SPRINGHILL, N.S., April 4.
Dear Sirs,—In reference to your inquiry as to the selling qualities of Mathieu's Syrup, we might say that it is of no use whatever for us to keep any other Cough Medicine in stock. When you first began to sell it here, the Druggists did not handle it, and now every Druggist in town has it, and we are sure they find a ready sale for it. Mathieu's Syrup is sold by at least 18 dealers in Springhill.

FERRIS & PEEL.

AGAINST HEADACHE there is no remedy so active as Mathieu's Nerve Powders which contain no opium, morphine or chloral. 25 cts. per box of 18 powders.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Ruth Cameron

Professor Geo. Burnham Foster, of the University of Chicago, has recently preached a sermon in a Chicago church on the stupidity of sectarianism. He says he hopes this "separation of congregations that ought to be together" will some day pass away.

This boldly expressed hope has given me the courage to bring forth a certain Utopian vision I have long cherished.

If you have no patience with Utopian visions, stop here. This is not meant for you. But if you like such things this may perchance interest you.

My dream is of one united church in each community—a church existing for the benefit of all the people and not for creeds or sects.

I wish all the Protestant churches in every community and if possible the Catholic churches, too, could be united into one great church.

All the people who want to worship God in any way would belong to this church.

It would have no creed. Its members would believe exactly what they wished about God. If one wished to believe Him a divine personage, giving personal attention to each whispering prayer, and another wanted to believe him just a vague and wonderful force behind creation and in nature, that would make no difference. Both would be eligible to membership in this church.

Of a Sunday morning when our neighborhood goes forth to church some go one way and some another.

Most of the churches to which they go are seldom filled and all are constantly struggling to make both ends meet.

Several of them are separated by very slight doctrinal differences. Why not one large, well supported church where each may believe his own way but all worship together?

My ideal church has one or more large church buildings, according to the size and needs of the community.

The buildings are the most beautiful in the city. The sermons are preached by great and good men from all professions as well as by the regular ministers.

That the convenience of all may be suited there is a service every hour or two all day Sunday. In order to suit all tastes—the taste that likes a simple, intellectual service, and the taste that likes an elaborate sensual service, with music and incense and choir boys and candles, there are all these kind of services at different times.

Since there is plenty of money there can always be plenty of the most beautiful music and the most talented men of the age can be asked to come and give their beautiful thoughts to the congregations.

The church will be opened during the week both for services and for social and philanthropic work. The "need of a world of men" will be the business of the church, as well as the worship of God.

The ministers will all be well paid. There will be no need of undignified begging for money.

The community will believe as individuals as before, but worship as a splendid unit.

There will be no rich man's church, and around the corner a poor man's chapel. Each for all and all for each.

The men and women who are unwilling to subscribe to any elaborate creed will be able to belong to this church where all are eligible that believe in some higher power deserving men's worship.

Is it a foolish, impossible dream?

If such a church could be founded would it be founded only to break in to sects again at the first disagreement?

I wonder. But anyhow, I like to think about it.

GREY EMACIATION.

SLEEPLESSNESS AND NERVOUSNESS CURED.

If the overly thin people knew the danger they run from pneumonia and consumption they would get a move on and try and get fat. It isn't necessary to be thin—even though you were born that way, and the following statement from Miss Laura Ladenburg proves it: "I am a forewoman in a paper box department, and have to make good. To a stranger coming in it looks easy, but it involves a constant strain upon the brain and nerves to keep a lot of operators right up to their best all the time. The first unpleasant symptom was pain at the back of the neck. Sometimes it started early, but usually not until afternoon. It made me fidgety and irritable. My mind would easily become confused. I soon found I couldn't sleep well—had very bad dreams, and my feet were sore in the morning. This did not surprise me, as I had lost appetite, and did not digest well. I grew so thin I became frightened. Medicines didn't seem to help—the doctor said it was 'nerves.' Mother said I must use Ferrozone. It had cured her sister of poverty of the blood and nervousness. I am glad mother knew about Ferrozone, for it built me up well; I didn't lose a day at my work. After the first box my nerves were stronger. I felt brighter, got rid of the pain and sore tired feet. I am a strong, ruddy, happy girl, and give Ferrozone all the praise."

No other tonic contains the nourishment, the fattening, blood-forming properties that are so scientifically combined in Ferrozone. Watch the result of taking one or two Ferrozone Tablets with your meals for a month. You'll be surprised. Fifty cents per box, six for $2.50, at all dealers, or The Cataract Co., Kingston, Canada.

Train Fell Eighty Feet.

Engine and Nine Cars Leave Track Near Folleigh Mountain — The Brakeman and Fireman Crushed to Death—Driver Dies After Being Removed From the Wreck.

Truro, N.S., Feb. 28.—Three I. C. R. employees lost their lives as a result of the wreck of a special freight train at Hill's Siding, near Folleigh Lake, early this morning. James O. Davidson, brakeman, and driver Daniel McLeod were crushed to death, and fireman John McIsaac died after being taken from the wreck. The train was made up of 20 cars, and was bound north.

The bodies of Driver McLeod, Brakeman Davidson and Fireman McIsaac were brought to Truro at 6:30 this morning. McLeod died after being removed from his engine by Conductor Harry Baker and Brakeman Yeomans.

Baker's story is that the train was proceeding at a fairly slow rate of speed, the cars heavy with coal and steel rails. His van and several cars remained on the track; a number of other cars had left the rails, but did not get over the bank. The engine and nine cars plunged down to a point eighty-five feet below the level of the track, and were lost.

In The Midnight Darkness.

He sent his brakeman to Folleigh to notify Truro and hurried down the bank. The broken cars and their contents were piled on the engine and tender. After a search he discovered Driver McLeod and assisted him, but he was too badly injured to bring to the van. He could not find the fireman nor the rear brakeman who had exchanged with the forward brakeman at Folleigh Lake. He could get no answer from the missing men, so he gave his attention to making McLeod as comfortable as he could. At three o'clock assistance came from Folleigh, and later the auxiliary and the doctors came from Truro. When the latter arrived McLeod was beyond hope. The entire party then searched for the missing men, and found them after a great deal of hard work.

Crushed and Mutilated.

The bodies were removed as quickly as possible. An inquest will be held this afternoon at the undertaker's rooms.

McLeod belonged to Salmon River, near Truro; he leaves a wife and five children. Davidson came from Bass River, Colchester, being one of the well known family of James W. Davidson, Fish Warden of the county; he leaves a wife and seven children. McIsaac's father and mother live at Foundry Hill, Truro. The young man was 24 years of age, and was known by man of his intimates as "Speake John" from his habit of taking part in public discussions. His talent in that line is said to have been remarkable.

The position of the wrecked engine and cars is in full view from the track above. The destruction is almost complete, although the steel rails can be recovered. Cranes and wrecking cars are now at the scene, and everything is being done to save the property. The main line was cleared at five o'clock.

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link; the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

Fads and Fashions.

Drapery is still a commanding feature. It is quite the thing to wear something loose, that may be called a wrap, though it is more an evolution of the scarf.

The guimpes of plain sheer tulle or net is more frequently used than that of tucks. The yoke is extremely shallow, and the "chair" or flesh tint is the usual color.

Tan footwear is promised the greatest vogue that it has ever had, and it will, of course, come in some startling new shades, all the way from champagne to ochre.

A new trimming shown on Shanghai pongee is twisted cotton cord, wound round into a design and caught fast at regular intervals of one-eighth of an inch with embroidery cotton.

Seldom are morning dresses of wash material made with the high collar to-day. The low-neck finish with an attractive collar is infinitely better looking and more comfortable.

Dyed laces are being freely used over white silk or a metallic foundation and black and white all-overs, jetted or spangled, are making up some of the smartest dinner gowns.

It seems definitely settled that the sleeves with the long shoulder, the full middle piece and the elbow cut tight to the arm, is to be in favor. It is already even on the best models.

Coats and dresses of black satin are worn by fashionably dressed children this winter. To give the proper touch of color, sashes and hair ribbons of some rich bright color are worn with these frocks.

Folds of silk or satin, similar to milliner's folds, and then fashioned into jumpers, trelis style, are being worn. The jumper blouse, of course, matches the color of the skirt with which it is worn.

Even coats are now belted. Those for street wear have them of the material or of soft patent leather run through mother-of-pearl buckles in front, and those for motoring or driving have heavy attached belts attached to the foundation and lifted slightly above the normal waistline.

On many of the handsomest dinner and evening gowns the decoquette is modified to something not far from the low Dutch neck, the very low neck being now considered by some authorities as outside the mode.

A new writing paper fashion, high in vogue among college girls, consists in having the name by which you are best known engraved in color or across the top. The paper is to be used for correspondence only with intimate friends.

Wool embroidery will be a favorite trimming of the spring gown. It is heavier and coarser looking than the silk handwork to which we have been accustomed, but when the design is attractive and well done it is decidedly attractive.
