Let's Listen to Reason.

Isn't it true that low prices alone fail to make clothing economical? Haven't you often noticed that a suit that was bought because it looked good, and was low in price, was rather unsatisfactory as an investment? Our many patrons know that the suits we sell are genuinely good, and that in that genuine goodness lies their true economy. But if YOU are not one of our patrons you may not realize the difference between such suits as our 20th Century line and others.

The style may be the same or similar, but in the suits we sell there is something back of the outward and visible style—a firm foundation of solid worth—that keeps the suit shapely and retains its original elegance for an extremely long period.

We are now offering an extensive line of NEW Suits at $12.00, $13.50, $15, $18 and upwards to $28.00. We invite your most critical inspection, and in looking at them we want you to bear in mind that they will prove fully as good as they look.

APPEAL TO COUNTRY WITHOUT A POLICY

CLINTON, Sept. 23.—Addressing today the fourth of the great demonstration which have welcomed him since he commenced his Ontario tour, Sir Wilfrid Laurier struck a deeper and broader note than any he had previously sounded. His speech, eloquent as always, was for a very large part devoted to the work which had been accomplished during the past twelve years towards the dignity of a place among the nations of the world, and for an hour he was listened to with rapt attention.

Remarkable Gathering

The gathering was remarkable. From the Hurons, Perth and Bruce came crowds of electors, back-headed Liberals of character who are not carried off their feet by momentary enthusiasm, but who, once convinced of the justice of their cause, will fight for it to the end.

Without a Policy

The Premier dismissed with scorn the attacks of the opposition. The campaign he described as the most extraordinary he had ever known, for they had the sorry spectacle of seeing the Conservative party appealing to the country without a policy to place before the people. They cried scandal, scandal, and yet had never framed a single charge against the government or any member of the administration. Dealing with the contention that the government had abandoned its pledges, particularly with regard to the reservation of land for settlers, he effectively contrasted the policy of Sir John Macdonald's administration with that of the present government. He also drew a striking picture of some of the achievements of his government in the matter of transportation and the development of the trade of the country.

THE WATERLESS AMERICAN RESTAURANT

An American has invented the waterless restaurant. The waterless restaurant is a new establishment, but no one until now has ever deliberately discarded water altogether. There has always been a pretence of having one or two about the premises, although perhaps effectually concealed from the hungry customer.

The American restaurant of the future will have a set of disappearing tables. The guest will write his order on a slate, press a button, and the table will vanish, to reappear a little later with the food upon it.

A NUISANCE
Of course, at the beginning, before people get used to the mechanism, they will tumble in large numbers down the trap-doors—especially late in the dinner, when ideas of mechanism and other complicated things become confused. But the mortality rate is always high when inventions are new and folks mix themselves up in the wheels and the tribute of mislaid guests is one worth paying to progress.

COMPLICATES LIFE
What will become of the waiters who used to wait in the new waterless restaurants? The old theory that labor-saving machinery dispenses with the labor is not correct. It may displace him temporarily, but not permanently. The waiter will get a more lucrative position as a repairer of the waterless machinery, or he put on duty to pick customers out of the wheels of the thing when the paltry and carboxylators run amok. Machinery often complicates the life which it is meant to simplify. Labor-saving devices give employment to thousands who would be out of work but for them. The telephone, for instance, has made life very much harder. Instead of seeing five persons a day, we now "see" fifty by means of the telephone, and consequently our worries are multiplied by ten. Fifty persons tell us their trouble and ask our help instead of five, and the telephone helps to make us older and grayer.

A GOOD TARGET
In the waterless restaurant you will press the button and it will decline to work. There will be no waiter to bring the steak because the steak is tough or the soup cold. What will happen if the machine forgets to lay the salt on the table? Must you send the whole table back to the kitchen to be re-laid?

A BRIDE KIDNAPPED
Toronto Man Lost His Young Wife in Cincinnati.
CINCINNATI, Sept. 23.—Jay Pitman, a decorator, who came here from his home in Toronto, Ont., reported to the police today that his wife was kidnapped last night. Pitman left his wife to engage an expressman to haul their goods from the depot, and spent several hours after that seeing the sights of the city. When he returned to the room where he had left his wife she was gone and neighbors told him that a strange man took her away. Pitman searched the city all last night and today without finding any trace of the young woman. Pitman is positive that she was kidnapped, though the police cannot understand why the kidnapper should also take the grips and suit cases belonging to the couple. According to the story of a woman who lives next door to the lodging house where the Pitmans stopped upon reaching the city, the man with whom Mrs. Pitman went away last night did not use any force, on the contrary, she declares, Mrs. Pitman seemed to be willing to accompany him. Pitman, however, does not believe that his wife has deserted him, and will continue the search. The police tonight dropped the case.

"MR. STORK, SEND ME A BABY," WRITES CHILD
Also Wants One for Her Friend, Not Later Than Christmas.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The following letter was received at Central Park today addressed to "Mr. Stork":
"My name is Anna Trainor, and I would like you very much to send me a nice little baby, for I like them very much. My friend, whose name is Hazel Corney, told me that she wrote a letter to you and a few days after she received a letter from you telling her that you would send the baby Christmas, or before Christmas.
"Well, Mr. Stork, my letter must come in a close, but don't forget to send each of us a baby no other time but this Christmas, December 25. Hazel said that she did not get her baby yet, so don't forget to send them Christmas.
"P. S.—Write soon."
On the other side was Anna's address, East Thirty-fourth street, and Hazel's, in the same street, and the following postscript:
"P. S.—Write soon to each of us. Bring Hazel's first, because she wrote before me."
The letter is written in a childish handwriting, and evidently with great care in the first part before the writer tired. It is shown to Bill, of the Central Park storks. Bill put his head on one side and three keepers will vouch for this—deliberately winked.

AMUSEMENTS.

PLEASE PERFORMANCE AT THE PRINCESS.

The Princess Theatre was crowded last night with the most pleased audience that have visited this family amusement resort this season. In addition to an excellent programme of moving pictures, the big musical act of Goldie and Good is attracting large crowds. This is one of the best musical acts that has been offered in the city for some time and is deserving of all the applause they are receiving. There Never Was a Girl Like You. Harry Newcombe will render "Stingy." There is an entire change of programme today.

THE PADRONE A GREAT PICTURE DRAMA.

Nickel crowds sat next thing to spell-bound because of the dramatic intensity of the new pictorial feature "The Padrone" or "The Organ-Grinder's Revenge," a tale of the Italians and their "Black Hand" society in Chicago. The picture is a masterpiece of the kind and is certainly cleverly constructed and enacted their roles with wonderful effect. The picture is in England was an instructive as well as exciting picture, and Two Clever Detectives, a bit of comedy with an entirely new touch. Today the songs are to be changed, Miss Felix to sing Roy Dickenson Welch's beautiful new writing, "When Night Falls, Dear," and Mr. Weston is sure to please once more with "Gypsy Ann," a late cowboy song like that rollicking number, "Santiago Flynn," which went so big a short time ago.

REPEATED AGAIN TODAY.

A large and delighted audience witnessed the mid-week programme at the Bijou last night. The programme consisting, as it does, of five pictures, every one of which has something really interesting or something of the highly amusing order about it, will be repeated again today, and is one that no person should fail to see. Perhaps the picture entitled, "The Mountain-Creeper's Son" came in for the most deserved share of applause. Depleting the many little of a man of the Scottish highlands, his love and fidelity for the father and how he saves his father from falling into the hands of the police for whom a trap has been set, it makes a picture that causes the heart to throb and leap with joy for the gallant little fellow. Three roaring comedy pictures entitled, "The Butcher's Loss," "Off on the Holidays," and "Amateur Hunter" kept the audience in fits of laughter all the while. Then for a picture that puzzles and causes merriment, "The Disintegrated Convict" certainly filled the bill. Miss Smith's song, "In Friendship's Name," was heartily applauded and was most deserving of it. Mr. Higgins' fine voice was heard to decided advantage in "Nash the Old Cherry Tree, Sweet Marie," and he had to respond to several encores.

A GREAT PICTURE AT THE UNIQUE TODAY.

To judge by the crowds that flock nightly to the Unique it is easily the most popular place of its kind in St. John. Today they are presenting one of the strongest bills ever put on in this city, consisting of three of the latest motion pictures and two beautiful illustrated songs. The feature picture is called "The Gipsy Girl's Love," and is without doubt one of the most fascinating dramas ever produced. Bianca, a young gipsy girl, is in love with Mortimer, a man belonging to a different tribe. This young man is in honor bound to wed a young woman whom he had known since childhood. The gipsy girl cannot understand this and resents it very much, and actually stopped his wedding to the other girl at the church door. The brother of his bride-to-be promptly accuses Mortimer of being a villain and challenges him to a duel. They take their places and then Mortimer is surprised to see his opponent fall when the word was given to fire, as he had fired his pistol in the air. They accuse him of being a murderer, but Bianca discovers that a young gipsy boy in the bushes fired the shot which killed the man. For betraying the boy, her tribe drive her out. Mortimer meets her secretly and his heart is filled with love for the sacrifice she has made; then he learns of her love and gives his in return. Two other good pictures, "Music that Charms," and "The Memorabilia." New songs by the two high-class lady vocalists, Miss Mae Power and Miss A. Outous. No objectionable pictures are ever shown in this house.

ADGIES LIONS ARRIVE AT HAPPY HOUR.

Large crowds were present at the Happy Hour yesterday. Although suffering from a cold, Miss Holmes sang The Summer Boat in splendid style, and Mr. Buchanan, I Love and The World is Mine, from The Walts Dream, both singers receiving their customary encores. As an extra attraction Adgie's Lions were placed on exhibition and during intermissions held receptions for those who cared to call on them. During one of the intermissions, the lions were fed, and it proved a delightful and interesting sight. Australian Native Dances, a hand colored picture, is most interesting. Taken at the Australian exhibit in the Franco-British Exposition, the dances are the same as were given for the U. S. fleet during their recent visit to Australia. The Wild Coast of Cornwall shows some rugged scenery and a realistic storm at sea, with waves running mountains high. A Love Affair of Olden Days is a dramatic picture. New songs today by Prof. Tins and Harry LeRoy. Last time for these pictures. Let the children see Adgie's Lions. Perfect care will be taken of the children at the matinee.

AT THE CEDAR.

No performances at the Cedar Theatre this afternoon or evening. Open again on Friday with Farley and Dugan, the expert clown dancers, who are the talk of the town. A new picture programme has arrived. Don't miss this big show.

A LIMITED LUXURY.

Two Irishmen were discussing the phenomenon of sleep. Said one, "O'hear as was av thin posthry lady calls it 'bald nature's hair restorer'." "Yis," assented the other, "slaps a grand luxury. It's a pity a man can't kape awake long enough to tudy it. Jist with he's thinkin' that a folne long shooose he'll be havin', begorra, it's mornin'!
