RECENT CURES BY D.D.D. IN CANADA

Mrs. Sarah E. Hollingsworth, Picton, Ont., writes: "Every other remedy I had tried would help for a while, but D.D.D. cured completely. It also cured a friend of mine who suffered untold agony before using it, and whom no doctor could help."

Mrs. Henry Harvey, Black Lake, P. Q., Canada, says: "I had been a sufferer from facial eczema for about ten years. I was treated unavailingly by several doctors and remedies. About two years ago I saw D.D.D. advertised. I at once decided to give it a trial and sent for a sample bottle, which cured me in a couple of weeks, and I have not had it since. D.D.D. has been a god-send to me as well as many others."

Mrs. William Fox, Chancery Lane, Brockville, Ont., Can., says: "Gladly I give you consent to use any letter I may have sent in praise of your wonderful D.D.D. Prescription. My little daughter's head still remains clear of the horrid scaly disease. Her father and I both notice how much brighter she is and her light hair is simply beautiful, so thick and glossy, after six years of suffering. It seems wonderful that less than four bottles of D.D.D. should have cured her after so much money spent on the X-Ray treatment, failed."

J. Gillespie, 576 Beverly St., Winnipeg, Can., says: "I have found in my case D.D.D. does all that is claimed for it."

Mrs. Wm. Monon, King St., Picton, Ont., Can., writes: "I have used the D.D.D. Prescription and I feel safe in recommending it to all skin sufferers as a fine medicine. I suffered so much from eczema before I knew of D.D.D. that I feel more than grateful for what it has done for me."

hissing of battle; so that, it was said, certain young people from Bear River actually thought it worth their while to climb the steeps and stand peering, in painfully suppressed merriment from behind the bunch of firs, in order to view the scene.

It was well for Rob that he plodded stoutly on, unconscious of the general interest which attached to this experimentative dawn of his existence; better for him, too, that he had not been finally presented as a gathered previously to witness his gloved attack upon the household ham, which hung in the back shed.

For, let it be duly narrated, having put out his wash in the manner aforesaid, he had, of meditated and silent purpose, hied him in at the rear door of the shed; had there stood off and aimed so unerring and ferocious a blow at the ham that it did thereupon leap from its hook and pound down with a monstrous noise upon the floor.

Rob, glancing warily about him, and believing himself undetected, proceeded to drive a competent bolt into the rafters, and hung the ham thereon, secured through its tendon with new rope, many-stranded and heavily tarred; he then braced off to renew the assault.

Meanwhile, Bate had entered the house with an unaccustomed look of animation, and even almost of good-nature, on his face.

"Say, Ma'y, come on out to the shed. Step careful! S-sh! Now peek in thar' through the crack."

Rob, his stage accessories complete, had just entered, as we have said, on the first scene in this new arena. The look he bent upon the ham was haughty, significant, and merciless. He dealt the ham a stunner, and the ham swung back and then returned to reach out swiftly and menacingly after him. Rob retreated a pace with incredible quickness, then darted forward again to strike, all the lory and ambition of those renowned in the ring shining in his eyes. The combat was not unequal on the whole. The ham was deep-salted, tough, and formidable with the sinews of maturity. Where Rob had the advantage of inspired calculation, the ham had the enduring obstinacy of a creature impervious to suffering or fatigue.

Rob watched his opportunities ever more and more alertly, and did buffet the ham right valiantly; until, some tired swerve of his wrist caused him to administer a blow that so reacted upon his own knuckles he jumped perpendicularly with the pain of it, and as he descended, the ham, too, returned from its flight and fetched him a broadside of punishment that sent him reeling against the meat barrel, to its overthrow and his own accompanying downfall. Sadly, too, he fell on that particular rack of the shed where a setting hen, unthrone by such rude means, bristled her every feather at him with angry maledictions, and even pecked audaciously at his already battered features.

At this point Bate succumbed to a breathless spasm of mirth. Softly he let himself down to earth and rolled over and over with the glee of his emotions, and silently he rolled himself to a safe ground of vantage where he could rise and slink away, leaving Mary as sole occupant of the proscenium box.

A German tavernkeeper, while crossing the Atlantic, accosted a steward, and inquired, doubtfully:

"Ve no can smoke here, yes?" Instead of replying, the attendant pointed to a sign, which read: "Smoke here, not aft."

The German was so pleased with the pantomime method of communication that he memorized the words that appeared upon the sign. A month later he returned to his native country, and had a huge placard posted in the bar-room of his tavern. The first to notice it was a party of American tourists, who roared with laughter as they read: "Smoke here, but not hereafter."
