

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

June 30th.—Up, and a great fall of rain, so that I wear my new water-proof coat, which did cost me little, looking a great bargain, but is, I find, no such thing, seeing how the rain penetrates the inside, and I am wet through. Many young maidens do this day sell "forget-me-nots" in memory of our brave lads that were slain in the Great War, nor could I resist their entreaties, and did pay out twice as much as I did at first propose to do, albeit more than I could afford. News to-day of the men that were missing from the "Metagama," they found, being picked up at sea by the vessel "Bluenose" and is the most miraculous escape. And indeed, is a sign that there is ever hope from the sea. My wife indisposed to-night, and is, methinks, from eating too much of some new fruit that I did bring her, which is a thing I shall not do again. Evening my account for the month, and find myself a little better off than last month, albeit my income, still one that I may take no pride in, but may be better this month to come.

July 1st.—Up betimes and to Water Street, by the Court House, there to see the March Past of the troops before my Lord Haig. The greatest parade that ever I did see, and among other detachments from the navies of Britain, France and America. A ship I did note was the French, they marching in three, and not in four as did the others, and is the strangest possible formation. All forming before the Memorial, my lord comes, and with him his lady, and the Governor, his lady and divers others. All assembling on the Monument, Mr. R. G. Rendell asks the Governor to accept the Memorial from the people of Newfoundland, which is done in a formal discourse. So the Memorial dedicated by his Lordship the Bishop of St. John's, Mr. Broughton, the President of the Methodist Conference, and his Lordship the Bishop of Newfoundland. Then a lengthy discourse from my lord Haig, which I did hear but in part, and after this, he unveils the Memorial. The monument a vastly imposing one, albeit simple and indeed, a thing of the greatest beauty in which citizens may feel great pride. In the afternoon to the Haig sports, going with Povey, since my wife is still indisposed and feels not like going abroad. The sports not so good as I did expect, being little competition in any event. My lord wears this afternoon a gray suit and a thing to note, is that with he wears a bowler hat, also of gray.

July 2nd.—This morning, to St. George's Field, there to see the review of the Brigades and Girl Guides by my lord Haig. My lady with him, looking mighty well, and catches him by the cross belt of his Sam Browne when he did hurry too much for her. Asen, to play at tennis, but the weather crown hot, and I did perspire beyond all comfort, and did restrain myself from playing more than one set. So to the Regatta, where a great crowd of holiday makers, and the races all well rowed. To-morrow is polling day in Mr. Grace, and the quietest election ever contested, but like to be an easy win for Bennett and Russell. At night to visit the Memorial, and greatly admired certain of the wreaths that were of great beauty.

Obituary

DERMOTT SPRATT.

The life of a dear little child in the person of Dermott Spratt, was cut short at the age of 5½ years, on Tuesday morning, at the Fever Hospital, following attack of Scarlet Fever. The disease being of a virulent type, his little constitution could not withstand it, so his dear soul went back to God who gave it. Dermott was a precocious little boy, and because of his bright and cheerful manner was beloved by everyone. His sudden and unexpected death is a sad blow to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Spratt, as he was the joy and pride of the home. The sympathy of the community goes out to the bereaved parents in their hour of trouble. Interment took place on Wednesday morning at Belvedere.

GUESTS AT "THE LAIRD HOUSE"
Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Baitment and Miss. Bay Roberts; Mr. and Mrs. Mercer, Upper Island Cove; Mr. C. White, J.P., Twillingate; Mr. J. R. Bennett, Bell Island; Mr. Tatt, Mr. Winsor, Mr. M. Lawlor, Walter Fitzgerald, City; Mr. Robt. Ploughman, Port Rexton; Mr. W. Bannister, Trinity East; Mr. Joseph Green, Bell Island; Mr. Chester Miller, Clarke's; Mr. D. Gillison, St. George's.

Fashions and Fads.

Suit costs grow longer and less flared. In military straw shares honors in fabric. Red is the dominating note in the skirt. Short frocks of black are quite full on the feet. Some very novel cravats are fashioned of flat fur.

The Royal Stores, Ltd.

HAVE YOU NOTICED

How distinctly different the Three Flowers toilet goods are? There seems to be an exquisite charm about those dainty beauty aids that is not found elsewhere. In the Face Powder, Talcum, Vanishing Cream and Perfume, you notice a rare fragrance—a particularly pleasing quality which immediately appeals to all discriminating ladies.
