FOR EVENING WEAR

Shepherdess Dress Rapidly Winning Way Because of Daintiness.

In spite of the fact that sor tones are predicted for early spring wear, many bright and cheery-toned weaves are being fashioned into interesting costumes for street wear at the present time. Of these, Burgundy red is proving very popular, and this the present time. Of these, Burgundy red is proving very popular, and this rich shade in velour de laine, velveteen and many soft materials is very excellently combined with skunk, musquash or black fox fur. The contrast is decidedly chic and very appropriate for the snowy months. Perhaps, first after the sand and putty shades which will soon be joined by the regulation khaki, Belgian bihe is fancied, not only from a naturally patriotic and admiring standpoint, but also because it is so practical and yet so attractive and easily adapted to all street attire.

The shepherdess dress for evening wear is rapidly winning its way into the hearts of fair femininity, so sweet and dainty is its appearance.

The wide skirt is a series of pretty ruffles hiked a little on one side and caught firmly with a cluster of flowers, which again appear at the waist, on shoulder, or loosely falling cape of tulle. Sometimes these little bouquets are tied with bows of ribbon to accentuate the watteau effect, still further observed in the tight-fitting bodice shirred and ruffled. The dropped shoulder line is a prominent feature. Narrow edgings of fur outline the lowest ruffles of the skirt, which measures about three and a half yards, and little bands are also oddly arranged on the bodice, out low and square across the back.

It is likely that the order-in-council settling the date will be issued before the end of the week. None of the ministers wished to commit themselves yesterday, altho they intimated that the public would be given notice before long. themselves in readiness to assemble
