MANY FLOUR SACKS SOLD IN THE STORES ARE UNDER WEIGHT

Inspector Finds Stamped and Actual Measures Do Not Tally.

That the majority of flour sacks sold in London are under weight, was the purport of a report submitted to the board of control yesterday afternoon by License Inspector J. W. McCallum. The inspector has weighed a number of sacks offered for sale in various throughout the city and has found that in the majority of cases the stamped weight is con-siderably more than the actual gross weight of flour and sack. In some instances the discrepancies on a 12-pound sack ran as much as six ounces and more.
