AMBRICAN VESSEL OWNERS MAK-ING A KICK.

The Earbor Master at Port Sarnia Gives a Quid Pro Que and They Don't Like WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 27 .- United States Consul Pace in a despatch to Secretary Bayard says there is much complaint on the part of American vessel owners and captains at the recent appointment of a harbor master at Port Sarnia by the Canadian authorities. The master charge American vessels fees ranging from $1 to $5 for the privilege of touching a dock or anchoring in the stream, which at Port Sarnia is the dividing line between Canada and the United States, and which by law and pre-cedent is free to the ships of both national-ities. The Canadian government has never expended a dollar to build a harbor at this point. The docks are the property of private, individuals, and whilst the harbor private individuals, and whilst the harbor master may collect fees from ships which may land at these docks, the individual owner of the docks may order their immediate removal for refusing to pay tribute to him. Canadian shipping is guided to the river by a light furnished at the expense of the United States government and no harbor dues are charged to Canadian vessels at Port Huron or elsewhere on the river St. Clair. Gonsul Pace also mentions an attempt by the Canadian where on the river St. Clair. Gonsul Pace also mentions an attempt by the Canadian authorities to seize the American steam tug Mocking Bird because she had assisted the American steamer Wissahickon, bound from Buffalo to Chicago, and which had stranded on a sand bar. Some days after this assistance was rendered, the Canadian authorities boarded the Mocking Bird and proceeded to seize her for violating the wrecking regulations. The captain of thetug declined to be seized, saying his vessel was in mid-stream and saying his vessel was in mid-stream and not under the jurisdiction of the Canadian authorities. The tug went to Port Huron with the officials on board. The case is

Before the argument opened Mr. Hardy said the government would be pleased if the commissioners would visit several prisons in the States and the Kingston penitentiary before bringing in their report. Judge Sinclair assured him that the commissioners intended to do so. The evidence furnished was very meagre on the head of punishments, etc. the head of punishments, etc.

Annle Ward, about 35 years old, who lived at 7 Niagara street, and was employed as cleaner in the Northern passenger coaches, while crossing one of the tracks in the yard yesterday morning about 7 o'clock, was struck by a freight car. Her left leg was almost severed from the body, and her right ankle and one arm were badly of admission to Catholic chaplains and to the discrimination between religious sects with regard to these charges was not true.

In the afternoon Mr. Idington spoke for Mr. Massie. In regard to the meat charge he contraded that the evidence mainly went to show that the prisoners wanted fresh meat instead of salt. There was no evidence of the warden's persistence in causing tainted meat to be served. When the charge of religious partiality failed it the warden had instructed him not to register certain punishments. The warden had in many cases dene away with certain rules and had substituted some of his own. In regard to indefinite punishments. Mr. Idington considered the charges concerning bathing and ventilation to be well met by the evidence. In regard to sanitary complaints Dr. Aikens had spoken almost boastfully of the general good state of health existing in the prison. Even Guard Hart whose avidence tastified the health existing in the prison. Even Guard Hart, whose evidence testified the extremist bitterness against the warden, is satisfied with the good character of the food. Mr. Idington then went into the question of punishment at some length. He read extracts from reports of several prisons in the atates setting forth the necessity of rigorous dicipline and heavy punishments. He consended that the warden was within it bylaw in inflicting indefinite punishment. bylaw in inflicting indefinite punishment. Other wardens possess great advanta, so over Mr. Massie. He is to keep discipling among the worst rascals in Ontario, with only two medes of punishment, namely by confinement in the dark cell, or in the man's own cell. He should be allowed to use the lash at his own discretion. The warden's prison life had been fully gone into; would the affairs of any business man with twenty-five employes not of his own choosing, stand inspection so well? Moreover, every prisoner with only a tolerably descent record had given evidence directly in Mr. Massie's favor. Among the guards, the only men who had spoken against him were Hart and Hartnell, both of whom, by their bearing in the box, gave evidence of the extreme antagonism they bore to the warden.
