toward the house on her own favorite horse, Baronet. Sfrange to say, no pre-sentiment of evil seems at that moment to have struck her, and she only remarked, 'How vesy angry Lord Andover would be if he could see that man riding my horse in such a way!' He was riding to the house with the news that Lord Andover had been shot

In the earliest examples we possess of ancient literature we are not allowed even a glimpse of the individualities of their authors. The works themselves, their authors. The works themselves, if they had been prized because of the wit, ingenuity, fertile fancy, brilliant conceit or any other individual peculiarity, mental or temperamental, of the men who produced them would have been preserved. In some cases, as in that of the Iliad and Odyssey, the reputed authorship has been as obstinately questioned as that of the fourth gospel and several of the epistles. In the very earliest literature the individual was of no account in the matter of authorship; he was only the collector or editor of spontaneous and unwritten folk song and legend or, if he gave these their final shape, was only joint author with his race.—H, M. Aiden in Harper's Magazine.

WHAT CAUSES SNORING.

When asleep, people that snore breathe through the mouth instead of the nostrils, which are choked with catarrh. Just use "Catarrhozone" before retiring and you'll quickly cure the snoring habt. By destroying the cause of catarrh and healing the membranes, Catarrhozone makes a complete oure in every case; it cleans the nostrils, stops the discharge and prevents dropping in the throat in a few minutes. Nothing so pleasant or certain to cure snoring, catarrhozone—that's worth remembering.
