"A compass," said Grandfather oracularly, "is a good deal like a human being. Unless it's perfectly true and dependable, it is not worth much to anybody. And if you lose faith in it once, it's pretty hard to teel like ever trusting it ever again."

A LIVING ISLAND.

The alligator is not in any way an attractive animal. On the contrary, it is about as repellant in looks and disposition as any living creature very well can be. And yet in one respect, at least, is it to be envied. It can go through life without ever needing a dentist, unless it be to eat him; for it never keeps its teeth long enough to give them any chance to decay or ache or get out of order in any way. When an alligator's tooth is worn out or broken or in need of any kind of repair it drops out, and behold! a new one is ready to take its place. But I hardly need say that the alligator's teeth are a joy only to itself.

Another peculiarity of the alligator is its ability to sleep. Like friends.' other reptiles, it is so cold blooded that it likes warmth and hates cold It needs water, too, and as the dry season and the cool season come on together in Florida, there is a double reason why the Florida alligator should go into winter quarters. It buries itself in the mud after the manner of its kind and settles down for a long nap.

Sometimes it happens that grass and quick growing shrubs spring up on the back of this torpid animal. As a rule these are all shaken or washed off when, with the first warm rains, the alligator rouses itself and makes for the water; but occasionally, for some reason, the mud clings and with it the plantgrowth, so that when the halfawakened creature slides into the water and floats stupidly off, it looks like a floating island.

In one such instance a ployer was so deceived as to build its nest in the plant-growth on the alligator's back. The living island so freighted floated slowly down the stream until it was noticed by a party of boys who were out fishing. They saw the plover rise from the little island, and suspecting a nest to be there, they gave up their fishing and rowed out to it.

They never suspected the nature of the island until they had bumped their boat rather rudely into it once or twice, and so vexed the alligator that it opened its huge mouth with a startling swiftness that brought a chorus of yells from the nestrobbers and sent them off in a fit mood to sympathize with the plover, which was fluttering about and crying piteously at the raid upon its

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linsced and Turpentine.

In about seventy-five thousand homes of Canada Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is the only recognized cure for coughs, colds, bronchitis and other throat and lung diseases. By its unusual merit as a thorough and farreaching treatment it has acquired an enormous sale in Canada and the United States. Here is the opinion of Toronto people who have used it.

Mr. Donald Graham, 45 Callendar street, Toronto, states: "My boy, who is six years of age, was developing all the symptoms of pneumonia when we commenced giving him Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It very quickly checked the advance of disease, and in a few days he was as well as ever, and is now going to school regularly. I have now great faith in this valuable remedy, and shall recommend it to my

Mr. A. Westrop, 159 Victoria street, Toronto, states: "Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is the quickest acting medicine I ever took. It completely cured me of a severe attack of la grippe, with all its miseries. I feel grateful, therefore, and recommend it confidently to other sufferers."
