SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

a good one.

Every horse entered in the steeplechase at Hamilton will yet win. We forget whose turn it is today.

Acrobat did a good turn the other day, winning at 40 to 1.

The trotters and "pasters" are in our midst.

Spearmint, winner of the English Derby, won the Grand Prix at Paris yesterday, under the whip for the last 300 yards of the course. The stake is valued at $50,000, making Spearmint, which Major Loder bought as a yearling for $1,500, the winner of over $85,000 this season. The last English horse to win the Grand Prix was Minting, Spearmint's grandsire.

Did you notice those steeplechase odds Saturday? Suppose $500 was bet on Conover to win $600, the same on Lord Radnor, $200 on Frank Somers to win $800, and $200 on Wild Range to win $1,000.

The alleged gamblers on the block would win $300 if Conover came in, $300 if it was Radnor, $400 if it was Somers, and 200 if it was Wild

The whist season has closed in our midst, and now we will give ourselves over entirely to our favorite exercise-reading the form sheet, and fighting mosquitos.

The disclosures of the Beef Trust are almost as heartrending as "those heart to heart talks between steeplechase jocks."

Isn't this the same Mathewson that flirted with one of those $1,500 week human interest offers to go on the stage last fall?

DeMund, the Rainey boys' $45,000 bauble, will not exhibit himself again "until Saratoga." That is lots of time in which to regild a brick.

This pure grub agitation has enriched the baseball glossary. Miss Sutton's first defeat in England or America since she first won the Pacific Coast championship in 1901, was that of Friday last. Miss Sutton's career as a lawn tennis player has been remarkable. When only twelve years old, in 1889, she made her first appearance in the Pacific Coast championship tournament and was beaten by her elder sister, Ethel, who, in turn, was beaten by another sister, Violet. In 1900, however, she took both the California championships from her sister.
