BOMB OUTRAGES.

Britain Has Been the Scene of Severe and Exciting Episodes.

Happily bomb outrages, either for political or other reasons, are somewhat rare in this country, and it is necessary to go back to the time of the Fenian activities in the 'eighties for parallel cases to that of 19th February, when the suffragettes wrecked with canisters of gunpowder the house at Walton Heath, in the County of Surrey, which Mr. Lloyd George had arranged to lease from Sir George Ridell, says London Tit-Bits.
The period covering the years 1883-87 was one of great anxiety for the police, who were constantly engaged in circumventing the plots of Fenians and discovering the perpetrators of diabolical bomb outrages which sometimes resulted in the sacrifice of human life. For although the Fenians, like the suffragettes, were actuated by political motives, the former, unlike the latter, were no respecters of human life, and caused bombs to explode indiscriminately.

The first great outrage was a terrific explosion which occurred on March 15th, 1883, at the Local Government Board Offices in Whitehall.
So violent was the report that it was heard over an area of three miles.
In the House of Commons, where the sound of the explosion was of a most alarming nature, the report was accompanied by a shaking of the whole building, and caused the most lively anxiety among the members. It was at first supposed that the explosion was caused by gas, but on examination the serious damage suffered by the Local Government Board Offices, as well as by many adjoining buildings, soon satisfied the authorities that it must have been caused by dynamite or explosive of a similar nature.

Indeed, the late Sir Howard Vincent, who was at that time head of the Criminal Investigation Department, said that undoubtedly a considerable quantity of nitro-glycerine had been deposited inside the balustrade of the Local Government Board Offices and ignited by a time fuse.
Ultimately four of the conspirators were arrested and sentenced to penal servitude for life. According to Sir Howard Vincent, they had come from the United States in February of the same year, and, after visiting Glasgow, established a nitro-glycerine factory in a house in Jedsame street, Birmingham, from whence the explosive was conveyed to London in india-rubber bags, the conspirators acting under the direction of Thomas Gallagher, an American medical man, who was one of four conspirators sent to prison.

In the same year some startling outrages took place in Glasgow, when various members of what was known as the Secret Ribbon Society, which had for its object the subversion by violence of the Government in Ireland, attempted to destroy, by means of dynamite, public buildings and works in that city. They attempted, among other things, to blow up a gasometer and destroy the canal bridge at Possil Park. Altogether ten men were arrested; five were sentenced to penal servitude for life, the remaining five receiving sentences of seven years each.

First Man To Use Gas.

In 1792 a manufacturer of Redruth in Cornwall named Murdoch made gas to light his home and factory. Pall Mall in London, 1807, was the first street to be lighted by gas.

Gas is obtained from coal, which is heated in large retorts; the heavy gas drawn off passes by a pipe, called the hydraulic main, through a number of curved pipes called condensers, in which process coal tar and ammonia-cal liquor condense and fall into well.
The gas passes to purifiers over slaked lime, which takes up sulphureted hydrogen and carbonic acid; it is then headed downward to the gas holder, a large tank having its base resting on water, and from which the gas is distributed to the consumers.

Certain by-products are obtained in the course of manufacture which are more valuable than the gas itself; these include coke, ammonia, aniline, phenol or carbolic acid, naphthalene dyes, various artificial drugs and basic perfumes.

Spilled Their Game.

A curious fact about London sand-wichmen has been revealed in the working of the Insurance Act. The Act has spoiled a little game which certain sandwichmen used to play with great profit. A man would hire himself to one employer and go off with the boards. But he would carefully deposit them in some secret corner and then go and offer himself to another employer. In some cases this could be worked several times over without detection. In the evening the man would deliver up the boards in the order in which he had received them. But the working of the Insurance Act gave the show away, for these pluralists had to have an insurance card for each employer.

Tibetan Teamaking.

An Englishman while in Tibet was invited out to tea and learned the art of teamaking as practiced in that country. It appears to be somewhat as follows:

For six persons boil a teacupful of tea in three pints of water for ten minutes, with a heaping dessertspoonful of soda. Put the infusion into the churn, with one pound of butter and a small tablespoonful of salt. Churn until the combination is of the consistency of cream.

The Tibetans prize butter for its age. The best is often forty, fifty or even sixty years old.

A Flock of Parsons.

There are no doubt some curious names among the Welsh clergy, but the following string of names occurring in the list of preachers on a recent Sunday at some of the English cathedrals is very odd: Canterbury, Canon Partridge; Lincoln, Canon Bullock; Peterborough, the Rev. F. C.
Parnham; Worcester, the Rev. F. C.

Silver Anniversary

On Friday last Mr and Mrs W. F.
Earl celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding day with a party of friends at their summer home, Charleston Lake. The weather during the day was delightful, the lake just rough enough to suit a good sailor, and several pleasant excursions among the islands were made.

Over thirty guests sat down to a rich repast, and at its conclusion Mrs W. F. Earl read to the bridal couple a very felicitous address, accompanied with the presentation of a silver bake dish. The happy groom was not expecting this, but was equal to the occasion and made fitting acknowledgment in a neat speech.
Several of the young people present, who are also growing older gracefully, admitted that they too were nearing the quarter century mark of wedded life.

The Reporter has pleasure in extending congratulations to Mr and Mrs Earl.

HARD ISLAND

Two of our most progressive fruit growers, Messrs P. F. Yates and M.
L. Dunham, have kept their orchards well sprayed and will no doubt reap good results therefrom.

Mr D. Yonge, who recently purchased the Foley farm, is placing a new wind-mill at his well for the purpose of forcing the water across the road to a tank in the barn yards.

Mr and Mrs S. Lake of Gananoque were guests at P. H. Robeson's for a few days recently.

The large attendance at the religious service held in the school house here on Sunday evening last taxed the seating capacity to about its utmost extent.
The service was truly interesting and inspiring, as the little band of Christian workers in charge plainly evinced that they knew full well of the things whereof they spoke. The meeting was also feelingly addressed near the close by one of our former school teachers, who always finds a very welcome place in all such gatherings here. A similar service will again be held on Sunday evening next, when Mr E. W. Middleton of Hamilton is expected to be present and take charge of some part of the service.

Big Attractions for Ottawa Fair

The Special Attractions Committee of the Central Exhibition have completed arrangements for most of the entertainment features of the next Ottawa Fair. The programme provides for six full days and nights, meaning that the opening Monday afternoon will be complete in every particular as well as the concluding Saturday night. The most elaborate military and pyrotechnic spectacle yet attempted, "The Siege of Delhi," has been arranged for with The Hand Co. of Hamilton, at a cost of $5,500. Six vaudeville troupes, two from Chicago and four from New York, have been engaged with a special view of presented novelty acts to Central Canada patrons.

The biggest sensation of all is the aeroplane. Capt. Baldwin is to appear twice daily in flights, starting before the grand stand, and giving a performance, with every feature visible to the Fair Visitors. This will be a decided improvement on the aviation feats at the 1911 Exhibition, when the artist was obliged to start a mile away from the grounds.

A demonstration of life-saving is to be made before the grand stand by the Ottawa Fire Brigade. That will be a striking novelty.

It is the intention to bring several outside bands to the Exhibition. Probably only two local bands will be engaged. The change will result in a greater variety of music being offered.

BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS AT BROCKVILLE

Great Spectacle of "Cleopatra" Begins Regular Performance.

The Barnum and Bailey Greatest Show on Earth and newly added spectacle of "Cleopatra" will exhibit in Brockville on June 26. The spectacle in itself is an attraction that should fill the big tent at each performance and draw thousands of visitors from the surrounding districts. It is beyond question the greatest production of its kind ever seen in America.

The world's most skillful scenic artists, costumers, property builders, chorus directors and stage managers were engaged to mount the production. A stage bigger than a hundred ordinary theaters was built and made portable so that it can be conveyed from town to town and erected each day in the main tent. The circus proprietors have thus made it possible for those who live in contributory towns, even farmers and their families, to see the magnificent wordless, play that is an immense attraction in the largest cities. It is enacted with a cast of 1,250 actors, a grand opera chorus, an orchestra of 100 soloists, a ballet of 350 dancing girls, 650 costumed acrobats, carpavals of camels, and a trainload of special devices, costumes, and scenery and electrical mechanism for producing with complete confidence that your concrete work will be thoroughly satisfactory.

You ought to have this confidence in the cement you use, because you have not the facilities for testing its qualities, such as are at the disposal of the engineers in charge of big contracting jobs.
These engineers know that when cement has passed the tests made upon it at Canada Cement mills, it will pass all their tests.
And this same cement is sold to you for your silo, your foundations, your feeding-trough, your milk-house or your watering-trough.
Used according to the directions in our free book "What the Farmer can do with Concrete," Canada Cement never fails to give satisfactory results. Write for the book. It not only tells you how to mix and place concrete, but will also suggest scores of uses for it on your farm, every one of them valuable to you. In asking for the book you do not incur the slightest obligation.

such effects a lightning, thunder, sand storms on the desert, volcanoes in action, sunrise, floods, and mirages.

The realism of the scenery is perfect. It is as though the audience was looking into the streets of Alexandria in the days of Ptolemy. The streets chrob with their strange cosmopolitan life. In the middle distance flows the Nile, the mighty pyramids and the sphinxes looking down from past ages.
Beyond them stretch endless wastes of sand. The laureates of a dead race speak from forgotten tombs. The walls of Time fall down and we see the court of Cleopatra during its years of extravagance and revelry, and hear the story of the betrayal of Rome and the undoing of Marc Antony, told in a vividly realistic way. The incidental music was arranged by Fatis Effendi, late landmaster of the Khedive of Egypt. The ballet is under the direction of Ottokar Bartik, balletmaster of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company.

The regular circus programme is the finest the Barnum and Bailey management has ever offered. Thrilling acts are presented by Miss Bird Millman, strangest and most beautiful woman before the public; May Wirth, the greatest of all riders, a company of Japanese wrestlers, athletes, sword-men and jiu jitsu experts, the Five Baltons, strong women. There are 400 performers. In the menagerie will be found the only baby giraffe on exhibition in the world. There will be a parade at 10 o'clock in the forenoon

The Brodrick Cap.

Viscount Middleton, who celebrated his fifty-sixth birthday recently, is better known to the general public as Mr. St. John Brodrick. He was a member of Mr. Balfour's administration, but his tenure at the War Office was the reverse of happy. The "Bro-drick Cap" was ridiculed on all sides, and Mr. St. John Brodrick was for ever in hot water. After his unfortunate experience at the War Office, during which he had to face the storm which arose at the conclusion of the South African War, and had to bear the blame not only for his own mistakes, but also for those of others over whom he had no control, he was appointed Secretary of State for India. He found this a more placid post, but only held it from 1903-1905, when his party was turned out of office.

The first Viscount Midleton was Alan Brodrick, who was Lord Chancellor of Ireland, and the family still retain a residence at Midleton in Ireland.

Tragedy of Vanity.

A tragic ending to a young girl's objection to an unbecoming hat was disclosed at the Westminster inquest held recently on the body of Madalina Bertini, aged 15, an Italian lace-worker in London, who committed suicide after quarrelling with her mother. Her body was found in the Thames.

A friend of the girl's stated that deceased had a "tiff" with her mother over a black hat. The mother insisted on the girl wearing it at a funeral on Saturday, and the fact that the hat belonged to the mother and was unsuited to the girl apparently worried her very much. She became very depressed and morose.

The Good Old Times!

A state paper of the time of William Rufus describing the royal household mentioned a hundred servants in the king's kitchen and only four in the laundry, indicating that washing was not of much account in those days.
Even so late as the reign of Charles II. Pepys thought it worthy of record in his diary that on Feb. 24, 1664, his wife took a bath.—London Telegraph.

The Drummer.

Drummers seldom pray much, pay their bills, usually hate shams, dodge tom-bes, have warm hearts, quick wits, much nerve and more courage, but are born softies. They have good memories, much humor and a fund of stories limited only by time. They can preach a sermon, lead in prayer, time a horse race, umpire a ball game, make a stump speech and have an opinion about every known subject from prize-fight to the nebular hypothesis.—Commercial Traveler's Magazine.

Firmness.

"When my wife makes up her mind," said Mr. Aberdeen, "there is no use of arguing with her."
"But every woman changes her opinion sometimes."

"Yes. And Henrietta is particularly resolute when she makes up her mind to change her opinion."—Washington Star.

No. Envious.

Mrs. Kicker—The Elligrees have a Corot in the dining room.
Mr. Kicker—That's nothing. We have a whistler in the kitchen.—Satire.
