Something About Binder Twine

Farmers who intend placing their orders for Binder Twine should not take any Twine unless they know some-thing about its brand. There will be a great deal of cheap, rough Twine on the market this coming year, and farmers should bear in mind that they have no way of discovering this until they come to use it, when they are really too busy to have any mistakes rectified.

We are selling the well-known brand "Our Superior" that we have sold here for 3 years and which has given universal satis-faction. We guarantee that the twine will be the same this year as last, hence, farmers will be perfectly safe in ordering it.

Last year some dealers sold a so-called Superior Twine, but it was not the genuine article, as Our Superior Twine is made by the Plymouth Cordage Co., and every ticket on the balls bears their trade-mark on the back, viz., a sheaf of grain. No twine that has not this trade mark on the back of the ticket is genuine "Our Superior Twine."

Farmers, remember this and do not allow yourselves to be imposed on. We are now taking orders for Binder Twine and are guaranteeing the price against any decline or advance up till the time you take your twine home. Our aim has always been to give the farmers a good working twine, and we think that considering the quantity we sell, there is no firm in Canada who receive fewer complaints.

NO CHINESE NATION.

CHINA AND THE CHINESE PEOPLE ARE NOT DISTINCT ENTITIES.

Nineteenth Century and After Review Says That China Has No Unity—Some Reasons Advanced for the Statement That Appear to Be Sound—How the Manchus Have Succeeded in Ruling.

According to the Nineteenth Century and After Review there is no Chinese nation. The Review says: "We are accustomed to speak of 'China' and 'the Chinese people' as if they were distinct entities. This is an error at the bottom of many of our mistakes and confusions. We may use the word China as a convenient expression to denote a certain vast portion of the earth's surface, but in no more exact sense. What figures as China on the map is a number of districts often separated from each other and from the centre by immense distances, differing widely in climate, resources and configuration, inhabited by people of largely varying race, temperament, habit, religion and language.

"The Mohammedans, of whom there are 30,000,000, regard the Buddhists as irreligious foreigners. The inhabitants of the central and northern provinces," says Mr. Keane, "scarcely regard those of the extreme southern districts as fellow-countrymen at all." A native of Shanghai was heard to say "There were seven Chinamen and two Cantonese." A man from Tien Tsin and a man from Canton can no more talk to each other than can a Frenchman and a Dutchman. Moreover, there exists between them a virulent race hatred. I lost the best Chinese servant I ever had because, being from the north, nothing would induce him to accompany me in the south of China, where his speech would have betrayed him. "Cantonese velly bad man, master," he said to me: "I go home." This curious inter-hatred is conspicuous where Chinese from different parts meet together, as, for example, in Hong Kong, on the plantations in Malaya, or the Dutch Indies. Savage faction fights are of constant occurrence. Consequently it is easy to raise a force of Chinese in one place to fight Chinese in another.

"It is because there is no such thing as 'China' that the military caste of the Manchus, comparatively infinitesimal in numbers, have been able to impose their rule upon the enormous masses of Chinese. They are in no wise to predicate anything of China as a whole, or to believe that what suits one part will necessarily suit another.

"Over the heterogeneous and conflicting masses of China, there has never been any effectual central control, and what control there has been has steadily grown weaker. The 'Vermilion pencil' makes a faint mark in the south, while in the southwest and extreme northwest it is little but an academic influence, and on the Tibetan borders none at all. 'Respect this!' appended to every imperial rescript in the Peking Gazette, is as far as from actuality as the 'Oye' of the usher with us, or the challenge of the Queen's champion at the coronation. There is, therefore, not the slightest possibility of the establishment by Chinese authority of a national army, or navy, or civil service. And the corruption which is the fatal curse of China, is directly due to the fact that there is not and cannot be any central authority to exercise control over local officials, or, in the absence of this, to pay them. The Chinese people, in the language of physics, is a mechanical mixture and not a chemical compound, and therefore it is irresponsive to the action of any single agent, and incapable of exhibiting any common property."

Drunker's You Are.

The Archbishop of York forms the subject of an interesting sketch in The Lady's Realm. Dr. MacLagan, like the Prime Minister, is a little bit of a third-class, and on one of his journeys about the diocese the archbishop found himself in a railway carriage with two drunken men. One of them complained that he had been robbed of a five-pound note, and was determined to search the pockets of his fellow passengers.

"I began to feel rather uncomfortable," says the archbishop, "as I happened to have a five-pound note in my pocket. I remained determined to sit quietly and feign sleep. Presently came the challenge: 'I say neighbor, but I made no answer.' 'Then the man grabbed me by the arm and shook me violently, but I did not wake up. He kept on shaking, but still I remained impassive. Then his friend interfered with, 'I say, Bill, leave him alone, can't you! He's drunker'n you are!'"

Deep Planting of Trees.

It is the general experience that deep planting is harmful and contrary to nature. Trees that are planted deeper than they stood in the nursery will make vigorous growth for a few years, as the wood covered will send out roots, but the old roots make no growth, finally decay, and sometimes cause the whole tree to die. We consider it very important that trees should not be planted deeper than they stood in the nursery. In planting straight sticks, by the Spring-fallow method, with the lateral roots all taken off, the trees may be set several inches deeper than they stood in the nursery.—G. A. Atwood, in Farmers' Voice.

Manitoba Apples.

The following list of apples were successfully fruited last year in the province of Manitoba: Reddish Calville, Gravenstein, Anisette, Sem-briske No. 1, Hibernia, Repka Mal-enka, Lieby, Ostrakoff and Roma, the Russian varieties and Wealthy, Peerless and Patten's Greening of American varieties. The Honey and Wyant plums also bore good crops.

TALK ABOUT MILKING.

Many Promising Cows Are Ruined Yearly by Improper Treatment.

"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it," is as true of practical everyday duties as of lessons in morality, etc. A duty often neglected by many farmers is that of properly training the boys to milk. This includes something more than the simple operation of drawing the lactical fluid; although it is an art, and probably not more than one in ten persons are experts; that is, thoroughly understand the art and practice it in scientific manner. The child in training should be old enough to understand the responsibility, should be neat as possible as to clothing and especially as regards the hands. A few lessons on this point of personal cleanliness will instill right ideas, especially if demonstrated in the habits of the teacher. Theory and practice ought to go hand in hand here.

Next in importance he should be taught to properly care for the cow; should see that the udder is free from all dirt and if soiled to remove by bathing in tepid water and wiping dry before beginning the operation of milking. If the udder be clean apparently it should be well brushed to remove loosened hair, scurf, etc. The temper or temperament of the cow submitted to his hands should be understood also. If of a nervous disposition he should be taught to soothe and conciliate, when she is taken with one of her "moods," instead of trying to coerce with blows, always remembering that it is only the simple justice and mercy which a higher organism should show toward a lower to do so—besides being a matter of profit and loss. A cow will not do her best under coercion. She may be made to behave better, but that is as far as your authority can go. Nature will outwit every time, and the proper flow will be withheld until she gets into better humor.

Many cows are yearly ruined through fear caused by improper treatment. Do not send your boy to take his first lessons in milking of the hired man, unless you know him to be well trained in all preliminaries; ten to one he will march direct from the stables to a morning with nothing but full of indescribable suggestions, and as a necessary preliminary fill his mouth with tobacco before beginning operations. If possible the girls should also receive instructions from one competent to give them. The best milker we ever knew was a woman; it was a positive pleasure to witness her performance. The rhythmic flow as the hands rose and fell was enjoyable as music, while all the movements were graceful. Farmers—for to this class the world looks for its supply of milkmen—see to it that the next generation of milkers understand their business.—Mrs. A. C. McPherson, in Forest and Home.

Polly Earned Her Croaker.

A Philadelphia writer relates the story of a parrot that protected her owner's home from burglars, who had entered through one of the parlor windows. She crept through the hall-room past the bird and began jimmying open the sideboard in the dining-room, where the silver was kept. One of the other men gathered up costly Turkish rugs and the floors and another had taken down the curtains when Polly spoke up.

"Is that you, Frank?" she queried. The burglars stopped as if they had been shot. Polly repeated the imperative key. The noise of the parrot awakened her master, Mr. Fisher. He grasped a revolver, which he had bought only a few days before, and kept under his pillow, and made for the head of the stairs. He pressed an electric button on the wall and lit the lights in the hall-room, when he saw three men struggling to open the front door. He promptly opened fire, but they succeeded in getting away. Dr. Fisher then went down stairs, where he found the parrot in her cage under the piano. The cage was upset but the bird uninjured. The owner placed her right side up upon the piano, she lifted her frightened head from under her wing, and asked: "Is that you, Frank?"

New Source of Gutta-Percha.

According to Nature the discovery of a new gutta-percha is reported from Zanzibar. This substance is derived from a tree which grows principally at Dunga. When tapped with a knife a white fluid exudes, which, when placed in boiling water, coagulates into a substance which in character bears a very striking resemblance to gutta-percha. As the material cools it becomes exceedingly hard, but while soft it can be moulded into any required shape. The fruit of the tree resembles a peach in shape, but grows to the size of a small melon. Experts have examined the new product to see if it in any way possessed the qualities of gutta-percha, and although it is not as perfect as the genuine article, it is considered that it will be quite suitable for many purposes for which gutta-percha is at present utilized, and it will thus become a marketable article. It is said to abound in Zanzibar, and will be a very cheap product.

Prizes for Road Menders.

In some English counties prizes are offered for the section of road which is kept in the best order throughout the year. There is an honorable rivalry among the road-masters for obtaining these rewards, and the winners are proud of their distinction as champion road menders. When all the roads are so eminent for their excellence, it cannot be an easy matter for the most critical committee to make the awards, but the effect of the competition is to put every man on his mettle and to increase the efficiency of the road service. How different are these methods and processes from those which prevail in some rural districts in this country!

When Clark's Turn Came.

The late Sir Frank Lockwood was defending a man accused of swindling and in an eloquent peroration talked of his much-injured client as an angel of light. When Sir Frank had finished his speech his client whispered that he wanted to shake hands with him. "When first my solicitor told me what he was saying you," said the client, "I grumbled, but since I have been listening to you I have come to the conviction that the money was well spent, and I apologize. That half-hour talk of yours about me has done me good. It is many years since I have experienced the luxury of self-respect, and it is worth the money."

"Oh, that's all right," said Sir Frank genially, "but you take my advice and go out of court. Sir Edward Clarke, the lawyer on the other side, is just going to speak."

Furniture of Match Boxes.

Perhaps the oddest suite of furniture in the world is owned by a hotelkeeper in Buda Pesth. For many years he has made it his business to collect match boxes, of which he has now a collection of 4,000. He ordered a skilled cabinet-maker to equip a room with furniture made of these boxes. The outfit consists of a writing table with smoking apparatus, a fire screen, a cabinet, a chair and other smaller articles. Though the boxes are empty they are adjusted so ingeniously that the pieces are fully as strong as the ordinary furniture.

How True Men Are Grown.

It is not easy, but effort—not faculty, but difficulty, that makes men. There is, perhaps, no station in life in which difficulties have not to be encountered and overcome before any decided measure of success can be achieved. Those difficulties are, however, our best instructors, as our mistakes often form our best experience. Charles James Fox was accustomed to say that he hoped more from a man who failed, than from one in spite of his failure, than from the buoyant career of the successful.

The 50-Year-Old Man.

A statistician has estimated that a man 60 years old has worked 6,500 days, has slept 6,000, has amused himself 4,000, has walked 12,000 miles, has been ill 500 days, has partaken of 36,000 meals, eaten 15,000 pounds of meat and 4,000 of fish, eggs and vegetables, and drunk 7,000 gallons of fluid.
