ABRAHAM T. WATTERS KILLED ON STEAMER

Retired Sea Captain Victims of Accident While Working on the Dodd's Kidney Pills Doing S. S. Manchester Commerce

The home of Abraham T. Watters, a etired sea captain, of 63 Metcalf street, was plunged in grief yesterday afternoon, with the sad tidings of his instantaneous death, while employed in stevedore work aboard the S. S. Manchester Commerce Mr. Watters was acting as winchman, and about five minutes before he was to have ceased his labors for the day, they were brought to an end for all time, when an iron pivot attached to the lead block, conway, and struck Mr. Watters on the head of those who ave the wire leading from the winch into the derrick recoiled, and, striking him, swept him over the winch into the hatchway, where he fell headlong into the steamer's hold, a distance of about thirty feet. his fellow-workmen did not realize its awful significance until all was over. Runing to the place where he lay, they found Mr. Watters lying where he had drawn his last breath. Coroner Berryman, gave permission to remove the body to the undertaking rooms of Mr. Chamberlain.

Mr. Watters was a man of very genial disposition, having a great host of friends not only in this city and province, but in many ports along the coast, where in bygone years he moored his vessels. It is about twelve years ago since he abandoned his work as a sea captain, and settled for a life at home with his family Mr. Watters was aixty-two years of age, and is survived by his wife, three daughters, two sons, a brother and three sisters. The sons are:—Edward, and Gug G., of this city. Misses Louise E. Watters, of Boston, Mass.; Gladys M. and Helen M., at home, are the daughters.

The funeral will take place from his late residence on Monday afternoon at 2.30 e'clock, service being held at 2 o'clock. The sons are completed by the service of the characters are that it, is from dandruff. The cohes was to the control of the contro

LUMBER CARGOES AT BOSTON FROM PROVINCES

(Christian Science, Monitor, Boston.)

Large amounts of piling, lumber, etc., came up the harbor today from the British provinces in the holds of several schooners. Less than three days were required for the run from Windsor, N. S., by the three-masted schooner Archie Crowell, Captain Nickerson, while the Annie, Captain Doucette, also completed a fast run from Salmon river. The Bobs, Captain Burrell, completed the passage from Clementsport, N. S., in three days, bringing, besides her cargo of 13,000 feet of piling and 25 cords of wood, a bathtub and some other domestic articles.

The schooner G. H. Perry, Captain McDonough, also arrived today from St. John, N. B., and was over two weeks in coming here. This was due to the vessel putting in at several ports along the route, and when at Portland she was forced to lie at anchor several days, due to unfavorable weather conditions.
