ST. JOHN CAPTAIN GIVEN COMMAND OF FINE STEAMER

Wm. R. Kennedy Master of The Janawha in U. S. Naval Service—Began Sea Life as Cabin Boy Sailing From Here

Hearty congratulations will be extended by friends here to Captain William R. Kennedy, a former St. John boy, who is now in the naval service of the United States, upon his recent appointment to the command of a newly launched steamer the "Janawha" on the Pacific coast. The appointment is a tribute to his record in the service, particularly as the post was eagerly sought by officers of greater years of service. The steamer is employed in carrying fuel to American vessels, and has capacity for 1500 tons. She is also equipped with accommodation for 250 passengers. The steamer cost one and a quarter million dollars.

The "Janawha" is elaborately fitted, the quarters of the master and his officers being especially attractive, he having a private dining room, library, bath and other rooms in his suite. The honor which has just come to Captain Kennedy is in some way marked contrast to his first sailing from this port, when as a lad of fifteen years he shipped as cabin boy aboard one of the vessels owned by his father, the late James Kennedy of this city. He has followed the sea all his life, and has met with much success.

When still a young man he held the office of mate and captain aboard some good-sized ships, one of his best known commands being the "Crescentmore," a full rigger, in which he sailed for some time.

Another was the "Archway," in which he sailed for ten years. He visited his brother, George K. Kennedy at his home, Summer street, here, about four or five years ago and old acquaintances greeted him warmly. For some time Captain Kennedy has had his home in Monsey, N. Y., going there when relief from his command allowed him a furlough ashore.

LETTERS COME FROM TWO SONS

Two Fraser Boys in the War—Like Big Thunder Storm in Co-Operation on West Front

A vivid description of battle conditions is given by Jack Fraser, with the divisional ammunition column, first contingent, in a letter to his mother, Mrs. W. A. Fraser, 404 Union street. He says: "It is like a big thunder storm out here, and all things are moving fast out here now; the French and British are doing good work and the Canadian boys are fighting like wild cats. The more fighting they get the better they like it."

Another son of Mr. and Mrs. Fraser, who left with the 28th, writes telling of the trip across and saying that he is trying to get a transfer to a battalion of the first contingent.

A third son, too young to go, is anxiously asking his parents if the war will last long enough to let him have a chance to get to the front.

Misses Wounded Brother.

Mrs. Margaret Garter has received a letter from her son, Frank Garter of the 28th Battalion, telling of his arrival in England and of his meeting his brother, Bert Garter of the first contingent, who had been wounded and sent back to hospital there. Bert told him he was going to a convalescent hospital for a month or so. Frank writes that the boys of the 28th were enjoying life in camp.

HAVING A GREAT TIME ON TRIP ON RIVER

Y. M. C. A. Boys on Launch Acme Enjoying Outing to Hearts Content

Word has just been received from Captain P. J. Legge, secretary of the boys' department of the local Y. M. C. A., reporting that the boys who left the city on last Monday morning for a week's trip up the river, are all well and happy and enjoying splendid weather and the delights of the beautiful scenery of the St. John. Since the first day William Cross, the capable cook and the most popular man in the party, has conclusive evidence that every lad has hollow legs in spite of this. Mr. Howe has been able to fill all the boys to their entire satisfaction.

The first stop was made on Monday at Sand Point and on that night tents were pitched at the mouth of the Belle Isle. For nearly all the boys this was the first night they had ever slept out under canvas. At breakfast on the following morning every boy had a story about things that had been seen and heard during the night that would make the "Arabian Nights" stories seem tame.

They landed at Robertson's Point at noon on Tuesday and from there, will cruise up through Grand Lake, calling every day at some special point of interest. On going ashore they take short trips through the country during the day and in the early afternoon return for games. Every night after supper they build a camp-fire, have a programme of jokes and stories, closing the evening's activities with a brief religious service, adapted to making very real the God of the great out-of-doors. In the morning the first thing is a dip, which every lad takes, then a quiet hour followed by breakfast, which everybody takes also. After breakfast, Mr. Legge reports that everybody has a job, and that they are all doing their work with enthusiasm. The following is the plan of organization.

F. J. Legge..... Captain
Herb Morton..... Engineer
William Howe..... Chief Cook
Bob Cochrane, Murray Skinner, Cookers

Ed. Primmer..... Second Mate
