The Queen's Heaith.

London, Dec. 5.—Edmund Yates says:
Some uneasiness has been caused by the announcement that Sir William Jenner has been staying for several days at Windsor Castle. The fact is that for twenty years it has been Sir William's duty to pay periodical visits to Windsor and Osborne, and he aiways goes to the castle directly after the Queen has returned there from Balmoral. The Queen has been in the best of health during the aurumn, and is perfectly well now except for occasional returns of the rheumatism to which she has become subject during the last few years, but it usually attacks the knees only. Her recent touch of rheumatism was caused by insuperiodently driving from Braemar to Balmoral after dark on a cold raw night in an open carriage.

On Saturday he left Hawarden on a round of visits previous to starting for Italy at the end of next week, and it may be predicted with confidence, doctor or no doctor, that during the next seven or eight days he will make quite half a dozen speeches. To-day he visits Lord Ripon at Studley, and from Wednesday until Friday he will be the guest of Lord Rosebery at Epsom, near

The great conference on land reform will commence in London on next Thursday. Five hundred delegates, three-fourths of them actual agricultural laborers, will be present, and 750,000 tillers of the soil will be directly represented, as well as various societies interested in rural reforms. Mr. Gladstone will breakfast with the delegates on Friday morning, and will deliver a speech to which the greatest importance

The balance of opinion seems to be with the Chancellor of the Exchequer but some critics handle him roughly on the ground that he is resorting unnecessarily to "American methods of finance." It is very generally believed that the issue of pound notes will soon be followed by a period of inflation and consequent enormous increase in the amount of speculative business. But experts declare that many years must elapse before a considerable amount of the new notes can be got into circulation.

The bimetallists do not attempt to conceal their satisfaction, and they pray that the present Government may have another lease of power, and with good reason, in view of the fact that several of its members, including Mr. Goschen, Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chaplin, are bi-metallists more or less pronounced. Very little has been heard in Leveloulists of the Rimstallist League has Mr. Chaplin, are bi-metallists more of less pronounced. Very little has been heard in London lately of the Bi-metallic League, but it has been working actively in the provinces, with, it is asserted, a large amount of success, especially in Lancashire, where the staple industries ere most injuriously affected by the constant fluctutions in value of the Indian rupee. The league has evidently got hold of the Textile Factory Workers' Association, an important body which recently issued a manifesto practically calling upon the workers to vote only for bi-metallist candidates at the Parliamentary elections. Mr. Moreton Frewen and other astute silver men who started the agitation here only a few years ago, and have since kept it going at considerable expense to themselves, now begin to see a prospect of getting some return for their money.

ISALVATION ARMY SCHEMES. Much resentment prevails among London woodcutters against the Salvation Army Gen. Booth is now the biggest merchant in this trade, and as he professes to combin this trade, and as he professes to combine benevolence with business he is a formidable competitor with ordinary people who endeavor to make a living out of it. Booth's men are making bigger bundles and charging less for them than the private traders, with the natural result that the others are being ruined. The Salvationists assert that they are saving souls, but the hard-working, worldly-minded woodcutters strongly object to sinners being reclaimed strongly object to sinners being reclaim at their expense. Similar complaints co from other humble industries in which members of Gen. Booth's "submerged tenth" compete unfairly with ordinary work-people, and it may become necessary for the trades unious to interfere, which will be a bad thing for the Salvation Army.

Disregardful of the feelings of this mendacious journalist, the Grand Old Man is once more demonstrating to his delighted followers his marvelous intellectual versatility and physical vigor. TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER IN CHINA. The Chronicle's Shanghai correspondent telegraphs that the rebels have met a complete and crushing defeat. Hs says: Forty-five hundred imperial troops met a force of 3,000 at a point five miles from Chaovang. The latter were very daring, and had better cavalry than the imperial forces, who were at first compelled to move back somewhat. The conflict which ensued was long and stubborn. Finally there was a spirited charge from the imperial side. This threw the rebels into confusion, and they began retreating, keeping up a runing fight, however. No quarter was given; 1,100 rebels were slaughtered on the field, and those on being overtaken were captured and immediately executed. The Imperial troops behaved admirably. Li Hung Chang, the viceroy, has telegraphed me confirming this news of the utter crushing defeat of the rebels. It is feared here that this unexpected success will cause the Government to overrate its power to suppress the rebellion entirely." plete and crushing defeat. Hs says: Forty-

MURDER OF A COUNTESS. A Paris dispatch says: The investigation into the murder of Countess Delarda the mother of a high official in the Ministry of War, who was found Saturday with her throat cut in a room at her residence, has revealed the fact that the maid, whose throat was also cut, came upon the murderer while he was doing his bloody work. She had been to the market, and when she returned home she entered the room of her mistress and saw her lying on the floor with the murderer standing over her. The man grasped the maid before she could escape and attempted to kill her to prevent her from giving an alarm. The man who committed the crime was evidently in search of plunder. Everything in the room was out of place, and the drawers and receptacles had been ransacked. Several persons saw the murderer as he left the house, but at that time no one had any knowledge of the crime, and he was therefore allowed to escape without molestation. These people will be strong witnesses against him if the police succeed in arresting him.

The news of the engagement spread like wild-fire through fashionable circles to-day. The greatest pleasure is manifested. Princess Mary is a general favorite. It is probable that the marriage will be celebrated at an early date.

ANOTHER DIVORCE SENSATION. That portion of the population of this city which delights in sensations has a new one 256 Dundas Street, London, Ont. which delights in sensations has a new one to enjoy. It is the divorce suit of Florence St. John, otherwise Mme. Duplaney, against her husband, M. Marius Duplaney, more generally known as M. Marius. Miss St. John will be remembered in America as the star of the "Faust Up to Date" Gaiety Company, which toured the United States and Canada some two years ago. Interest in the suit is greatly increased by the fact that both Miss St. John and M. Marius have openly and repeatedly threatened to introduce into the proceedings the names of many well-known people. Cohen, also, denies the charges of Marius. The Divorce Cour was crowded this morning when the case opened. Miss St. John was one of the earliest arrivals. She looked as if she had passed a sleepless night. Her eyes were heavy, and she was cross and snappish. She wore a soft brown cloth dreas trimmed with fur and a brown hat prettily topped off with white. M. Marius, when he appeared, took up a position on the opposite side of the court. He was most elaborately dressed, wearing a full frock coat, lavender-colored trousersandnew gloves of the brightest of the popular blues. In his buttonhole he carried a small bouquet of violets, and as he chatted and smiled in answer to his friends' joking remarks the dashing-looking actor flourished a highly perfumed handkerchief and seemed to be proud of the attention which he attracted. In his spare moments he delicately brushed the silk of his high hat. His wife, Miss St. to enjoy. It is the divorce suit of Florence perfumed handkerchief and seemed to be proud of the attention which he attracted. In his spare moments he delicately brushed the silk of his high hat. His wife, Miss St. John, did not fail to notice this, and it made her look angrier than ever. Sir Charles Russell opened the case for Miss St. John; but Mr. Gill, for the respondent, interrupted and said his client admitted all the charges except that of cruelty. Counsel then told how and when the actress was married to her first husband, St. John, since dead, and detailed her subsequent union to her second husband, a Mr. Smith. The latter got a divorce on account of his wife's intimacy with Marius, whose wife got a divorce on the evidence collected by Smith. Marius and Miss St. John were then married. But they soon quarreled. Miss St. John said M. to be a great success. Its cost will be enormous, even for London, and it is expected to ee quite £80,000. The larger part of the floor area of the annex has already been covered with lead, weighing in all 500 tons, which is used to form the various canals which are to be represented. They will be filled with water to a depth of two feet, and will afford a surface of about a mile and a quarter, on which gondolas will glide continually. So purely Venetian is the show that Venetian articles and workmen show that Venetian articles and workmen have been brought over especially to build the palaces, the bridges, canals, shops and cafes, which will form so great an attraction. No fewer than 1,400 people will be engaged on the stage, while the total number employed will be 1,800, and this will make it undoubtedly the biggest show which has ever been attempted here.
