Hungry Hogs

The hungrier a hog gets, the better—provided he digests and assimilates all he eats. The good appetite means more weight, quicker finishing and greater profit.

DR. HESS STOCK FOOD

gives a sharp appetite, and by toning up the digestive and assimilative organs, insures that the maximum amount of the food eaten will be turned into weight. It also expels worms and prevents disease.

It is not a condimental food, but a scientific stock tonic and laxative, the famous prescription of Dr. Hess (M.D., D.V.S.). Good alike for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep.

AN IMPORTANT SHORTHORN SALE.

As was announced in these columns several months ago, the well known importers and breeders of Shorthorn cattle, Messrs. H. Cargill & Son, of Cargill, and W. G. Pettit & Sons, of Freeman, Ont., with the idea of establishing an annual auction sale of their bull calves after the manner of the offerings for many years past from the noted herds of Messrs. Duthie and Marr in Scotland, have chosen Thursday, November 10th, as the date for their initial sale, to be held at Hamilton, Ontario, when they will dispose of their entire crop of bull calves over six months old, and in order to make the offering still more attractive, will include a number of young cows, heifers and heifer calves, making in all between fifty and sixty head, about thirty of which are young bulls, from eight to fourteen months old, sired by the half dozen high-class imported Scotch-bred bulls in service in the Cargill and Freeman herds, which probably include more imported cows than any other two herds in America. It is now generally acknowledged that fall calves are the most profitable to raise, and prudent breeders requiring to purchase look for young bulls in November before the stock has been picked over, in order to have them used to their new quarters when the breeding season commences, which is exceedingly important, as often a bull changed from one place to another, placed in strange surroundings and subjected to a change of diet, is not a sure stock-getter for a month or two, causing anxiety and disappointment. The opportunity of selecting from the year's produce of such richly-bred herds, the progeny of such noted sires is rarely afforded, at least four of these sires having been bred in the noted Collingie and Uppermill herds of Messrs. Duthie and Marr, while nearly all the calves in the sale are out of imported cows of similar breeding or the daughters of imported cows. Experience has taught that, as a rule, these Scotch-bred bulls, even when not show bulls themselves, have a potent influence in moulding the type of their offspring to the desired conformation, as the result of the breeding that is behind them. The demand for Scotch-bred cattle on the part of English and South American breeders, the prices ruling so high that it is hardly possible to buy a good young bull over there for less than £100, the probability is that very few will be brought to Canada for some time. But, fortunately, our enterprising breeders have, in the last few years, secured a good stock of the best of Scotland's blood, and the Cargill-Pettit sale on November 10th will afford an excellent opportunity of securing some of it. The advertisement of their sale will appear in the next issue of the "Farmer's Advocate," and the catalogue, which will be ready for distribution next week, will be sent to all applicants by W. G. Pettit & Sons, Freeman, Ont.

At the National Exhibition, at Toronto, this year was, no doubt, the largest as well as the best exhibit of Hackney stallions ever seen together in this country. One that commanded a great deal of attention and admiration was the newly imported Painslack Prime Minister (85599) —223—, whose photograph appears in this issue, imported and owned by Mr. Adam Dawson, of Cannington, Ont., bred by Wharham Clarkson, Painslack, York, Eng., sired by Pilot 2nd, by Lord Derwent 2nd, dam Lady Cwendoline, by Highflyer, grandam by Fireaway. He is a brown four-year-old, and as near perfect in make-up as is possible. In looking him over from the ground up, the most exacting critic will find it difficult to fault him. Being bought off the season and having just arrived from a long and rough sea voyage, he was in no condition to enter the show-ring, but with a few months' proper care, and a little more action education, we do not hesitate to predict that this horse has a brilliant future in the show ring, and the section of country that gets his services will be lucky indeed. He is for sale at any time. Mr. Dawson has also a couple of high-class quality Clydesdales imported at the same time, which, when fully recovered from the sea voyage, will also be offered for sale. Particulars of which will appear later.
