The Governor at Botwood.

Botwood was honoured yesterday with a visit from His Excellency the Governor Sir Walter E. and Lady Davidson. The train from Grand Falls with the A. N. D. Co.'s private car reached Botwood shortly after noon. The Magistrate, H. Burt, Esq., and Capt. Storm with others were present to welcome them and members of the Orange Society and S. A. Bands had assembled and as His Excellency and Lady Davidson with Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, of the A. N. D. Co.'s staff of Grand Falls, who accompanied them, left the train the band played God Save the King. After the usual introductions His Excellency briefly addressed the members of the band. After this the band playing popular airs led the way to Capt. Storm's residence where the Governor and Lady Davidson were entertained. It was not known until late the previous evening what was to be the arrangements. A meeting in the Orange Hall at 3 o'clock in the afternoon was planned and notwithstanding the brief notice a large representative gathering filled the hall. Mr. Thomas Antrim, Chairman of the Patriotic Association, presided at the meeting. On the platform besides His Excellency and Lady Davidson were members of the P. A. and W. P. A. The Chairman briefly addressed the meeting expressing regret that on account of receiving such short notice they had not made better arrangements for the reception of His Excellency and Lady Davidson whom they were glad to welcome to Botwood. He then called upon Harry Burt, Esq., Stipendiary Magistrate, to read an address. After which he gave the list of volunteers from Botwood also the list of amounts subscribed. He expressed a wish that he was 40 years younger that he might be a soldier of the King. The Chairman then called upon His Excellency to address the meeting. In a very clear and forcible manner His Excellency referred to the great struggle in which the Empire is engaged. The great principles at stake were emphasized and the way the Nation had risen as one man was beautifully described so as to call forth loud applause. He expressed his great pleasure at the noble response Newfoundland had made with other of the sister Colonies. At the beginning of the war he had ventured the opinion that Newfoundland would raise 500 volunteers and it was now likely to be 5,000. He referred to the noble response of Canada and Australia. He left no doubt upon the minds of his audience as to the ultimate triumph of our cause. In a very touching manner he referred to the after effects of the war when the sons of Terra Nova would return wearing not only honourable scars but medals for distinguished service. It is impossible to do justice to the address which was greatly enjoyed and applauded again and again. In conclusion His Excellency most heartily congratulated the people of Botwood and the surrounding places for what they had so generously contributed of men, material and money.

In the absence of the President, Mrs. P. D. Park, Mrs. Newman, Vice-President of the W. P. A., then read an address to Lady Davidson. Lady Davidson in a very pleasing manner reviewed the history of the work of the W. P. A. in Newfoundland. She fully explained the way the various shipments of goods had been made for the soldiers. During the progress of the war the work had grown, and the different branches of the work of the W. P. A. were clearly and satisfactorily set forth. It was evident to all that Lady Davidson with the Women of Newfoundland had rendered great service not only to our boys but to the cause of the Empire. The Women of Newfoundland under her leadership are deserving of great praise. She congratulated the ladies of the Botwood W. P. A. for their help so generously given.

The Rev. J. T. Newman moved a vote of thanks to His Excellency and Lady Davidson for their instructive and inspiring addresses. The Rev. M. K. Gardner seconded the resolution in a brief address. The Chairman put the resolution which was carried by acclamation. His Excellency suitably responded for himself and Lady Davidson. The National Anthem was then sung after which three cheers were given for Our King and Queen also, three cheers for His Excellency and Lady Davidson who then went to the door and shook hands with all as they left the meeting. This visit of our beloved Governor and Lady will long be remembered by the people of Botwood. Botwood, March 9th, 1916.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

What are you doing for that eczema? "Nothing," I've about given up trying to cure it." "That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggists."

Zylex, 50c. a box; Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

Sergeant James's Story of Gallipoli.

Our Newfoundland soldiers soon got seasoned to the heavy, continuous shelling of the Turks, as did all the other regiments of the 29th Division also. Like the sound of the whistle of a train or steamer the huge bombs, even though sent several miles away, would rent the air and this would be a warning to our troops to get under cover in the trenches. When a shell would drop it would plunge into the earth with awful violence and explode throwing up about twenty tons at a time. Especially dangerous was it when a shell came in contact with a big rock, of which fragments would fly in all directions for a long distance away, combined with pieces of shrapnel. Still with undaunted courage and cool-headedness the Newfoundland soldiers did not seem to mind. While the shelling was on, they would lay in the trenches and after the danger was passed would stand up again as if nothing had happened. They were complimented by all the other regiments of the 29th Division as well as by the Australian troops. As regards trench warfare, Sergt. James was not prepared to say anything, as he did not keep any diary in the remotest way of incidents that happened, any more than the 29th vacated and re-occupied positions in the firing line and were continuously victorious in nearly all engagements with the Turks. The custom was ten days in the firing line and a week out of it. Sunday was the same as Monday, and he never remembered any dates of happenings.

Speaking of the Caribou Hill battle, Sergt. James remembered the incident well. The 9th Battalion was right in the firing line. It was a custom in fact a daily one, to send an advance party to do outpost duty, or in other words to scout and signal when they located the enemy coming. The scout party this day consisted of Lieut. Donnelly and eight other men. They were only about three hundred yards in front of the battalion. A squad of a hundred Turks or more advanced in a different direction than expected and were about to attack the scout party when Lieut. Ross and fifteen men were despatched to the assistance of officer Donnelly. Sergt. James says Donnelly's party began the onslaught and Donnelly's promptly took part. An unfortunate circumstance was that Lieut. Ross was one of the first to get put out of commission by a bullet in the arm. Sergt. Greene, who was with Lieut. Ross, then took command of the relief party and added Lieut. Donnelly in forcing the Turks under rapid fire. The battle lasted forty-eight hours, Caribou Hill was gained and the enemy was annihilated. During the encounter marked heroism was displayed by Lieut. Donnelly and Ross, and Sergt. Greene. To quote Sergt. James correctly he says: "Lieut. Ross saved the whole situation at the start as he and party were the first to open quick fire on the enemy."

The 9th Regiment proved excellent fighters and was held in the highest esteem by every other regiment on Gallipoli. The Turks outflanked all other battalions in turn, continued our informant, but met their Waterloo with "Ours." The Turks, he said, were desperate, though clean, fighters. Their snipers did effective work and usually got some one. Day and night, asleep or at work in the trenches, one could always hear the whizzing of a bullet coming through the air from the snipers. The 9th soldiers got so well used to it that they did not mind. In reply to a query from the Telegram representative as to whether the Turks were using women snipers, Sergt. James said that was a rumor started by the Australian troops. The Turkish men snipers all wore peculiar long dressing gowns and one would imagine they were females. Sergt. James said the only adversaries he found hard to bear with was the frightful stench from the dead bodies of the Turks and the weather was not a bit too favorable. There was a great contrast in it. In the morning the weather would be unbearably hot and in the night exceedingly cold. He also had a lively recollection of the wonderful thunder storm which flooded the trenches and about which he had read over and over again, but he did not mind it, as it was all in the day's work.

The Newfoundlanders were designated the "Lucky Regiment" on Gallipoli, because their casualties were comparatively nothing to the other battalions. It was peculiarly remarkable, and no one could ever account for it. Sometimes it happened that the Turks, particularly the snipers, would get an opening at a Newfoundlandier, but somehow he would pass unnoticed, whereas as soon as the form of a soldier belonging to any other regiment showed in sight the Turks would immediately open fire on him, hence it was that "Ours" were christened the lucky ones. Sergt. James was wounded in the right knee by shrapnel the last of November. He was in hospital at Malta, had the missile extracted and now he says he feels no pain. He arrived by Sunday evening's express train after a tedious and wearisome journey, especially crossing our railroad. Sergt. James is a splendid type of soldier. He stands 6 feet high, has a fine pair of broad shoulders, is of strong physique and with all is a most unostentatious young man.

BELOW THE STANDARD.

How do you feel to-day? Not quite right? Energy a little below standard—not strong enough to make much exertion? Perhaps a slight cough?

Nyral's Cod Liver Compound is what you need.

Don't get frightened about those words "Cod Liver." You'd never know it from the taste.

It's a real tonic containing cod liver extract, extract of malt, wild cherry and hypophosphites—a splendid combination.

The cod liver extract builds you up—so does the extract of malt. The wild cherry soothes the bronchial tract and the hypophosphites supply phosphorus to the nervous system—just the thing it needs.

And the taste is pleasant, strength restorer and body-builder you'll find nothing better than Nyral's Cod Liver Compound—why look further? You will be pleased.

The price is one dollar.

Obituary.

Fortified by rites of Holy Church, there passed peacefully away, at the Convent on Thursday last, to its eternal reward, the soul of Sister Magdalen Rooney. The deceased religious was born at Dublin, Ireland, eighty-one years ago, and came to this country at the request of the late Bishop Mullock. In 1859 she entered the Presentation Order, at the Mother House, Cathedral Square, St. John's, and three years later made her solemn profession at Whittle's Bay. For over half a century the deceased Sister zealously discharged her duties as a religious, labouring for many years both in Whittle's Bay and Torbay. Thirty years ago Sister Magdalen entered on her duties here and until forced by advancing years to retire from active work efficiently performed them. The past few years found her completely invalided but she bore all with a resignation that was truly edifying. Her death was a fitting culmination to a holy life. After Solemn Requiem Mass, in the Parish Church this morning celebrated for her eternal repose, the remains of the deceased religious were laid to rest in the Convent plot there to await the Resurrection Morn. The large congregation attending the Mass and funeral testified to the esteem in which deceased was held. May her soul rest in peace.—Com.
