Fun and Fancy.

"There is something in this little fellow I like," said an appreciative visitor to a young hopeful he was holding on his knees. "Say, now," said the boy, "how did you know I had swallowed a dime?"

Hattie was lamenting because her baby sister was not a little boy; but one day she came to her mother with a hopeful face and said, cheerily: "Well, mamma, like as not baby sister will be a boy when he grows up; don't you think so?"

Robbie was very fond of a young lady who was making his grandma a visit.
One day he said to her: "When I get big I shall marry you." His sister, two years his senior, immediately interposed: "No, Robbie; I shall marry her; but if I die, then you can have her."

The latest story about little Master Stuart Crane, the precocious 5-year old son of William H. Crane, the comedian, is to the effect that as the sweet child was sitting in his mother's lap the other evening he looked out with the question: "Mamma, ain't the stars just the tacks in the carpet of Heaven?"

A little girl living on Molton street asked her aunt the other day what was the other name for Niagara Falls.
Her aunt said there was no other than she knew of. "Oh, yes there is," replied the little girl, "for I know a little girl who has one on her eye." She meant a catfish.

A two-year-old, who is about to give a birthday party, has sent out richly mounted invitations reading in this way:
"My mother wants to know if your mother will let you come to my party." Here is one of the answers, written by a little girl: "My mother told me to ask you to tell your mother I can come to your party."

Country Parson (to city visitor):
"Didn't I see you at church today?" City visitor: "Yes, and if you will believe it, it was the first time that I can remember that I didn't go to sleep before the sermon was half over." Country parson: "Indeed! but I am afraid you are trying to flatter me." City Visitor:
"Oh, dear, no. It wasn't that. It was the flies." Country parson: "Oh!"

A Boston correspondent heard a good occasional story the other evening at the dinner of the Association of Life Underwriters. Mr. James T. Phelps, the newly elected president, related that his small son said to him at breakfast: "Papa, what makes you so solemn?
What is the matter?" "Oh," was the answer, "I have not to engineer that underwriters' dinner tonight, and it bothers me." "Papa," inquired the infant, with the terrible seriousness peculiar to his age, "what does the engineer of a dinner do? Does he turn on the cranks?"

Inquiring child—"Pa, what is the difference between sitting up and sitting down?" Pa, with perfect confidence in his ability to explain—"Why, my child, when somebody is standing and he seats himself he sits down, and when he doesn't go to bed and sit down he sits up." Inquiring child—"But, pa, if he sits, how can he sit without sitting down; and if he sits down, how can he sit up?" Pa, with a dawning doubt of his ability to make it quite clear—"You see, my child, if he sits down, why he—I mean if he sits up—Go to your ma, and don't ask me questions when I'm busy."

Fashion's Fancies.

Colored beads are in great demand for trimmings.

Short waisted frocks, with long, full skirts, will continue to be worn by tiny girls from two to six years old.

All shades of browns, especially the "ash shade," dark green, navy and zinc will be worn for the simplest tailor made suits.

Coral has returned to favor again, and happy is she who did not exchange her necklace, bracelet, etc., for more modern ornaments.

Silk blouses for neckline worn at home are made like the sailor blouse worn by children, with a rubber in the hem and drooping below the waist.

In buying black gloves, ladies should always get a size larger than they wear in colors, as black dye shrinks the kid more than other colors.

Old rose, dove brown, anemone, abain-the green and campeche ribbons are used upon the white dresses now being made up for the coming summer.

Little children will wear Scotch caps of striped straw, blue, red or brown with white, the ribbon band, of a harmoniz-ing color, being dotted with white.

In addition to cashmere and tweeds, there are chilies, a gentle, house material, soft and cool, for old ladies; and always in small figures or dots on cream grounds.

A decided effort will be made to revive the fashion in artificial flowers, the flower workers being deeply distressed by the continued success of summer and winter, of feathers.

A great many thin wool and cotton dresses made with full sleeves, and a narrow waist, the cuff may be narrow, extending only part way over the arm, and edged, instead of covered, with lace or open embroidery.

Ostrich feathers will doubtless be employed extensively upon round hats this summer. They certainly are most beautiful trimmings, and as they do not require the destruction of the birds to procure them, there can be no objection to their use.

Flounces have quite disappeared; only a narrow plating is admitted upon any dress; and this is optional for tweeds. Drapery, also, is reduced in bulk and weight; and there is a prospect of living in comfort through the warm summer days.

Among the new spring wraps, one worthy of mention is composed of blue and black velvet. It has a short pat-tion back, medium long, full scarf fronts, clashed at the neck and below the waist, slashed sides and square sleeves. Long wide bands of jet passementerie, terminating in tassels, form the garnitures.

Mrs. Cleveland's ears have never been pierced, so that she does not wear earrings; nor does she wear finger rings.
Her only ornament is the diamond necklace which was the president's wedding gift.

CAMPBELL'S TONIC ELIXIR

This agreeable yet potent preparation is especially adapted for the relief and cure of that class of disorders attendant upon a low or reduced state of the system, and usually accompanied by Pallor, Weakness and Debility, and the result of Sudden Exhaustion arising from a Loss of Blood, Acute or Chronic Diseases, and in the weakness that invariably accompanies the recovery from Wasting Fevers. No family will give more speedy relief in Dyspepsia or Indigestion, irritation on the stomach being that of a gentle and humane tonic, exciting the organs of digestion to action, and thus affording immediate and permanent relief. The cathartic properties of the different anatomies which the Elixir contains render it useful in Flatulent Dyspepsia.
It is a valuable remedy for Atonic Dyspepsia, which is apt to occur in persons of a gaily character.

For Impoverished Blood, Loss of Appetite, Debility, and in all cases where an effective and certain stimulant is required the Elixir will be found invaluable.

In Fevers of a Malarial Type, and the various ill effects following exposure to the cold or wet weather, it will prove a valuable restorative, as the combination of Cinchona Calceya and Serpentina are universally recognized as specific for the above-named disorders.
