

Puzzles.

- 1—WORD SQUARE.
1—To assume.
2—A relation.
3—A tie.
4—A name.

EDDIE R. DOW.

- 2—DROP LETTER.
D-S-O-S-S-I-N.
3—

I am twelve inches tall,
And greatly loved by all,
My outer garment's red,
But I'm black and white inside.

J. ST. CLARE BARNABY.

- 4—DECAPITATION.

Young ninety-two has called on us;
I think he means to stay;
But tho' we loved old ninety-one,
He went from us away.

Now, the old adage tells us
From good old friends and true
To Primal not, nor Final go
From them to greet the new.

But this is what is being done
By our old Uncle Tom,
Leaving the old to coax the new
To join our merry "dom."

And though it leaves us in the cold,
I think it's only fair,
To let the puzzle prizes
Take a trip or two elsewhere.

ADA ARMAND.

6—To influence. 7—Beginning to exist.
8—Half a square of type. 9—A consonant.

FAIRBROTHER.

- 7—ILLUSTRATED REBUS.

- 7—TRANSPPOSITION.

They say I am a roving lad,
That never can keep still;
They put me in a one-hoss shay,
And sent me to the mill.

The boss belonged to my grand-dad,
The shay to my Uncle Ben;
It was my task to get some meal,
Then hurry back again.

Upon the way the boss did balk,
A step he would not go,
And you just bet I first that mad,
I wished him down below.

But all things to an end must come,
Even a boss's balk;
At last he started down the hill,
Some faster than a walk.

Perhaps you'd take it as a joke,
But I was last behind;
The boss did go, I hollared when,
And caught him, as you'll find.

Now when I came unto the mill,
The miller was not in,
I was destined to get no meal,
Now wasn't that a sin?

Alas! alas! what could I do?
Without the meal return?
But here, dear reader, if you please,
My story I'll adjourn.

FAIRBROTHER.
