

MANY GATHER TO START MISSION

Special Four Weeks of Services Begun Sunday In Cathedral

Mission for Children and For Married Women First—Redemptorists in Charge

A four weeks' mission was successfully opened in the Cathedral on Sunday by three Redemptorist priests from Toronto—Rev. George Mylitt, C. S. R. Rev. John Barry, C. S. R. and Rev. John Keogh, C. S. R. Large attendance marked the services and also again this morning at the week day masses.

A mission for the children was the first to be started and it was opened at 2:15 o'clock with a large gathering of boys and girls. They were addressed by Father Keogh. The married women's mission was begun in the evening with a very large assemblage. There was recitation of the beads led by Father Keogh and followed by a short instruction by him. Benediction was given by Rev. W. M. Duke with the women's choir singing. The main sermon was preached by Father Barry. The missionaries have made a deep impression by their ability as pulpit orators.

EXHORTED TO ATTEND
Speaking at the 9:15 o'clock mass Father Barry announced the hours of the mission services and then spoke on the mission and its meaning. It was really a time of preparation for death. Since the last mission was held in the Cathedral many of the congregation had passed away. No one could say how many would die before another mission would be given.

The speaker closed with a word to the married women of the parish. He made a touching reference to the mothers and their great influence and called on them to set a good example to husband and sons and daughters by making their own mission a great success.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR MISSION.
The arrangements for the four weeks of the mission were announced at the masses by one of the three missionaries. They are:

This week the mission will be for the married women, next week for the single women, the third week for the married men and last week for the single men. The mission for the children, begun yesterday afternoon will be concluded on Wednesday. The children will attend one of the masses and they will have their special instruction in the afternoons after school. Only those in the grades up to High School will be included in the children's mission. The High School boys will take the exercises with the single men and the High School girls with the single women.

HOURS OF MASSES.
The hours of the masses during the four weeks are 8:30 a.m., 7, 8 and 10 o'clock. Those at 8:30 and 9 are the mission masses and there will be an instruction at each. The early hour of the first mass is fixed to permit those whose daily work begins early to attend and have time to be at work at the hour required. The evening services of the mission will be at 7:30 o'clock.
At each of the masses on Sunday there was a brief address by one of the other of the missionaries. At 9:15 o'clock His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc also spoke briefly for the success of the mission.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED
Rev. E. R. MacWilliam, pastor of the Waterloo street Baptist church, tendered his resignation to his congregation last night and it was regretfully accepted when it was learned that his decision in the matter was final. Mr. MacWilliam will send his acceptance of the pastorate of the Victoria street Baptist church today and will enter on his duties at the Victoria street church on the first Sunday in April.

Tired of society, Elinor Patterson, Chicago beauty, sought a career on the stage. Despite her inexperience, she was picked for the important part of the Nurse in the Chicago presentation of the spectacle, "The Miracle." Now a great future is predicted for her as an actress.

CHURCH WAS PLANNED TWICE FOR CORNER OF OLD BURIAL GROUND

Fire Once Prevented; Objections Second Time; Then "Stone" Church Was Built—Archives Record of First City Cemetery

DELVING into the old papers in the Dominion Archives branch in Princess street, a searcher came across an interesting account of the old Burial Ground in Saint John, which was closed in 1848. The article tells several matters of interest in connection with its history and is as follows:

"History numbers here some names and scenes to long remembrance dear. For here were laid the mortal remains of the lowly and the noble, the rich and the poor. And summer verdure clothes the lowly breast. Of the small hillock where our fathers rest. There is the dauntless heart, the hand, the voice, That mark the desert blossom and rejoice."
"Here it lies, appropriately, in the heart of our city, as the memory of its silent occupants should rest in the hearts of our citizens. For here were laid the mortal remains of the founders of Saint John—the framers of its laws; its honored servants and its respected citizens; its noble women—our granddaughters and grand-dames of a century ago."

OUT OF WILDERNESS.
"For some time after the settlement of the city the site and vicinity of the old burial-ground was a wilderness, covered with cedar, spruce and swamps. When Paul Beaulieu laid out the city in 1783, the lots comprising the burial-ground (bounded by King, Sydney and Carmarthen streets and by the rear of Union street) were reserved for the purpose and shortly afterwards the place was fairly cleared and prepared for the burial of the dead. The brush or snake fence commonly seen in the country. The place was a little larger than now, as it encroached on King and Carmarthen streets. The running of the lines of those streets took a few feet from it. The first walk made was one running easterly from Sydney street and ending near the centre of the ground. This was the only one required for some time. In fact the appearance of the burial-ground, quite up to the time of its closing, resembled a large field dotted with tombstones and head-boards. The only ornamentation was the native trees and shrubs."

SWEEP BY FIRE.
"In 1784 the building of an English church was commenced on the southwest corner of the burial ground, opposite where the Court House now stands. The frame was prepared and ready for raising. Some persons near the place where the Centenary church now stands were burning brush from a clearing; the fire spread, gathering strength as it went, passed over the graveyard, destroyed the church frame and went on for miles over hill and swamp, ending its career only when the banks of the Kennebecas barred its farther progress. Little trace was left of the existence of a burial ground. In all probability what graves were marked at this time had only head boards, which would be destroyed."
OLDEST STONE DATED 1784.
"The oldest stone is that of Coonradt Hendricks, 1784, and his, if not the first, is the first known interment. At first the stones placed here would be obtained from England. It is not likely that any would be brought from the United States; the "late antiquaries" being too fresh in the memories of our early citizens. One of the early stone cutters in St. John was John Milligan, the same who built Burns' monument at Ayr, Scotland. The first grave digger was a colored man named Edward Burr, who for 60 years served in that capacity. Burr was a character in his way and well known. His sombre occupation of the day was relieved at night by his playing the fiddle for dancing parties."

STONE CHURCH.
"In 1822, the building of a second Church of England was contemplated and the corporation gave the same site (southwest corner of the burial ground) which had previously been given and abandoned. There were, however, objections made to building there. Finally Judge Chipman offered

YARMOUTH, Feb. 19.—The death took place at his home, Alma street, last evening of Lieut.-Col. Thomas Melvin Seelye, aged 81 years. He was one of the best known journalists in the weekly newspaper life of Nova Scotia and had been associated with it in one capacity or another for nearly half a century. Colonel Seelye was born at Argyle, Yarmouth county, and was the son of the late Charles W. Seelye. As a youth he came to this town and entered the employ of the late Richard Huntington, who at the time was editor and proprietor of the Yarmouth Tribune. Later Colonel Seelye worked in the Herald, of this town, and also in the Yarmouth News. He later returned to Yarmouth and entered the employ of Charles Carey, who shortly afterwards died. Colonel Seelye occupied the editorial chair. Colonel Seelye held that position for about 12 years, when he resigned and engaged in newspaper work in Annapolis Royal, New Waterford, Pictou and other places, returning to Yarmouth after the close of the Great War and assuming control of the Yarmouth Times. A year or so later his health became broken and on advice of his physicians he retired from active work for a year. He then went to Summerside, P. E. I., and for a year filled a position on the Journal in that town. His health again failing him, Colonel Seelye was obliged to return to Yarmouth and ever since then he has gradually declined.

ACTIVE IN MILITARY
In addition to his career in the newspaper life of the province, Colonel Seelye played a big part in the military affairs of this province and it is very doubtful if there is another officer in Nova Scotia who has given more of his young men their start in a military training as did the late Colonel Seelye. His career in the military commenced in 1882 when he joined the Yarmouth Battery G. A. as a gunner and from that time up until the outbreak of the Great War he was continuously in the service. In 1888 he was one of the Nova Scotians selected to go to England on the Shearwater team. In May, 1914, he was honored with the title of lieutenant-colonel, which he retained until his retirement to the N. B. of his death.

ORGANIZED BATTERY IN N. B.
In November, 1914, Colonel Seelye was appointed to organize the 28th Battery at Fredericton, N. B., which, when all prepared to go overseas, was passed over to the command of Major Mackay, of Pictou. The deceased was then ordered to Barrington Passage to establish a guard at the radio station at that place. In 1916 he was in Hal-

Much interest is being manifested in the announcement that the Maritime badminton championships will be played here on the Garrison Courts at the Armories on the 18th and 19th of March. Entries are expected from Halifax, Yarmouth and other points in the Maritime Provinces, where clubs have been organized.

Miss May Harrison returned on Saturday from Montreal, where she spent two weeks at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Mrs. Everett Timmerman, of Montreal, arrived in the city yesterday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Ford, Dorchester street. Mrs. Ford's many friends will regret to hear she is suffering from pneumonia, and will hope for an early improvement in her condition.

Miss Helen Lingley, Westfield Beach, passed through the city on Saturday en route to Stewiack, N. S., where she will be the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Parlee, and Rev. Henry Parlee, at the rectory.

Friends in Saint John are extending congratulations to Mrs. Kenneth Scrim-fax taking a course in infantry at the R. S. I. He organized the 112th Battalion and took it to England. The following year, however, that battalion was depleted for drafts and Colonel Seelye with other "surplus" senior officers was ordered to return home. He was decorated with the Long Service Medal, Colonial Officers' Decoration and General War Service Medal. In 1922 he was elected honorary president Yarmouth Command, G. W. V. A.

GOOD CITIZEN
As a citizen, Colonel Seelye was one of the best. In religion he was an adherent of the Presbyterian church and for many years a valued member of the choir. He is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Joanna Archibald, and one daughter, Mrs. J. J. C. Watson, wife of United States Consul Watson, of Georgetown, Demerara, but for the last year with her parents in Yarmouth; also two sisters, Mrs. Frank Little, in Boston, and Mrs. John McKie, Lower Argyle, Yarmouth county; and four brothers, Capt. O. I. and W. F. Seelye, Lower Argyle, E.

W. Seelye, Moncton, N. B., and C. E. Seelye, Worcester, Mass.

The funeral will take place from his home on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 and interment will be made in Mountain cemetery.

Carnation Milk
Takes Guess-Work from Your Baking
WHEN bake day comes then milk uncertainties must go. A ruined milk dish wastes your time, your money and your temper. Milk uncertainties! You know them! Skimmed milk left after you took the cream from the top; you need two cups when only one and a half is left; milk you thought fresh is just on the turn. All this you can avoid. Make your baking easier, surer, better. Use Carnation Milk. The cream is evenly distributed throughout the milk so that it is always of uniform consistency. Carnation is just pure, fresh milk evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization. It keeps. Always safe, always sure and—you can't run short. Get Carnation from your grocer.

You Agree, But Do You Act

To have and to hold your health—a real aim in life, isn't it? But don't nod your head in agreement and then—promptly forget all about it. There are many ways to hold health. There are ways to coax health back. One of the most important is to stop drinking tea and coffee.

Tannin and caffeine in tea and coffee are harmful. With you these agents may work fast or slow. Yet sooner or later their poisonous effects are certain, sure!

Drink Instant Postum. Here is a habit healthful both to body and brain. There's not a taut nerve, sleepless hour or headache in it. Rich, full-bodied, satisfying, millions like Instant Postum better than any other hot drink in the world! Give it to your family at every meal. It will bring them better health because it is free from all harmful drugs. Instantly made in the cup at a cost of about half-a-cent.

For those who prefer it there is Postum Cereal, made by boiling or percolating twenty minutes. Get Postum at your club, restaurant or on the train. A famous food demonstrator and diet expert, Carrie Blanchard, makes you a wonderful free offer. Mail the coupon—today.
