GOLD MEDALIST

At St. Joseph's Separate School, Tuesday afternoon, a very interesting event took place. The young students were asked to give their votes for the pupil the most deserving of the gold medal donated by Dr. Sullivan, of this city. Master Edgar Cunningham was the one who received the greatest number of votes. We congratulate you, Edgar, and we trust you will continue to be deserving of the high esteem of your classmates of 1907.

HOTEL CONVICTIONS

Amherstburg, June 25. — Messrs. Stokes and Cameron, the Government spotters, secured convictions against three hotelmen of this town. The cases were tried before Magistrate McGee yesterday afternoon, the defendants being Mrs. Verrall, George H. Holmes and H. Mailloz. Each was fined $50 and costs. This is the second conviction in a month against Holmes, although he has appealed from the first.

FIREMEN RESIGN

Windsor, June 25.—The Fire committee will conduct an investigation into affairs at this fire department over frequent resignations from the staff. Several men have left the brigade within the past few months and Windsor now has a semi-volunteer and untrained force of firefighters. The trouble is said to be due not so much to small wages as to the autocratic administration by Chief Murray.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The installation of the officers, elected by Parthenon Lodge, No. 267, A. F. & A. M., took place Monday night. The installation was conducted by R. W. Bro. R. N. Fraser, of Thamesville, D. D. G. M. for Erie District No. 1.

The retiring Master, T. M. Pike, was presented with a Past Master's apron.

After the meeting a banquet was held and an enjoyable time spent. The outlook for the lodge under the direction of the new master, W. Bro. J. W. Draper, is very bright. There is no doubt they will have a most successful year.

PICNIC AT CALVIN

One of the most successful picnics of the season was the one held at Calvin church, Chatham Township, last evening, under the auspices of the Presbyterian church of that place. There was a very large attendance, and the entertainment provided was of the very highest order.

Dr. Battisby, of this city, acted as chairman for the occasion, and the speakers he introduced were Messrs. H. S. Clements, M. P., and G. W. Sulman, city, and Rev. Mr. Lindsay, of Dresden.

The music for the event was provided by the Walpole Indian Band. Their music was good, and much enjoyed by the many people present.

At the close of the day's proceedings, a quilt was auctioned off by Mr. Clements. Mr. Sulman proved to be the highest bidder, and the quilt was finally handed down to him.

FIGHT DUEL WITH WHITE HOT IRON

A Pittsburg despatch says: As one result of a trifling joke two men fought here the worst duel in or out of the code, the duel with white-hot iron bars. They were Louis Yurick and Adam Bulick. They fought in the Twenty-ninth street mills of the Carnegie Steel Company.

The duel followed close on the practical joke. Saturday morning, after the night's work, Yurick threw himself down on a bench in front of his furnace. He was soon fast asleep. In a spirit of fun, Bulick, who found him there, took Yurick's shoes and hid them. When Yurick awoke he was in bad humor. He accused Bulick of having taken his shoes and Bulick admitted it. Yurick instantly seized a cold bar from the floor, and started after the joker. Bulick seized another and defended himself, blow for blow. Both men had formerly been cavalry soldiers in the United States army and both were expert fencers. The blows that landed were of slashing kind and were painful. Yurick became infuriated as a result, and leaping to the furnace, pulled out a white-hot bar.

Before he could attack Bulick that man also pulled one of the bars out of the furnace and rushed on Yurick. The original assailant, now on the offensive, turned viciously and swung the eight-foot bar in a circle about him. Bulick had to fall back to avoid him, and the crowd of workmen that had been drawn by the combat, fell back, too. Had the weapon been of sword or battleaxe the men might have chanced a rush on Yurick. With the white-hot iron circling him, however, it seemed like courting death for every one concerned to attempt to seize him. The crowd left a ring for the combatants, and Bulick, advancing with his bar, forced Yurick into direct combat. In a second they were handling the bars like two-handed Japanese swords.

Each time the bars came together there was a shower of sparks, and each time one of the bars touched the opposing fencer there was an odor of burned flesh. For fully fifteen minutes the men fenced. The bars slowly cooled as the men's strength waned, but were still red hot when the two finally fell from exhaustion. Each man had many severe scars when the battle ended. A patrol wagon was hurriedly called and both men were taken to the jail hospital. They were charged with assault and battery.
