

VETERANS OF PULPIT ADDRESS CONFERENCE

Methodists Hear Speeches From Four in Ministry Over Fifty Years.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Chatham, June 7.—At the London Methodist Conference this morning, Rev. N. Burwash, of Wingham; Rev. J. Green, of Stratford; Rev. Gundy, of St. Catharines; and Rev. J. Thomas, of Chatham, who have all been in the ministry for fifty years and over, addressed the conference, giving a few of their experiences. They were the only ones of the three in active work.

The Sunday school committee reported in favor of holding Sunday school institutes. John Ayscough, who is engaged in the enforcement of the liquor license law, addressed the conference. During the last year it had cost $23,000 to do the work under his charge. The fine during that time have amounted to $30,000, and forty people have been sent to jail. During the last five months fines have been imposed at the rate of $1,000 a month. He instanced the lack of sympathy shown in places where his duties were secured. He was strong in his denunciation of the effects of the liquor traffic. He told of difficulties he had met with by people secretly supplying "blind pigs" with liquor, and was very earnest in his praise of the administration of Hon. Mr. Haultain's department at Toronto.

SCARLET FEVER AND DIPHTHERIA INCREASE

Isolation Section of Victoria Hospital Will Soon Be Filled.

Scarlet fever and diphtheria are increasing so rapidly in the city that at the present rate the new contagious hospital will soon be filled. Four new cases of scarlet fever and one of diphtheria came in yesterday, making a total of 25 scarlet fever cases and 10 of diphtheria. In addition, there are other contagious cases that are being treated, and only a dozen or so more beds are available. The outbreak of the worst the city has had in some time. There is considerable comment among many citizens as to the cause of the outbreaks of this nature which London has had recently, and there has been some talk of asking the board of health to make an investigation.

DISTORTED HIS SERMON

A Montreal Priest Takes Action Against a French Journal.

Ottawa, June 7.—Rev. Father Varrilly, assistant priest at St. Bridget's Church, this city, will take action against La Patrie, Montreal, for distorting his sermon on the coronation oath. Father Varrilly states that the paper made him say in reporting his sermon, that there was nothing in the oath contrary to the Roman Catholic faith.

THE ST. STEPHEN'S BANK

All the Creditors and Depositors Will Be Paid in Full.

Montreal, June 7.—Mr. John Knight, secretary of the Dominion Bankers' Association, who has been in New Brunswick in connection with the affairs of the St. Stephens Bank, states that the work of the curator has been completed, and the final voluntary winding-up of the institution will be conducted by Mr. Keesen, general manager of the Bank of New Brunswick. All the creditors and depositors of the St. Stephens Bank will be paid in full. The shareholders will be the only sufferers, but to what extent Mr. Knight could not say. The Canadian Bankers' Association may reasonably claim that the duty imposed upon it when incorporated by the Government is expeditiously performed.

TARIFF NEGOTIATIONS

Reciprocity Treaty Under Way With Italy and Belgium.

Ottawa, June 7.—It is understood that substantial progress is being made with the negotiations for better tariff relations between Canada and Italy, as well as Belgium. No final steps have been taken yet to give effect to a reciprocity treaty with either country, but an announcement may be made shortly.

GOES AROUND.

Port Huron, June 7.—The Canadian steamer Strathcona, bound down with ore for Point Edward, which ran aground on Corsica shoal, Lake Huron, just east of the light, and was cut all around about two inches, was released yesterday after lightening about 200 tons of her cargo into the Wayne Company's drydock, Point Edward, and will be followed by the Strathcona.

Women

Cannot be Strong and Healthy Unless the Kidneys are Well.

Weak, lame or aching backs are the first sign of kidney trouble. Under ordinary conditions they ought to be strong and ready to bear the burden of life. It is hard to do housework with a weak and aching back. Backaches come from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause.

But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it is not to be wondered that they get out of order. Weak back is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney troubles.

Don's Kidney Pills will cure you in the same way as they have cured thousands of others.

Miss Alberta B. Clarke, Stony Creek, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with kidney trouble for several years; my back was weak, I had much terrible headache, and was so restless I could not sleep at night and tried everything without any benefit. My doctor advised me to try Don's Kidney Pills, so I got four boxes and they completely cured me. I now feel as well as I ever did and would advise everyone suffering from kidney disease to try them."

Price 60 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all druggists or The T. Millburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

In ordering mention "Don's."

LIFE IS ENDED

tion. All his life he was a thinker and a clear and forceful writer, and he never lacked a medium through which to disseminate his views. His residence at different times in England, the United States and Canada made him a familiar figure in the public mind of the three countries. He signed letters to the New York Sun were many. Nov. 10, 1909, Mr. Smith announced his retirement from journalism, laying 35 to age.

He held various degrees, but preferred always to be known plainly as Goldwin Smith. He was active practically until the last. His wife died Sept. 9, 1909, at their home in Toronto, when she was 75 years old, and her husband 86. They were married in 1875. Mrs. Smith was born in Boston, the daughter of Thomas Dixon, who was a knight of the Order of the Netherlands and of the Order of the Lily. Goldwin Smith was born at Reading, England, Aug. 23, 1823. His father, Richard Smith, was a physician. Goldwin inherited a good deal of property, and all his life was able to indulge his tastes.

His preparatory education was acquired at Eton. He was graduated from Magdalen College, Oxford, in 1845, and later took the degree of M. A. He gained various prizes from two scholarships. He became a fellow of University College, Oxford in 1847, and in the same year was called to the bar at Lincoln's Inn, but he never practiced law. In 1852 Oxford gave him the degree D. C. L., and in 1856 Princeton made him an LL. D.

He was Regius professor of modern history at Oxford from 1858 to 1866, and was an active champion of the north during the American civil war. He visited this country in 1864, after having written the previous year "Does the Bible Sanction Slavery?" and "On the Morality of the Emancipation Proclamation." While in this country he made a lecturing tour and on his return to England published "England and America" and "The Civil War in America."

Removes to America. He removed to this country in 1868, and from that year until 1871 was a lecturer at Cornell University, where he lectured on English and constitutional history, in the latter year removing to Canada, but continuing to hold an honorary or non-resident professorship, and in his will, it is understood, he directed that his brain be handed over to Cornell, where Prof. Burt Green Wilder has for many years been engaged in an attempt to secure the brains of 109 celebrated men for study.

From 1871 to his death Mr. Smith lived in Toronto. His home here was Toronto, occupying a whole city block—an old English house covered with ivy and surrounded by trees. Mr. Smith always carried a cane, and in his walks about tapped the grass and the leaves with it. He was a spare man, with thoughtful face, slightly stooping shoulders, and in his later years white and scanty hair, but always with a keen eye. At the Grange he carried on his work as author, critic, and historian, expressing clearly the convictions he had arrived at through serious thought and study, and sticking to them. He was a Liberal, and he was opposed to "party expediency" as a means by which political corruption attained its end.

He wrote a great deal along the line of a union of Canada with the United States, a union, which he believed, would ultimately come about. For more than a generation he wrote a weekly article to the Farmers' "Sun" of Toronto, under the pseudonym "By-stander." He had begun newspaper work as a member of the staff of the London Standard, and was for a long time honorary president of the Canadian Press Association, and until he was well past 80 always attended the association's annual meetings and banquets.

A Methodist Worker. He began the day's work at 9 o'clock every morning in his library, and wrote most of his articles himself, although sometimes dictating to his secretary. He worked regularly until luncheon, and the afternoon he spent largely in reading, in the winter, and in walking about his grounds or driving in the summer. He enjoyed having friends about him, was fond of music, an expert billiard player, and a good hand at whist. He was said to be greatly interested in charitable matters, but his gifts to such objects were never loudly proclaimed. His views on questions of religion have been abundantly put forth in letters printed in the New York Sun, and are intimated in the titles of some of his publications.

He was active in educational associations, was vice-president of the Law Amendment Association, and president of the Modern Language Association. Among his published works were "Irish History and Irish Character," "Lectures on Modern History," "Rational Religion and the Rationalistic Objections of the Bampton Lectures for 1858, 1861," "The Empire," "A Letter to a Whig Member of the Southern Independence Association," "Three English Statesmen," "Essays on Reform," "The Reorganization of the University of Oxford," "William Cowper," "Jane Austen," "The Conduct of England to Ireland," "Loyalty, Aristocracy and Jingoism," "The Political Destiny of Canada," "William Lloyd Garrison," "History of the United States," "Bay Leaves," "Translations from the Latin Poets," "Essays on Questions of the Day," "Guesses at the Riddle of Existence," "Shakespeare, the Man," "Commonwealth or Empire," "In the Court of History," "The Founder of Christendom," "Lines to Religious Inquiry," "My Memory of Gladstone," and "Labor and Capital."

A FAVOR TO ONTARIO

Pay Dividends on Loan Without incurring Income Tax.

Toronto, June 8.—The provincial treasurer, Hon. Col. Matheson, received a message this morning of the honorable recognition of Ontario loans by the Imperial Government in a manner that is certain to place them even higher in the list of valued securities for English investors. The privilege has been granted the Bank of Montreal, which acts as the agent of the Ontario Government, to pay out dividends on Ontario loan issues when they do not exceed 5 without incurring the income tax. This dividend represents an investment of about £20, which will include a large proportion of the holders of the provincial loans. These now amount to $10,000,000, including the loan for the construction of the T. and N. O. Railway, and the later loan for the Niagara power transmission. All holders of these bonds exceeding £10 will pay the usual income tax, which amounts to more than one shilling in the pound.

This exception heretofore has applied only to dividends on Government loans, which are paid by the Bank of England, and Col. Matheson is gratified at the favor extended to this province.

FELL FIFTY FEET.

Toronto, June 7.—Albert Manning, aged 26 years, a painter, died this morning in St. Michael's Hospital as the result of falling 50 feet down the elevator shaft of the Simpson Kitting Company's works, Berkeley street. Manning was an Englishman, not long out. He leaves a wife.

MUNICIPAL ABATTOIRS URGED BY RUTHERFORD

More Rigid Inspection of Cattle Needed, Says Dominion Veterinary-General.

Ottawa, June 8.—Dr. J. G. Rutherford, Dominion veterinary-general, urges the establishment of municipal abattoirs. He does not believe it practicable to extend the federal act beyond its present scope. The Federal Government, he says, should guarantee the healthfulness of meat exported from one province to another or to foreign countries, but that the provincial and municipal authorities should protect the public health by properly inspecting all meat slaughtered for the local markets. That rigid inspection is needed will appear from the record of condemned carcasses under the administration of the present federal law. During twelve months no less than 9,395 carcasses were condemned as unfit for human food. The condemned animals were afflicted with various diseases, including abscesses, tapeworms, dropsy, jaundice, humpjaw, pneumonia, skin diseases, tumors and erysipelas. Some 4,397 were declared unfit for food because afflicted with tuberculosis; sink veal figures prominently in the records and accounts for condemnation of 2,570 carcasses.

Dr. Rutherford points out that all these animals were condemned at Government-inspected packing houses, where naturally the greatest care is exercised in purchasing only sound animals and where comparatively few unsound animals would be offered for slaughter.

He says: "When it is remembered that these establishments under inspection handle only animals of the best class procurable, the conditions which exist in the ordinary private slaughter houses, conducted without inspection or official supervision of any kind, may readily be imagined. Boards of health and municipal authorities have been too long neglectful of the necessity for intelligent action in the matter of meat inspection."

It should be remembered, however, that where packing houses slaughter both for local and export trade, all of their output is inspected under the federal law. Nevertheless, in a city like Toronto, a large proportion of meat consumed by the people is subjected only to municipal inspection. In Toronto the Federal Government keeps from eighteen to twenty inspectors constantly at work in the six establishments subject to federal inspection. As a rule, no municipality employs anything like this number of inspectors.
