"Machaquito," who is considered the best matador in Spain earned $500,000 a year, which is twenty-five times the salary of the premier.

Three rooms in the Clementson mansion at Cartegena are filled with silver, plate, jewels, old lace, and porcelain presented to the bride and groom by their many friends. The private chapel in which the marriage took place was transformed into a bower of roses and carnations.

"Machaquito," is described by the local press as being "the most gallant man in Europe," and his romantic courtship of Miss Clementson has already furnished the inspiration for at least two novels.

"Machaquito," first saw Miss Clementson at Lorea, three years ago. A year later he proposed to her at Tombo, where he is reported to have given $500 to a local charity in exchange for a single kiss. The consent of her parents to the match was obtained a few months ago at Pouterabla, where "Machaquito" had a narrow escape from being gored to death by a wounded bull.

BULL FIGHTER WHO EARNS HALF A MILLION PER YEAR
Wedded to an American Girl and is Throwing Out the Cash.

MADRID, Dec. 1.—The matador "Machaquito," whose marriage to Miss Angulo Clementson, the daughter of a wealthy American, took place at Cartegena the other day, has distributed $10,000 among the poor in that city. He has also announced that he will found two asylums for the aged poor—one at Cartegena and the other at Cordova, his native town.

QUEEN IS HOSTESS
ON ALPINE PEAKS
Shares Hut all Night With Group of German and British Tourists.

GENEVA, Dec. 1.—Queen Margherita of Italy is stated to have had a novel experience while making an ascent in the Italian Alps a few days ago, accompanied by two guides.

Her Majesty was overtaken by a heavy snowstorm and night shelter in a hut already occupied by a large party of British and German Alpinists, who had likewise been caught in the storm.

The Queen was immediately recognized by the tourists, who were on the point of leaving the hut, when her Majesty said: "Pray let me be your hostess, gentlemen; we must wait until the storm has passed."

Queen Margherita insisted on looking after the fire, and shared the frugal supper with the other Alpinists and the guides. Her Majesty sat by the fire all night, while the others slept on the floor.

The tourists departed early the next morning, after thanking the Queen for her hospitality, and Queen Margherita descended to Moccagna with her guides.

SHE PLAYED A MAN'S PART ALL HER LIFE
"Bill" Edwards, Bouncer in a Brisbane Bar, Turns Out to be a Woman.

BRISBANE, Dec. 1.—"William" Edwards, who for some years carried on business in Melbourne as a race horse trainer and latterly acted as "harman" in one or two hotels there, and subsequently filled the same position in other cities, was recently arrested on a Victorian warrant for absconding from bail. It was then found that the accused was a woman.

She is of a sturdy, thick-set build, 6 feet, 6 inches, in height, and with a thoroughly masculine voice. She has been able to play her part well, for whenever and wherever offensive customers had to be ejected "Bill" was called and the business was always done with neatness and despatch.

The proper name of the masquerader is Marion Edwards. She is unmarried, and she explains that her reason for falling to the charge of burglary was that she dreaded being sent to gaol, her chief anxiety being that her sex would be discovered.
