(From Tuesday's Daily.) Steamer Roanske has brought news to the Sound of still another storm at Nome, which occurred on the 11th and did damage to the extent, it is estimated, of $750,000. The buildings situated along Snake river were completely demolished, and, it is said, that in all 500 people were rendered homeless. The damage done to shipping was also great. Several vessels were wrecked, and among those blown ashore was the big barge Skookum, which, it will be remembered, brought several hundred excursionists to Victoria from Seattle less than a year ago. The Robert Dollar and Charles Nelson had not reached Nome when the Roanoke sailed, although the first mentioned had then been out four weeks from the Sound' before the Roanoke. The Roanoke herself did not escape injury. She had her bulwarks smashed and her dining saloon flooded.

-A militia order has been issued from headquarters asking that the officers commanding the various districts forward the war service of all the warrant officers under them. In British Columbia there are but two warrant officers, Sergeant-Major Mulcahy, of the Fifth Regiment, Victoria, and Sergeant-Major Bundy, of the Sixth Rifles, Vancouver. Of these Sergeant-Major Mulcahy alone has had war service, having served through the Northwest rebellion under Major-General Middleton. He was in the engagement at Fish Creek, and participated in the famous bayonet charge which carried the day at Batoche.

According to news from Chicago, E. A. Davis, son of the Montana millionaire, who was killed by falling down stairs in the Driard hotel eight years ago, recently became insane in Chicago, and died in a hospital there. The elder Davis when he died left an estate valued at between $10,000,000 and $15,000.-000 principally in mines in Montana. The heirs becoming dissatisfied with the partition of the estate, started a protracted litigation which eventually drove E. A. Davis insane. A peculiar coincidence in connection with this family is that the majority of the deceased members have died in hotels, and E A. Davis was in a hotel when seized with a violent attack of insanity. ------There is some uneasiness among
