Drives Asthma before it. The smoke or vapor from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy gives asthma no chance to linger. It eradicates the cause. Our experience with the relief giving remedy shows how actual and positive is the success it gives. It is the result of long study and experiment, and was not submitted to the public until its makers knew it would do its work well.

All the London Presbytery delegates, except two ministers, voted for church union at the general assembly, when the proposal was carried by a vote of 406 to 88. Captain John Case, of the London fire department, was killed and four other firemen were hurt when a fire truck was struck and wrecked by a locomotive at the Talbot street crossing of the G. T. R. in London on Sunday. The firemen were responding to an alarm of fire, which proved to be false. Acting in haste so as not to delay the firemen, the crossing watchman, J. Primm, raised the gates after a train from the east had passed, not observing that another train was coming from the west. The watchman has been arrested, charged with manslaughter.

Becomes Great Lakes Pilot.

D. G. McAlpine was successful in receiving a first-class pilot's license for the Great Lakes and their connecting waters before the U. S. Marine Government, at Milwaukee, Wis., on June 15th.

The license calls for the piloting of all steam or sail vessels of unlimited tonnage on all lakes.

Middlesex Tax Rate.

Six and three-quarter mills was the tax rate as definitely decided upon by the county council at its session Friday afternoon.

The rate although an increase on the whole of about two mills over last year's rate, was made imperative because of the patriotic funds donation of $2,000 a month and the provincial war tax of $3,192.75, as levied on the county by the Provincial Government.

Masonic Service.

The members of Lorne Lodge No. 282, A. F. & A. M., with a few visiting brethren from Melbourne and Wardsville, met at their lodge rooms on Sunday evening and marched to St. John's church, where anniversary services for the order were conducted by Bro. Rev. Wm. Lowe, of Lucan, a former rector at Glencoe. Some fifty or sixty of the fraternity were in the march.

Mr. Lowe's address was one of the best expositions of Free Masonry that has ever been presented in Glencoe, dealing with "What it is, and what it is not" in a comprehensive, lucid and pleasing manner, serving to correct many a misconception of the order.

His discourse made it clear that the Masonic order was not a secret society as the term is often misunderstood, and that in no sense could it ever be said to have sought to cover the misdeeds of its members.

Its foundation was the Word of God; its purposes were all of the highest ideals of morality, and no atheist or unbeliever could ever become a Mason. Mr. Lowe, as its main object, the building of character, and its signs and symbols were beautiful portrayals of the constructive art.

Yet Masonry was not infallible; in the order as well as in the church and other Christian enterprises there are sometimes to be found those who are unworthy. But in no case does the order seek to screen infraction of civil, moral or religious law.

Splendid music was furnished by the choir of the church, and altogether the services were inspiring and impressive.

Death of Mrs. Boyd.

The death occurred at her home on Concession street, Glencoe, on Friday, of Mrs. Boyd, widow of the late Wm. J. Boyd, of London, a traveler for the business house of A. M. Smith.

Mrs. Boyd died 14 years ago last April. About a year ago Mrs. Boyd came to Glencoe with her daughter, Miss Gladys Lillian, a graduate of the Royal Academy of London, England, and took up her residence on Concession street, where Miss Boyd received a large class in musical instruction.

Mrs. Boyd had been in ill health for a long time with heart trouble. She was fifty years of age. Besides her daughter, she leaves one brother and two sisters—Charles, in Toronto; Miss Glendenning, in England; and Mrs. Connors, in Texas. Three sisters-in-law are Mrs. G. A. Patterson, Glencoe; Mrs. James Gilbert, Moss; and Mrs. Chas. Colerick, London. Although she had been a resident of Glencoe but a short period, Mrs. Boyd made many friends and was generally esteemed.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon. Service was held at her late home, conducted by Rev. C. H. P. Owen, rector of St. John's church, and which Mrs. Boyd was a member. The remains were then taken to London and interment made in Woodland cemetery. There were many beautiful floral pieces from friends.

The Late Mrs. Loucks.

A St. Thomas paper says:—The death occurred on Sunday afternoon, June 12th, of Mrs. Addie Loucks, wife of Rufus T. Loucks, at the family residence, 21 Balclutha street, after a comparatively short illness.

The late Mrs. Loucks was born at White Lake, Ontario, and had been a resident of St. Thomas about four years. Her husband is at present employed as a machinist at the Canada Iron Foundry, Limited.

Deceased was a member of Knox Presbyterian church, and was highly respected by all who knew her. Besides a sorrowing husband, she leaves to mourn her loss five sisters and three brothers—Miss Kathleen Barbour and Miss Bella, at Almonte, Ontario; Mrs. Robert McDaniel, Carlton Place, and Misses Jessie and Mamie Barbour at home; also her father and mother at White Lake, and two brothers, W. A. Barbour, jr., of Calander, Ont., and James Barbour, who is at present in Northwestern Canada.

The funeral took place on Wednesday from her late residence, and was largely attended. Captain the Rev. N. McGillivray officiated at the services. Interment took place in the St. Thomas cemetery.

Among the beautiful floral offerings was a large pillow from the husband, a large wreath from the Canadian Iron Corporation, and many sprays from relatives and friends. Among the relatives attending from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. W. Barbour and W. Barbour, jr., White Lake; Miss Kate and Miss Bella Barbour, Almonte; Mrs. Fred Kiler, Detroit; Miss Myrtle Loucks, Detroit; Mrs. McArthur, Mrs. John Leitch, Glencoe; Chas. Loucks and daughter, Southwold, and Mrs. O. Dewey, Glencoe.

Mrs. Loucks, formerly Miss Addie Barbour, lived in Glencoe for about four years prior to her marriage. She was a member of the Glencoe Presbyterian church and also of the choir. While here she made her home with Mrs. Oley Dewey, and was well known and highly esteemed.

Friday night—Tait's Corners.

Christopher McIntosh Dies.

Christopher Adam McIntosh, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. McIntosh, of Glencoe, passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital, London, on Thursday morning, in his 19th year. His death was the outcome of a surgical operation performed a few days before. Good hopes were entertained for his recovery for some time after the operation, but complications set in owing to a previous operation for appendicitis some years ago not having proved a success.

The news of his death was a great shock to his family and friends. He was a young man of exemplary character and was greatly esteemed by all who knew him. The funeral service was held at the home of his parents here on Friday evening and was conducted in the absence of Mr. Weir, his pastor, by Rev. Mr. Owen, of St. John's church. On Saturday morning the remains were taken to Brigden, his former home, and after a short service at the residence of Alexander Shaw were interred in Bear Creek cemetery.

The sympathy of the community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh and family, which was expressed in part by the many tokens from near friends and neighbors.

The Fight at Ypres.

Pte. Cecil C. Bechill, who was wounded June 2nd at Ypres, writes from hospital, Oxford, England, under date of June 5 and 7 to his father and sister in Glencoe, telling a little of his experience in the recent great battle where so many Canadians were killed or wounded.

Speaking of his wound he says: It is but slight. He is able to go hobbling about and hopes soon to be all right again for my turn on the front line, and Shorncliffe to await once more his turn to go to the front. It is a small wound on the side of the left knee, which also was twisted when he was buried in a communication trench. The nurses at the hospital "are just like mothers to us; they couldn't be better."

Continuing, he says:—Now for a few words about the bombardment and fight we had with old Kaiser Bill's friends. First thing on the morning of the 2nd of June the Germans turned all the guns they had on the front of the salient at Ypres, and such a bombardment I thought was an impossibility. Talk about shells—say, they fell around us just like rain, and our regiment was in the front line, and after the Germans had as nearly all killed or wounded they blew up a mine under us, and that, along with the hellish rain of shells that was kept on us, wiped out our whole battalion save a few. And by God's grace I was among that few who are still alive.

I got to a dressing station and had my knee dressed and then tried to walk out to the place where the ambulance was calling for us. By the help of a comrade I got there and waited for my turn on the ambulance. Shortly after 9 o'clock p. m. I got into an ambulance and we were off. As we were going down the road Fritz was shelling the road, and although we didn't hit us he knocked a lot of mud on us. I got to the 3rd Canadian Clearing Station after a half hour's ride and stayed there all night. In the morning I was helped on the train and we were off to Boulogne, and after another dressing or two and a night's rest I was sent to the boat, and in an hour and twenty minutes we were in England and we were taken, by train again, to Oxford where I am at present.

I must now go back and tell you where I left Harry Finlayson, and from what I hear Allan Newport was also there somewhere. Anyway, Harry Finlayson was there, and alive and well, as I last saw or heard of him just before the counter attack which we made on the night of June 2nd. We certainly drove the enemy back, but how far and further they were lacking from then on, for I was then sent to the dressing station. My chum, H. F. Walker, was all right the last I heard of him, and that was just before I went to the dressing station.

It is an experience I'll never forget, and some of the sights I saw will be my pleasantest memories of Ypres, for that is the place I have been for the last three months—and I know what a hell on earth it truly is.

Orchestra of eleven pieces at Tait's Corners garden party.

Mrs. Warren, Toronto, Dead

The news of the sudden death of Mrs. John M. Warren, of Toronto, last Thursday was a severe shock to her mother and to the whole community.

Mrs. Warren was the second eldest daughter of the late Rev. Neil McKinnon and Mrs. A. C. McKinnon, of Glencoe, and was born at the manse, Kilmarin, Ontario, in the year 1881.

She was married four years ago to John M. Warren, ex-alderman of Toronto, and besides her husband leaves two small children—a girl three years and boy two years of age.

The deceased took sick early in the morning and died at six o'clock in the evening of the same day of heart trouble, of which she had eight attacks before.

The funeral took place on Saturday at eleven o'clock at Acton cemetery. Those of the family who were able to attend were her mother and Mrs. A. D. McLellan; Dr. and Mrs. Meredith, of Pittsburg; Mary, of Newmarket, and Ellis, of Port Arthur.

Being a her unless pilot's license for the Great Lakes and their connecting waters before the U. S. Marine Government, at Milwaukee, Wis., on June 15th.

The license calls for the piloting of all steam or sail vessels of unlimited tonnage on all lakes.
