MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a New Edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses ☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land. Address

EARS FOR THE MILLION!

Foo Choo's Balsam of Shark's Oil

Positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness Known.

THIS OIL is abstracted from peculiar species of small WHITE SHARK, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON ROSSEGERI. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest about the year 1100. Its cures were so numerous and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal that for over 700 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear What the Deaf Say!

It has performed a miracle in my case. I have no unearthly noises in my head and hear much better. I have been greatly benefited. My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

"Its virtues are UNQUESTIONABLE and its CURATIVE CHARACTER ABSOLUTE, AS THE WRITER CAN PERSONALLY TESTIFY, BOTH FROM EXPERIENCE AND OBSERVATION. Write at once to HAYLOCK & JENNEY, 7 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1.00, and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so." EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.

A New Doctrine.

To the Iditor of the Posht.

I was thinking it was no great complimint to Sir Albert, to find the Iditor of the Transcript houlding the doctrine that the ponderosity of the corporeal system and a good pidegree are cheap ingradients in a wise mimber of parliament.

Hear what he says. "There was once a conversation between a stunted nobleman and his thoroughbred bull." "Well," said the nobleman, "but you are a noble fellow!" "So might you have been" replied the bull, "if there had been as pains taking in selecting your ancestors as there was with mine." This he applies espicially to the mimber for Wistmorland, and the pidegree, by inference, to all mimbers of parliament. This gintale journalism.

It's a fine idaah, that of diricting the attintion of the public to more care in the pidegree of mimbers and the devilopemint of muscle. The power of the press is a great lever and wid the assistance of gintale journalism he must take public opinion along wid his in the ind.

If he could get a law enacted, that no frahoulder should be illigable for a sate in parliament wid less weight than fifty-four pounds to the quarter, making the whole mimber equal to two hundred pounds avoirdupois, and desinded from two hundred pounders, for at laist three ginerations, it would be a fine thing for the counthry. We'd have finely deviloped mimbers for the Commons,—broad and deep in the chest, wid straight back, and a hip and loin that yees could turn your mind to.

As he makes no mintion of brains it would be nicessary to be bodered wid it.

It appears unrasonable for the Iditor to be ixpicting much before his skame is fairly before the public. It will take years of patient waiting.

I was saying to Tim, his riference to ancistory before the people were iducated in his new skame was not gintale or sinsible.

Why not? siz he. How do yees know but he's the desindant of some huge lord by hook or crook? and it would be rasonable for him.

There's no saying, siz I, and if he intinds to improve the breed of mimbers, sure he can't withdhold his skame from Grit frahoulders and Grit Iditors and the like.

That's true for yee's, Mick, siz he.

If he chates yees out of the widdy, siz I, it will be azy to make a beginning wid Iditors of the Transcript, we might be ixpecting a few thoroughbreds in some rasonable or unrasonable time not far off.

Tim sed niver a word to this, jist gave a spit over his shoulder and dropped his pipe in his pocket.

Tim, siz I, is the Iditor a six futter that sits him again the little min, and makes him so fierce wid the Times and the Posht.

Faith! siz Tim, he has fine points.

Has he iver a respictable corporation? siz I.

Not much in that way, siz Tim.

Is the widdy's ancesters to be depinded, siz I.

Yees can depind on them, siz he.

It's plazed I am, to hear yees take the widdy's part, siz I, and if the Iditor is thoroughbred as yees siz, we may be ixpicting a Transcript Iditor to tip the scales at 300 pounds by the ind of the nixt cintury. Yours, &c.,

MICK FINNEN.

General News.

—An Illinois cow swallowed $600 in greenbacks. She was killed and the money recovered.

—England has thirty electric light companies, with a capital of over $30,000,000. Nearly as much money is similarly sunk in France.

—A family has distinguised itself at La Porte, Ind., by piecing three gorgeous bedquilts from samples of silk obtained free by mail from merchants in the large cities.

—O: the 11,000 grain mills in Holland, 10,000 are driven by wind. The bulk of wheat meal is consumed by the public without passing through any flour dressing machine.

—The stock raisers of Colorado estimate the aggregate value of their flocks and herds at $35,000,000. The number of horned cattle is placed at 2,250,000.

—New Zealand has had a wonderful hop crop this season. Soil and climate both favor the production, and there are plenty of colonists who understand the culture.

—In 1770, or thereabouts, the tomato was almost unknown in Paris. To the southern French who invaded France at the time of the revolution its acclimation is due. It was a cos ly luxury at first, but at the end of 1803 it was sold at Les Halles (according to the Almanach des Gourmands) by the half dozen.

—In the old times, when people travelled by diligence in France, one traveller was killed in every 335,000 and one wounded in every 30,000. Now, they travel by rail, one is killed per 5,178,400 and one wounded per 580,450, Railway travelling is thus nearly twenty times as safe as travelling by diligence.

—Heraldry in France has invaded the garden. At country seats the gardners form a design of flowers representing the arms or monogram of the master of the house. In some of the parks belonging to Legitimists, gigantic fleur-de-lys are designed, and while wall fruit is growing, the gardners cut in paper the monogram and crest, and glue the design on to the peaches or the nectarines with some light paste. When the fruit is ripe, the paper is taken away, and the outlines remain imprinted on the velvety skin of the peach.

—Last year 26,170 new houses, covering a length of 86 miles, were built in the metropolitan police aera of London, which now contains 4,788,657 persons, the largest number probably ever packed within fifteen miles of a common centre. Out of the multitude 23 children and 154 adults were entirely lost. Their disappearance is one of the mysteries of London, upon which but little light is thrown by the fact that 54 bodies of persons found dead and unknown were buried bnfore indentification. There were three times as many people killed in the streets of London in 1881 as it cost to storm Arabi's position at Tel-el-Kebir, and ten times as many wounded, the figures being, killed 252, wounded 3,400. There were 800 fires, 274 suicides, 11 murders, and only 3 convictions; 470 bulgaries, and only 91 convictions.

Romance of the Golden Ledge.

A story about which there is a fascination which it is impossible to resist when you hear men tell it, is that of the "Home of Gold." Somewhere in Southwestern New Mexico, in the Sierra Madre, it is said there is a wonderful valley. Small, inclosed in high rocky walls and accessible only by a secret passage, which is known to but few, is this extraordinary place. It is about ten acres in extent, has running through it a stream, which waters it thoroughly and makes it a perfect paradise, with its exquisite flowers and beautiful trees. In it are thousands of birds of the most beautiful plumage. Running across it is a ledge of pure gold about thirty feet wide, which glistens in the sunlight like a great golden belt. The stream crosses this ledge, and, as it runs, murmurs around blocks of yellow metal as other streams do around pebbles. The ledge of gold is supposed to be solid gold and to run down into the centre of the earth. The legend is of Indian origin, and around it clusters a number of Indian stories, in which the name of the ill-fated Montezuma occurs frequently. The descendants of the Aztecs believe firmly that the day will come when Montezuma will return and free them from the dominion of the descendants of the Conquestodores. They believe that the money necessary for this work will be taken from the Madre d'Oro. The secret of the entrance into the valley is carefully guarded by a tribe of Indians living near it, and among them it is only communicated to the oldest men, amid the solemn ceremonies of the medicine lodge. Having such a story to work upon there is little wonder that the vivid imagination of the Mexicans should have built upon tales of men who have found this wonderful place. One is that a certain Jose Alvaraz, while wandering through the mountain in search of game, saw the valley from the top of the wall. Finding that he could not hope to enter by climbing down, he took up his abode with the Indians who guard the canyon leading into it. The daughter of the chief fell in love with him and betrayed the secret to him. Exactly how she found it out they do not tell. Having been shown the entrance, Jose went in and would possibly have gotten away with some of the gold had he not weighed himself down to such an extent that he could not get up the declivity at the lower end of the passage. He was discovered and the Indians sacrificed him on the golden ledge with all the terrible ceremonies of the old Aztec religion. She, in despair at losing him, threw herself from the high walls into the valley below. Hundreds of prospectors have spent months of toil trying to find the Madre d'Oro, but, it is scarcely necessary to say, without result.—[Las Cruces Republican.

Odds and Ends.

—Two things for which we are never prepared—Twins.

—Never marry a woman until you know where her dress ends and her soul begins.

—Don't go to law unless you have nothing to lose, lawyers' houses are built on fools' heads.

—To the lover there is but two places in all the world—one where his sweetheart is, and the other where she isn't.

—"I say, Pat, what kind of potatoes are you planting there?" asked a minister. "Raw ones, ye reverince."

—"Don't you mean to marry, my dear sir?" "No, my dear widow, I'd rather lose all the ribs I've got than take another."

—Weary Traveller—"How far is it to Ballinaclee, my friend?" "Raw Native —"Shure, sor, av ye walk smart it's not more than three moiles."

—A shrewd old Yankee said he didn't believe there was any downright cure for laziness in a man; "but," he added, "I've known a second wife to hurry it some."

—If you have a good sister, love and cherish her with all your heart. If you have none, why then love and cherish the good sister of some other man with all your heart.

—An Irish coachman, driving past some harvest fields during summer, addressing a smart girl engaged in shearing, exclaimed, "Arrah, my darling, I wish I was in gaol for stealin' ye!"

—An Iowa judge refused a woman a divorce which she wanted because her husband kissed her pretty servant. He said she ought to be thankful that her husband had found a way to keep a servant-girl.

—An Irishman, one day walking along the Mississippi River, found a blanket with the two letters U. S. on it. "Be jabers," says he, "this blanket is moine, U. for Patrick and S. for McCarthy."

—Wasn't it rough on Mary, just as she was telling her lover, at lunch, how ethereal her appetite was, to have the cook bawl out, "Say, will you have your pork and greens now, or wait till yer feller's gone?"

—A man who has been travelling in the "far West" says—but he probably misrepresents the matter—that when an Idaho girl is kissed she indignantly exclaims, "Now put that right back where you took it from!"

—"My name is Somerset," said a punster. "I am a miserable bachelor. I cannot marry, for how could I hope to prevail on any young lady, possessed of the slightest notion of delicacy, to turn a somerset!"

—It is beautiful to behold a wedding, says a cheerful old bachelor, the sorrow-stricken air of the parent as he "gives the bride away," when you know that for the last ten years he has been trying his best to get her off his hands.

—An Irishman went in a store and asked the merchant: "Have ye got a pair of spectacles to sell me dat would become me?" "No, I have not," answered the merchant, "we do not keep spectacles here large enough to cover a man's face."

—Two countrymen from Onion Creek came to an Austin lawyer to consult about bringing a joint suit against a neighbor. The first Granger began to tell the lawyer the cause of the trouble, embellishing it rather liberally. "Don't tell him any lies, Bill," interrupted the other. "It is his business to put in the lies. You will get him confused if you go to mixing your lies with his."

—An ingenious Yankee attorney, who always made it a point to win his case, was applied to by a man who had stolen some pork, to defend him. Accordingly, in his usual inventive way, he ruined the principal evidence on which the plaintiff relied, and the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. After the verdict was declared, as the fellow was leaving the court, he whispered to his attorney thus: "Squire, what shall I do with the pork, for I have got it yet?" "Eat it," replied the lawyer, "for the jury say you did not steal it."
