LABOR PAYS TRIBUTE TO LATE DOW WAGER

LONDON HERALD DEPARTS FROM USUAL CUSTOM Refers to Her as "Woman With a Kind Heart" EMPIRE MOURNS

Funeral Not Likely Before Fortnight to Permit Relatives to Attend

LONDON, Nov. 21—All Great Britain stood today, with bowed heads, mourning the passing of the beloved Dowager Queen Alexandra. Flags flew at half-mast, and many buildings were draped in black.

Death came to Queen Alexandra late yesterday afternoon, in Sandringham Palace, while her son, King George, and Queen Mary and various members of the royal household stood with tear-bedimmed eyes at the bedside.

The Prince of Wales, always her favorite grandson, had fate, in the nature of a heavy fog, against him, as he traveled from London to Sandringham, and did not reach the palace in time to bid his grandmother farewell.

Attacked by heart disease Thursday, the aged Queen Mother—she would have been 81 years old in a few days—sank rapidly and death intervened as twilight was coming on.

The news was quickly broadcast and listeners-in throughout the British Isles, heard over their radio sets, that the widow of King Edward VII and the mother of their present monarch, had gone to her last rest.

In London from 8 to 9 o'clock the big bell in St. Paul's tolled out sonorously the tale of the passing of a member of Great Britain's Royal Family. It is only when members of Royalty die, that the clang of the bell in St. Paul's awakens the sleeping belfry.

Was Unable, Through Illness To Appear When Benefit Night Proposed

NEW CANAAN, Conn., Nov. 21—Clara Morris, Canadian actress, once acclaimed as one of the greatest emotional actresses of the English-speaking stage, and later as the "woman of sorrows," because of her illnesses and financial reverses, is dead of heart disease, at the age of 79.

BORN IN TORONTO

Miss Morris' husband, Frederick C. Harriott, died in 1914. She died yesterday at the home of C. M. Herold. She had been living with the Herolds since closing her home two months ago. She was born March 17, 1846, in Toronto, and her father died when she was very young. While living in Cleveland her family were very poor, and it was while in the Ohio city, at the age of 15, that several of the cast of a road company playing "The Seven Sisters," stopped at her mother's boarding house and gave her her first chance on the stage.

FORCED TO RETIRE

She reached the apex of her career at the Fifth Avenue Theatre here, in 1875. Twenty years later she was forced to retire from the stage. In 1908 she and her husband faced eviction from their luxurious home, which was saved by the generosity of her brother-in-law. For thirty years she has suffered from rheumatism, sciatica and sometimes all complete blindness. A year ago a "Clara oris Night" was planned for her, but she could not appear on the stage and she was abandoned.
