

From the SATURDAY LEDGER, March 18th, 1893.

A vast amount of useful and exceedingly interesting information is contained in Mr. C. C. Taylor's book, "TORONTO 'CALLED BACK,'" a copy (the third edition) of which has been sent us by the author.

Mr. Taylor has received the most flattering testimonials from men, and women also, in every walk of life. Princes and princesses, prime ministers, professors and members of parliament seem to have vied with each other in showering upon the author their warmest encomiums. Acknowledgments have also been received from Her Majesty the Queen and the Dowager Empress of Germany. It was suggested by the late Senator Macdonald that a copy of Mr. Taylor's book should be placed in every public library and reading-room in Great Britain, to the end that the City of Toronto might be well and favorably known throughout the old land.

The author deserves great credit for the production of "TORONTO 'CALLED BACK,'" and it is sincerely to be hoped that he may reap a rich pecuniary return for his labour.

A Present for the Princess.—Mr. C. C. Taylor, of the Custom House, is forwarding a copy of his book, "TORONTO 'CALLED BACK,'" to Her Royal Highness the Princess May, as a wedding present.

The copy is a beautiful specimen of the perfection to which bookbinding in Toronto has been brought. In color, a delicate blue, with the Royal Arms emblazoned in gold on the cover. The volume makes a very handsome present, even to Royalty:

From the GLOBE, August 23rd, 1893.

Mr. C. C. Taylor, of the Custom House, has determined to forward to Princess May, as a wedding present, an exquisitely bound copy of his well-known volume, "TORONTO 'CALLED BACK,'" a fifth edition of which is now on the press. The binding was done in the Methodist Book Room.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Taylor's literary work has been recognized in England by his being elected a Fellow of the Imperial Institute.

"I am getting a little honor out of the book, anyway," remarked the author, "though it may not bring me much money."

From the MAIL, August 30th, 1893.

Wedding Gift to Princess May.—Mr. Conyngham C. Taylor is forwarding a very handsomely bound copy of "TORONTO 'CALLED BACK'" as a wedding present to Princess May. The binding is very elaborate, and of the finest quality, in navy blue and gold. On one side of the cover is the Royal Arms, on the other the Arms of the City of Toronto. The work is very artistic, and will no doubt be appreciated by the royal recipient.

It may be stated that Mr. Taylor, whose services in making Toronto known throughout Great Britain have been very valuable, has been elected a Fellow of the Imperial Institute.

From SATURDAY NIGHT, September 2nd, 1893.

Mr. Conyngham C. Taylor, of this city, has forwarded a very handsome copy of his well-known book, "TORONTO 'CALLED BACK,'" as a wedding present to Princess May. It is a book that will command attention anywhere.

The Methodist Book Room people exerted all their skill in binding the volume, and scored a great success.

The cover is a delicate blue, with gold trimmings, on one side being the Royal Arms, and on the other the Arms of the City of Toronto.

Anything finer in the way of binding it would be difficult to conceive, and as for the contents of the book, it may be said that the author of it has just received the distinguished honor of being appointed a Fellow of the Imperial Institute on the strength of it.

Mr. Taylor has another handsomely-bound book on exhibition at Chicago, and left on Friday for that city.

"TORONTO 'CALLED BACK'" is now in its fourth edition, and although its author has never profited one cent by it, he has the knowledge that he has conferred a boon on the city, and saved posterity a great deal of tedious research.

From the MAIL, April 27th, 1891.

A matter that will come before the City Council this evening is the recommendation of the Executive Committee that the city purchase some 450 copies of Mr. C. C. Taylor's work, "TORONTO 'CALLED BACK,'" which are now held at various points in the United Kingdom for distribution. The recommendation is one that should be accepted without hesitation, as no better use could be made of the money than in advertising this city and making its progress known in England.

Several copies of Mr. Taylor's excellent book placed in every public library in the United Kingdom would be a lasting and most effectual monument to our city's prosperity.
