

That Conservative Meeting!
To the Editor of the News-Record.
Sir,—Last week you professed to give a faithful report of the proceedings at a meeting of the Conservative Association held in this village on the 25th ult., and flattered my vanity at a little by assuring your readers that I made a "vigorous and sensible speech" on the occasion. You also stated that "Dr. Orton once more repeated his doleful lamentation about Messrs. Marr, Anderson and one or two other leading Conservatives not supporting him in the contest better than they did." And you concluded by asserting very positively that "there can not be much doubt about the final end of the protest bubble!"

Did it not strike you that many of your readers might be anxious to know how you were enabled to give a report of this proceeding at all, knowing that neither you nor any reporter from your office could have been there in person? Did it not occur to you that the article in question was somewhat transparent, and that some of those suspicious Conservatives might have gathered from it that you were a little afraid of this protest and the exposure that might be made in connection therewith? Now, Mr. Editor, in return for the kindly manner in which you brought my name before the public, permit me to tender you a word of advice. However much you may be privately opposed to the investigation that would unmask you, take place if the protest goes on, and however much you may be afraid of proof being adduced that would connect you with some of the corrupt practices alleged to have been committed by your party during the late contest in this Riding, you should endeavor to conceal your feelings a little more. You might insist, for instance, that you were very anxious that the protest should go on, that it would make lively times for a short period and create lots of job printing, &c., but never write in a strain that will lead your opponents to suspect that you are afraid of the fullest exposure. Again, in reporting, or professing to report, the doings at those Conservative meetings in future, you may safely attempt to turn the proceedings into ridicule and show up the poverty of their party to the best advantage. This is quite safe. No matter how absurd the report may be, they will not take the trouble to contradict you, and it will produce a certain effect amongst those who, like yourself, have no means of knowing what is done; but never again profess to report the sayings of individual members of their party, unless the report is as near the truth as you can afford to make it. You see if you mention people's names you require to be pretty careful what you make them say, otherwise they will take the trouble to expose you, and if they convict you of telling lies, it will destroy the effect of your ablest editorials.

Last week for instance, you made a bad blunder in this way. You might perhaps have safely used my name with impunity. You know I am not held in much account by the party now-a-days. I am looked upon as "being somewhat old-fogy in my notions about public men and public matters, and as moreover you have a fair prospect of making a good reformer of me before the "surplus" is distributed, you could of course take it for granted that nobody would care much what you made me say. But dear me, what made you report that Dr. Orton had pitched into the Warden, M. Anderson and other leading Conservatives! You ought to have known how easy it would be to bring the falsehood home. The fact was the Dr. made a very able and temperate speech, without uttering a single complaint against any person in connection with the late election; and the meeting, I can assure you, was one of the most harmonious parties I ever attended to. There was no difference of opinion on one point—that the associations ought to expose the doings of certain would-be patriots who have been in the habit of denouncing bribery and corruption at elections, but who had no scruples of conscience at resorting to the same practices in the most unblushing manner at the late election in this Riding.

As the Mercury and others copied your article, will you kindly ask them to copy this letter? You know I am pleased to be taken notice of. There is no saying what I may do for the Reform cause yet if you and other journalists will look after me a little and give me a complimentary notice now and then. Thanking you for past favors,
I remain, yours &c.,
JOHN BEATTIE.
Fergus, March 14th, 1873.
Editor's Note.—The above is a lengthened and laboured effort to create the impression that the report published last week was not strictly correct; but if the unjustifiable insinuations contained in it were extended there would not be much remaining beyond the declaration that Dr. Orton did not uphold certain leading Conservatives with not supporting him as heartily as they ought to have done. We are always most willing to correct any error which may appear in these columns, and we hasten to say that it was Dr. Orton, and not Dr. Orton, who made the doleful complaint about Luke Marr's support; but the complaint was made, as reported, the only mistake being regarding the name, and the style in which Mr. Beattie refers to the matter is calculated to deceive and mislead rather than give our readers a correct idea of what took place. For a friend of Mr. Anderson brought his pitiful whine to an abrupt termination by telling him that at the previous meeting it was agreed to bury the hatchet, and that nothing more was to be said about Luke Marr's support!

If Mr. Beattie had given a report of the questions asked him by Mr. Fraser and the answers given thereto, it would have been read with more interest and profit than will the communication which we publish; but the communication was evidently written for the purpose of improving Mr. Beattie's political reputation in the estimation of the dissatisfied wing of the Conservative party, and the answers given to the questions would have an entirely different effect. As regards the insinuation about the editor of the News-Record being connected with corrupt practices, we beg to assure Mr. Beattie that if the investigation goes on the skirts of the editor will be found as clean as those of the returning officer, and as the latter is sworn to impartiality his standard of purity ought surely to be high enough for the editor of a party paper. If Mr. Beattie wants to twist on facts we are prepared to meet him, and if he is not we give him fair warning to drop ungentlemanly insinuations. We are about as well advised respecting the corrupt practices of the Conservatives during the election contest as we are of what transpired at the "secret" meeting held in Fergus last week, and although no representative from the News-Record office was present at that select gathering, we are as fully aware of everything that was said there as is the chairman or the secretary. We would say in conclusion that there is not enough of "the artful dodger" in our composition to mean one thing and say another, and consequently we must decline accepting Mr. Beattie's advice to act and speak deceitfully, because we are firmly persuaded that whatever "effect" such conduct might have, nothing permanently good can result from falsehood and systematic deception.

As we are most anxious that Mr. Beattie should have all the benefit that can be derived from this matter, we hope THE MERCURY and Herald will copy this communication, and also our remarks.—
